REVOLUTION IN GREECE

New Government Installed

Michalakoupoulos Steps Out; Papanastasion May be Successor

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ATHENS, June 25.—The Greek government under the Premiership of Michalakoupoulos has been deposed and a new government under military control is installed at Athens. The revolutionary movement started at dawn simultaneously in Athens and Saloniki, when antigovernment forces, after a brief and harmless fusillade, seized the telegraph office and cut communications.

The military movement had been foreseen for several days, but up to the last minute the government had declared itself master of the situation and was absolutely convinced of the loyalty of the troops.

At 5 o'clock this morning, however, Gen. Pangalos, who was former generalissimo of the Greek army and held the office of Minister of War for a short time, with a number of officers, occupied the barracks of the regiment of engineers and forthwith issued an ultimatum to the government demanding its resignation and holding the ministry responsible for any bloodshed.

OTHER ULTIMATUMS

At the same time an ultimatum was issued by Admiral Hadjikiriakos, former Minister of Marine, who was aboard the warship Averoff and by the commander of the troops at Saloniki.

The whole of the Athens garrison did not at first declare in favor of the revolution and Premier Michalakoupoulos and his Cabinet remained in session in the Parlia-

Finds Abd-el-Krim's Forces Well Equipped; Expert in Camouflage

(The following account is from the diary of Larry Rue, American newspaper man who has just returned to Tangier, Morocco, from a visit to the general headquarters of Abd-el-Krim, leader of the Riffan forces, now at war with France and Spain. Mr. Rue obtained from Abd-el-Krim the terms on which he was ready to make peace with his foes.)

BY LARRY RUE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, by the Chicago Tribune]

TANGIER, June 25.—Following divers vicissitudes in a dilapidated motorboat, we slipped out of Tangier and, eluding the patrol, went up the straits. On several occasions we narrowly missed detection by Spanish and French patrol ships, and often as we hugged the shore to avoid the patrol we came under the fire of Riffian rifles.

Early in the morning following the afternoon of our departure we passed the town of Adelou and an hour later arrived at an open beach, which we approached with every caution. Our pilot slipped ashore and did not come back for half an hour. We could not see a sign of life on shore, but finally the pilot returned, bringing with him a guard who took charge of our boat.

We went up a hill to see the captain of the Riffian outpost, which was hidden in the cliffs and under the branches as effectively as if it had been camouflaged by the best European experts. Four tents were so effectively camouflaged that they seemed a part of the landscape, even a few yards away.

We entered a dugout which was spotlessly clean. The captain invited us to sit on a carpet while he called the Emperor by telephone. While waiting, a number of soldiers brought us a meal, consisting of eggs, barley bread and a mutton stew with boiled potatoes, in which every one dipped his bare fingers.

WORD FROM SULTAN

In half an hour a telephone message from the Sultan came to us to proceed to Agadir. Returning, we passed a flock of probably 600 goats shepherded by girls and young boys. We got away at 5 o'clock and were fired upon again by Riffian snipers as we proceeded along the coast. When we reached our destination we again could not make out any trace of life, although we were but a few feet from shore. Suddenly, however, twenty Riffian riflemen dashed out, entered a rowboat and pulled us ashore.

Within 100 yards from the beach we came to an encampment where there were possibly 100 men hidden in tents and dugouts, which it was impossible to see until one was immediately upon them. Machine guns and other armaments captured from the Spaniards were cleverly hidden, guarding every entrance.

A messenger was immediately dispatched to Abd-el-Krim. He returned that evening and told me it would be necessary to give up my letters of introduction. This at first I refused to do, but a day later did so, and received a summons to proceed to general headquarters.

The summons was brought by a majestic Moor riding a black stallion. He greeted me with "Good day, you have probably heard of me. I am Kaid Maddou, formerly delegate of the Riffian republic abroad. The Emir commands that you be brought to him immediately."

After half an hour's ride through hilly country and across fields where women were working, we reached the GHQ. En route Maddou complained because American papers had not given the Riffians a fair deal. He told me that he was the Emir's right-hand man and that he was given spare jobs about GHQ which did not come under special departments, such as the care of prisoners, ordnance, secret service, etc.

MEETS ABD-EL-KRIM

Abd-el-Krim's headquarters are situated in the middle of a fruitful valley yielding barley. There were several houses near-by and sheep, goats and horses were grazing. I spent two days here consulting with Abd-el-Krim. The Emir consulted with me on the political situation in Europe. What he was most interested in was the elements of parliamentary government, the construction of legislative chambers, how parties were formed, etc. He may know a great deal about fighting in the Riff, but he has no more knowledge of the outside world than that of an eighth-grade schoolboy in America.

I arranged to leave Agadir and cross to an island in the Bay of Alhecumas, which was held by the Spaniards. I left the general headquarters with Maddou for Snada. When we arrived there the entire village came out to see the European. They touched my clothing and stood around, gazing. The chief of the village placed a room at our disposal. It is in this village that the family of Raisuli, the bandit, is quartered. I wanted to interview Raisuli's wife, but when I was informed he had forty-five I gave this up. The son of the late bandit leader, who died in captivity, is quartered there, but he is closely guarded. We left Snada at 2:30 the next morning and arrived at Izzamoran at 11.

Abd-el-Krim may be the most

ALL ARMY OFFICERS TO FLY

War Department Officials Announce New Aviation Policy; Details to be Worked Out

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Actual flying as well as theoretical air service training for all officers in combat army units has been authorized by the War Department under a new aerial policy worked out by Brig.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum, chief of the operations section of the General Staff, and approved by Acting Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

Before the policy becomes fully operative, however, a special board of officers, to be convened at the War Department, will prepare courses of study for theoretical and practical instruction in aviation. These courses will be made part of the curriculum at the various Army schools. Even officers who cannot under existing law be compelled to fly in peace time, will be encouraged, beginning next year, to seek aerial experience. They would receive credit for it in War Department personal records.

For cadets at West Point the courses in both theoretical and practical aeronautics will be expanded. Members of the graduating classes will go direct from the Military Academy to an air-service flying field to supplement their training.

The announcement of the new aviation policy said the effect would be to "effect the close cooperation so essential to all branches of the Army in battle."

"By provisions of this policy," the statement added, "infantry, cavalry, artillery, other line officers and prospective General Staff officers are brought into close association with air service problems."

The change in policy was said to have been prompted "by aviation developments leading to a conclusion that all line officers require such knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the air service, as to permit them using it under all conditions of battle, and to the feeling that the general efficiency of such officers will be increased by a limited amount of actual experience in the air."

To increase interest in aviation among officers other than those actually assigned to the Army Air Service, the War Department has under consideration a proposal by which Congress would be requested to provide legislation giving those who take the courses of flying pay status and increased government insurance.

War Department staff officers are confident that all officers who can pass the physical tests will take advantage of the opportunity. None will be allowed to fly who fails in the physical test.

SHEFFIELD RETURNING TO MEXICO

Ambassador Expected to Start Back on Southern Trip Shortly

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Ambassador Sheffield will return to Mexico City, it was asserted at the State Department here today. The Ambassador is now in New York City recovering from a slight operation which he came to this country to have performed and it was said he was expected to start back and resume his post soon.

The Mexican government holds Ambassador Sheffield responsible, to a considerable extent at least, for the recent statement of Secretary Kellogg in which he declared that "conditions are not entirely satisfactory and we are looking to and expect the Mexican government to restore properties illegally taken and to indemnify American citizens." Ever since the issuance of his statement of the 12th inst., there have been rumors suggesting that Ambassador Sheffield might henceforth be person non grata in Mexico and therefore might not return, but officials have not indicated the slightest intention of heeding these rumblings, which are believed intended for home consumption in Mexico.

MEXICO OPENS BANK IN FALL

Institution With Capital of 100,000,000 Pesos Will Be Controlled by Government

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—The widely heralded "Bank of Mexico," for which the government is said to have set aside 40,000,000 pesos in the past three years, is to open September 15, next, according to a semiofficial statement circulated today.

With the opening of the bank, it is said, paper money will be circulated to replace gold and silver metallic currency.

FRENCH INTERESTED

It is understood the bank's capital will be 100,000,000 pesos, of which the government will subscribe 51 per cent, presumably to retain control. The balance of 49 per cent of the capital, it is reported, will be taken up by Mexican and foreign banking interests, chiefly French.

A technical committee appointed several months ago by President Calles has submitted its report to the Finance Minister. The report is now in the hands of the President and unless flaws are found in it, it is considered certain that President Calles will promulgate the necessary decree under the constitution to create the bank.

CAUSE OF FRICTION

It has been the government's stand from the first of the regime that the bank should be established and internal obligations inherited from the past administration be met before taking care of external debts, and payments as contained in the Lamont agreement. This point is one of the issues in the tense feeling between the United States and Mexico.

It has been the contention of Former United States Ambassador Warren and probably Ambassador Sheffield that Mexico should establish her international credit before paying off her internal debts.

COOLIDGE IS CAUGHT OUT IN RAINFALL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SWAMPSCOTT (Mass.) June 25. In the mood for rest and recreation, President Coolidge refused to stay indoors today despite a steady rain. Twice he took long walks, accompanied only by secret-service men.

After breakfast, Mr. Coolidge found himself a quarter of a mile from White Court, the summer White House, without raincoat or umbrella, when it began to drizzle. He received a slight wetting before reaching home.

Undaunted by the weather, Mrs. Coolidge took both a morning and afternoon walk in the rain with Rob Roy, her white collie, scampering at her side.

Aside from their walks, President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the day in seclusion. Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, their close friends, were luncheon guests, and twice Secretary Sanders motored from his office in Lynn to White Court for conferences with the President on routine matters.

Transacting his first business since arriving here, Mr. Coolidge appointed Harry Basset of Indianapolis to be a member of the United States Employee's Compensation Commission and announcement was made that tomorrow he would receive his first caller, Mayor Edward F. Quinn of Cambridge, Mass.

The latter will outline to Mr. Coolidge plans for his appearance in Cambridge July 3 to deliver an address in connection with the celebration of the 150th anniversary of George Washington's assumption of command over the Continental Army.

DEMENTED NOVICE POISES ON LEDGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Apparently unbalanced mentally by the departure of a preceptress for whom she had formed a great attachment, Josephine Breslie, 24 years of age, a novice in the Sacred Heart Institute for Children at New Haven, Ct., poised on a three-story ledge nearly an hour, threatening to jump, while nuns, firemen and police pleaded with her not to do so. She finally was rescued by firemen.

Marks of Years Are Broken

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—The heat wave which has hung over Central and Northern California for the past few days extended northward today breaking records of many years standing in Oregon, Washington and at Victoria, B. C. Coast points in the States were given relief by cooling ocean breezes while inland points in the central section were visited by excessive heat.

At Seattle, a record of thirty-five years was shattered when the mercury ascended to 98 deg.

Victoria, B. C., went one better by breaking a fifty-one year record with the thermometer at 95.

A train was derailed at Metolius, Or., when excessive heat spread the rails.

Portland reported its hottest June day, the heat providing sufficient impetus to push the mercury to 102. Forest fires in Central and Western Oregon were said to have broken out.

California also came in for its bit of record breaking at inland points. First place in the State goes to Sacramento, Fresno and Red Bluff where 112 deg. was registered, making it the hottest June day on record for the three inland cities.

The highest temperature ever recorded in Stockton was equalled when the thermometer soared to 108 deg., according to the official reading.

SOUTHLAND VISITED BY SHOWERS AND WIND

A thunderstorm, a hot wind that uprooted trees and light showers swept over Pasadena yesterday afternoon. Altadena reported a heavier shower. Hollywood reported a strong scorching wind of short duration and a light shower. Edendale received a sprinkle. Sierra Madre experienced a hot wind. Porterville reported intense heat.

Los Angeles temperature rose and fell intermittently during the afternoon and clouds obscured the late afternoon sky. Altogether, it appeared that the weather man had upset a bag of tricks over the country.

SUDDEN CHANGE

At Pasadena the sun was shining brightly about 2 o'clock and the thermometer registered about 90 deg. when suddenly the sky darkened and heavy thunder pealed from the clouds. A light shower fell for about ten minutes, wetting buildings, streets and straw hats, but not the weather instrument sufficiently to register any precipitation.

The sky remained cloudy throughout the afternoon and about 5:30 o'clock a wind of extraordinary heat swept over Pasadena, blowing down some trees, stripping others of heavy branches and causing minor damage. The wind was preceded by another light shower at about 5 o'clock.

A report from Sierra Madre said the wind which swept down from the mountains was superheated like one that comes off a burning forest.

Thunder and lightning in the Sierra Madre Mountains was reported by residents in Sycamore Grove.

WIND IN HOLLYWOOD

Rain sprinkled Hollywood Boulevard between the 5000 and 6500 block about 5:40 o'clock. A fiercely hot wind sent the thermometer up about 20 degrees in a few minutes, it was reported. The wind was

Americans in Trouble Zone Request Washington to Issue Ultimatum

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CANTON, June 26 (Noon.)—Many Chinese troops are gathering in positions in the Chinese city opposite Shameen, the foreign settlement, where the firing between Chinese demonstrators and British and French marines occurred last Tuesday. There has been no firing up to the present, but the tension is very great.

Strict orders have been given the senior naval officer in command of the defense force to concentrate the firing on buildings occupied by the Chinese troops should the latter, who have quick-firing guns, attack.

Owing to the exposed position of the fronts of the buildings occupied by foreigners, holes have been broken through the rear walls to afford a means of escape should this become necessary.

ACTION IS ASKED BY AMERICANS IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, June 25.—The American Association membership, composed of American citizens in all lines of work in China, today passed the following resolution, which it cabled to the State Department.

"We urge the American government to energetic co-operation with the other powers and the adoption of the strongest attitude and representation to the Chinese government to suppress the lawlessness directed against foreigners, which, in our opinion, is due primarily to the long-existing unsettled political conditions, and aggravated by soviet propaganda; that China be held strictly responsible for all loss of life, property and business incident to the present situation. Absolute observance to the existing treaties is essential until modified through orderly processes provided by the Washington conference."

Extraordinary precautions by both the Chinese and foreign authorities prevented an outbreak in consequence of the Dragon Bow summer festival today, and indications point to the reopening of native shops and banks tomorrow, despite the efforts of the Kuomintang radicals to intimidate the merchant classes. A police and volunteer cordon about the city conducted a thorough search of all Chinese, confiscating revolvers and inflammatory literature.

Reports from Canton indicate a tense situation, necessitating the withdrawal of all foreigners from Kwangtung Province to Hongkong excepting a male guard in the Shameen concession. The local press is filled with reports of the Canton battle, stating the Chinese dead totaled thirty, and the wounded seventy.

Marshal Wu Pei Fu, the defeated Chihli leader, today broke his long silence, publicly refusing to join Gen. Chang-Tso-Lin and Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang in combating the foreign enemies, stating:

SLIDE FORMS LARGE LAKE

Other Avalanches Feared as New Tremor Shakes Gros Ventre Valley Region

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

JACKSON (Wyo.) June 25.—The geography of the Jackson's Hole region was permanently changed by the gigantic landslide of Tuesday, forest officials say. The Gros Ventre Valley above the natural dam, formed when the north end of Sheep Mountain crashed into it, is destined to become a lake more than a mile in width, six to seven miles long and nearly 200 feet deep, it will take four weeks, it is estimated, for the river to fill the lake.

This slide was preceded by earth tremors which were felt here last Sunday. Another tremor was felt yesterday, and it is feared that further slides may take place, as other parts of the mountain side, undermined by the hidden seepage of melting snow, are believed to be loosening.

RANCHER ESCAPES

The escape of Gil Huff, rancher, who raced before the avalanche on a fast horse for half a mile, was almost miraculous. Huff was riding near his ranch when the mountain above him, densely covered with forest, began to move.

Huff turned and began his desperate ride. The slide, with a tremendous roar, bore down on him a wall of boulders, trees and earth nearly 100 feet high. His frenzied horse, struck by flying stones, finally leaped to higher ground at one side, and the slide missed him by only a few feet, he reported.

Huff dashed to his home, where his wife and daughter were. The slide had narrowly missed the building. Today it is under many feet of water. He saved his belongings by working through the night. Several head of his cattle were killed. Two ranches above him are wiped out, and it is feared that the forest ranger station is in danger of being submerged by rising waters.

Two cowboys driving cattle along the road which was entirely covered by the slide, missed death by a few minutes.

At the scene of the phenomenon trees lean crazily in all directions; there is heard the rumble of moving rocks and clouds of dust are seen rising from small slides, indicating that the great gash in the side of the mountain still is alive. All traffic over the Gros Ventre road is forbidden, and it is believed that it will require years to rebuild the highway through the stricken region.

Above the dam on the thirty remaining miles of roadway, there are a number of automobiles, which will present a problem when the attempt is made to bring them out.

Residents of Kelley, Wyo., four miles below the slide, hurriedly moved to higher ground when the river dried up, fearing a temporary stoppage would be followed by a flood. Ranchers depending on the river for irrigation will suffer severely from the diversion of the waters.

SHEPHERD CASE TO JURY TODAY

State's Attorney Crowe to be Closing Speaker

Vitriolic Attack Launched at Prosecution Aides

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Liberty, prison or death will be decided tomorrow for William Darling Shepherd after State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe finishes his argument to to the jury.

Today Shepherd broke down and cried as William Scott Stewart, his attorney, concluded his argument before the jury that is trying Shepherd for his life on the charge that he murdered "Billy" McClintock to inherit the youth's $1,000,000 estate. Mrs. Shepherd also gave way under the moving force of the attorney's oratory and sobbed loudly in her seat across the aisle.

But tomorrow it will be different. Shepherd can expect nothing kind to be said about him, nothing of a friendly expression can he hoped for when the State's Attorney of Cook county speaks to the jury.

Shepherd's attorney today viciously attacked the reputation of "Dr." Charles C. Faiman, State's star witness, during his closing arguments before Judge Lynch.

HURLS EPITHETS

Faiman, Stewart insisted, was unworthy of belief by the jurors. He asserted that the belief of the "doctor" that he would be given immunity included immunity for all past and future acts for running his "diploma mill" and for practicing "quack medicine." He assailed him with a choice variety of epithets and pointed out that even the State's Attorney had refused to vouch for his credibility, preferring to allow his appearance as a court's witness.

Mr. Stewart assailed the motives of Miss Isabelle Pope, Billy's fiancee, in her attempted deathbed marriage with the young millionaire.

"It was not a case of love, honor and obey," he declared, "but one of marrying and getting Billy's money.

"Would you find Shepherd guilty if he did interfere with a deathbed marriage?

"And here with the boy dead in the house, Shepherd told a reporter, 'If anybody came out here trying to marry the boy while he was so sick, I would have thrown them out.'

"Is Shepherd making any secret about his position?"

"FRAMED EVIDENCE"

Rival guardians, jealous of Billy's affections and his property fighting between themselves as Billy grew to manhood, was the picture Attorney Stewart drew for the jury.

Then Billy's death, leaving the Shepherds triumphant, Reichmann disgruntled, vowing revenge and a contest over the will, going the length of charging a poison plot, even trying to hang Shepherd as the penalty of his humiliation.

"Framed evidence," shouted the defense attorney, as he drew his word picture for the scrutiny of the jurors.

Stewart ended with the citation of a number of law cases, one of which dealt with the execution of a prisoner who was convicted on circumstantial evidence. Twenty years later, he was found to be innocent of the crime for which he paid the death penalty.

"You can draw your own conclusions," said Stewart.

After Stewart had finished there was a brief recess. Then his law partner, W. W. O'Brien began the last of the arguments in Shepherd's behalf.

CALLED RIDICULOUS

Mr. O'Brien asked the jury "to sign your verdict in record time. This thing has gone far enough. There is a limit to everything."

He argued there never was a letter in Faiman's files from Shepherd. The testimony of Mrs. Rheubell was recalled in which she said she went all through the files for 1923 and saw no letter from Shepherd. This is the letter in which Shepherd was asserted to have inquired about a course in bacteriology and which Faiman says Shepherd returned and retrieved, paying Faiman $50.

"Judge Olson," shouted the attorney, "after Faiman's arrest went through the files and found nothing relating to Shepherd. He may be crazy but he knew what he wanted."

O'Brien took the attitude that the prosecution of Shepherd is ridiculous.

Tomorrow State's Attorney Crowe will base his speech on three points: First, he will argue the evidence to a conclusion of Shepherd's guilt; second, he will refute the imputation of a "frame-up" against himself and his assistants, and, third, he will charge a "frame-up" to Attorneys Stewart and O'Brien.

GREEK REVOLT OUSTS PREMIER

ment Building, guarded by loyal troops.

In the afternoon Gen. Pangalos and his staff took up quarters at the War Ministry, where he assumed the attitude of leader of the revolution, and issued orders accordingly. In the meantime, the government resigned, and the provisional President of the republic, Admiral Coundouriotis, sent out an urgent summons to the parliamentary leaders. He invited M. Papanastasios, former Premier, to organize a Cabinet, but in political circles it is generally believed that Pangalos has designs upon the Premiership and would not likely be willing to serve under Papanastasios.

Admiral Hadjikiriakos assumed command of the fleet and is expected to become Minister of Marine. It is understood Admiral Coundouriotis intended to resign the Presidency, but was dissuaded.

MILD REVOLUTION

Though there were possibilities of a really serious situation, the revolution from a military standpoint was a mild affair, and, except for a few blank cartridges fired, nothing that seemed like war happened. Revolutionary troops are occupying public buildings.

The populace seems strangely unmoved by the event, and is evidently becoming accustomed to such coups.

Pangalos issued a manifesto, declaring that in acting as he did he was merely carrying out the wishes of the people, who demanded the redemption and purification of the country.

The discontent of the officers, to which the movement was chiefly due, was caused by the feeling that the Michalakoupoulos Cabinet had not paid sufficient attention to the reorganization of the military forces, and had neglected to develop the national riches of the country, while its foreign policy had achieved only failure, notably with regard to Serbia and Turkey. The officers further complained that too great concessions have been accorded foreign capital, making Greece financially tributary to foreigners.

All the leaders of the military movement are strong republicans and are anxious to set up a more democratic government.

SUPERSTITION SPURS CHINESE

Belief in Invulnerability Held by Fanatic Soldiery in Attacks on Foreigners Ever Since Boxer Conflict; Rescue of Nationals in Interior Difficult

BY CHARLOTTE LEHNHAUSEN

Practically all uprisings in China have been antiforeign. In every one to date the grotesque has been commonplace, for most of the soldiers, though using modern firearms, believe themselves invulnerable. They believe that bullets can be turned aside by the mere waving of paper with a talismanic charm written on it.

It has been pointed out many times that the belief of invulnerability among the common people of China is a symptom of approaching danger to foreigners.

Every foreign settlement in China lies under constant apprehension of being called at any time to protest itself against attack. Every measure for self-protection is taken, and every settlement, or nearly every one, has a volunteer fighting corps.

HAS LARGE FORCE

Shanghai, containing the largest foreign settlement in China, has a volunteer forces of more than 2000 men, composed of Americans, British, Germans, Austrians, Portuguese, Italians and other resident foreigners. But 2000 men is only a handful against a frenzied army of thousands that could be incited in the native city, practically a part of Shanghai, with a population that is something like 2,000,000.

It is comparatively an easy matter to rescue foreigners from perilous conditions in Shanghai, where they can be taken to safety on a government boat, but it is not an easy matter to reach them in the interior of China, where foreign settlements are small and there is no access by rail. In fact, there is no way to reach them at all. This was evidenced in the Boxer war in 1900, when Manchu Yu Hsien, Governor of Shansi province, gave orders to his soldiers to gather the foreign missionaries together into one body. After this was done the soldiers inflicted humiliations and mutilations on them, then killed every one.

AGITATORS INCREASE

Antiforeign agitators have been increasing steadily ever since the Boxer uprising, or the I Ho Tuan, as the patriotic harmony train bands were known in China at that time, and the Ko Lao Hui, or Elder Brother Society, into which the former merged when the Boxer movement was suppressed. Both societies, founded on the ancient and patriotic desire to banish foreigners from their country, played an important part in Chinese politics a quarter of a century ago. The Elder Brother Society has more political power in merchants' guilds industrial associations and in small tongs than can be found in all the lodges, clubs, societies, unions and political organizations of the West put together.

Under attack, foreigners in the past have had but little protection from the Chinese military, which at present approximates 1,500,000 men, scattered about in the different provinces under the control of tuchuns or military governors, many of whom are powerful enough to disregard, and do disregard, the mandates of the northern or southern government to which they may profess to belong.

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

At the best little dependence can be placed on these troops by foreigners, for out of their ranks emerge the banditti that kill and rob foreigners and Chinese alike. In some cases the soldiers have been known to fraternize with the bandits, to supply them with ammunition and to divide the spoils.

As before stated, there has never been an uprising without the belief of invulnerability. The "Jossmen" who advanced on the city of Wanhsien, on the upper banks of the Yangtse River in Szechuan, in 1921, claimed to be descendants of heaven. They approached the city with a following of about 5000, armed with bamboo poles to which knives had been fastened. As they came they waved a little red flag before them to divert bullets.

The soldiers guarding Wanhsien met the insurgents a short distance from the city. The "Jossmen" waved their "invulnerable" red flag as the soldiers approached. At the sight of the red flag the soldiers fled precipitately to the safety of the city's walls. Some of the shots fired by the insurgents struck a British gunboat. The commander blew his siren which frightened the "Jossmen." They offered as an excuse that they had seen spirits and were firing at them.

LEADER KILLED

Warned they would be turned into spirits with bullets if they shot at the boat again, they gave no further trouble. The next morning the leader of the "Jossmen" was killed. A pink, green, black, white and striped banner had betrayed his presence. His head was cut off and exhibited. As the death of the leader was a difficult thing to explain away to the "invulnerables," the movement soon subsided.

There was an amazing amount of superstition in the Boxer following. The priests gave the soldiers a potion supposed to give them supremacy in conflict, and all carried strips of red paper upon which had been printed talismanic characters.

In antiforeign movements, such as the Boxer cult, many of the adherents sever a finger at the first joint and write their oath of fealty in blood. This custom was used by many of the agitators in the anti-Japanese riots of 1920. And it is not an uncommon occurrence for Chinese bandits to send the ear or the finger of a captive to his family as an urge for speedy ransom money. These are called "flesh tickets." Captives, as a rule, are speedily ransomed or put to death. This is because bandits generally take their victims to a mountain stronghold where food and ammunition cannot withstand a long siege.

FACE HARD TASK

Apprehending bandits and outlaws who perpetrate outrages against foreigners in China is not an easy task for foreign diplomats. "Saving the face" plays an important part in Chinese politics. Its shams and delusions are amazing. A Chinese official ordered to stamp out certain evils, posts the notice in public place, threatening dire punishment to offenders. If he does not want the order enforced he sends a yamen runner (official crier) to advise the people he is a handful against a frenzied army of thousands that could be incited in the native city, practically a part of Shanghai, with a population that is something like 2,000,000.

DRAGON DAY FESTIVAL OBSERVED QUIETLY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEKING, June 25.—After a wild night of rumors, wherein marines played Paul Revere, leaving at each American house mimeographed instructions for concentration at the legation, Pekin's anti-imperialist parade passed without incident. Additional strong police guards and Chinese troops were massed at our the legations and also along the line of the parade.

Although the anxiety has not ended, the best opinion is that the excitement will gradually subside and normal conditions will return. Millions of dollars are being raised for the Chinese strike fund, even American teachers in Chinese schools having 30 per cent of their wages deducted.

The Canton and Hongkong situations continue grave, while the Amoy authorities have asked that foreign ships be sent for the protection of nationals. Naval wireless reports indicate that the Yangtze ports are quiet.

Following a meeting of the diplomats to discuss yesterday's Chinese note, the Italian Minister called at the Foreign Office, where he said the powers had been pressing for a week to settle the Shanghai affair and are waiting for China to appoint a committee. Signor Corruti added that some of the thirteen demands were extraneous, regarding which the powers a week ago said they would ask their governments' authority to discuss immediately after a settlement of the Shanghai incidents should China formally request it. He insisted, however, that the actual Shanghai clash must first be settled.

He also informed China that certain of the demands are beyond the provinde of the diplomats and are purely questions of individual arrangement, such as factory laws. On the subject of extra territoriality Signor Corruti reminded China that the powers long ago had expressed their desire to negotiate, if China had asked that the commission be deferred. Should China formally invite the commission, the powers are ready to investigate.

The power insist on the separation of three phrases enumerated, putting wholly upon China the delays thus encountered. There is a strong suspicion that China is insincere regarding extra-territoriality, but is playing for popularity with the student bodies.

The radical elements continue cabling to Senator Borah, but the masses are calm, if not indifferent.

POLICE MOBILIZED FOR DRAGON BOAT FESTIVAL

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, June 25.—The dragon boat festival passed quietly here today after extraordinary precautions had been taken by the foreign authorities to prevent expected outbreaks. All volunteers, marines and police were mobilized and an armed ring was placed around the international settlement.

Cars carrying Chinese as well as suspicious pedestrians were searched and the whole settlement was subject to a thorough sieving as a result of a report that radical agitators intended to smuggle arms to the Chinese.

The native city was quiet, owing to strict enforcement of martial law by Chang Tso-Lin's Manchurian soldiers. Demonstrations, meetings and agitation planned on a large scale for today were forbidden.

The shipping tie-up now excludes only the Dollar company's ships, which thus far have not been hindered. All shops, offices and banks will reopen tomorrow in accordance with the decision of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, but no decision has been reached regarding the industrial and shipping strikes. All employees in Chinese mills have returned to work, however, thus clearly showing the anti-British and anti-Japanese character of the movement.

JAPANESE FIRM IN TERRITORIAL OPINION

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, June 25.—The formulation of Peking's demand for the abolition of all unequal treaties, including the return of the Manchurian leases, the unofficial text of which has been received, was not unexpected here, being regarded as the natural sequence of the desire of the Peking authorities to secure popular support to prevent the mob sympathy from swinging to the Canton government.

"It is impossible for the powers to give serious attention to the demand," says the Foreign Office. "The Washington conference covered the whole question of providing ways for China to regain all its sovereignty. Until all China demonstrates its fitness, extra territoriality remains. Certainly the present actions in no way show a readiness to guarantee foreigners adequate legal protection.

"Japan sympathizes with China's aspirations, but must co-operate fully with the other powers in the present crisis. We do not expect the present movement to continue long or become general. Coolness and firmness are the main requisites now.

"The most serious development is in Canton where the standing policy of the southern government is to harrass the British. The government there is openly backing the rioters, according to official reports."

A report from Shanghai that an Anglo-Japanese economic alliance is being formed is denied by the Foreign Office, where it is declared that all the political heads of Japan are agreed on a policy of adherence to concert in every particular.

BRITON DISCLAIMS RIOT RESPONSIBILITY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONGKONG, June 25.—The Chinese Civil Governor of Canton today received a reply to his protest to the British Consul-General in which the latter places all responsibility for the deaths of Chinese yesterday while they were parading opposite Shameen, the foreign settlement, upon the Chinese authorities.

In his note the Chinese Governor asserted that soldiers and police at the British concession suddenly opened fire with machine guns and rifles after the parade had passed almost entirely by Shakee street. The fire, the Chinese official contends, was directed at the crowds and was participated in by police and soldiers of the French concession, who followed the British lead.

A Portuguese gunboat fired big guns, with the result that the killed and wounded totaled more than 100. This brutal killing was premeditated and secretly planned, the Civil Governor asserts. When he heard the particulars, the Chingly amased, and in duty bound to enter the most serious protest. He added that theentire responsibility for the affair rested upon the civil and military officials at the French and British concession and the Portuguese soldiers and gunboats concerned.

The British Consul-General, replying, points out that the Portuguese gunboat took no part in the unfortunate affair. It was the defense forces of the British and French concessions alone who replied to an attack made on them by Chinese troops or military students on their side of the canal.

A newspaper reporter, who rushed to the scene from police headquarters, a short distance away, estimated that fifteen or twenty persons were trapped in the building and killed.

EVOLUTION LAW DENOUNCED

Defense Counsel Flays Those "Who in Ignorance Feel Ordained to Save Rest of Us"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DAYTON (Tenn.) June 25.—Withdrawal of an invitation for Darrow to address the Tennessee Bar Association at Friday because his presence "might be misconstrued," said a statement by Bainbridge Colby expressing surprise at the "tension" surrounding the approaching evolution trial, were high spots in otherwise dull period of preparation for the court battle.

Darrow, Colby and other attorneys for the defense of J. T. Scopes, indicted science teacher, have just concluded conferences in Knoxville.

Darrow departed for Chicago and the former Secretary of State for New York, while Dudley Field Malone returned to Dayton, stopping off in Chattanooga long enough to give a public statement of his views in trial issues.

"SHOCKING LEGISLATION"

Malone, whose statement was issued in behalf of all members of the defense staff, called "the shocking and abnormal character of the legislation" involved as "one of the most serious questions which could possibly arise to challenge the ability of the citizenship to rational self-government."

Malone declared he had no difficulty in holding with devotion to Christianity and also to evolution.

"I have come to Tennessee to intervene in this case in behalf of young men and young women who are entitled in all public institutions to be taught the truth and the whole truth," he said.

The country is suffering from "good people, who, in their ignorance, feel ordained to save the rest of us who stand in no need of their ideal of salvation," Malone said.

TO HELP CLEAR AIR

He added that he believed "an expose of Mr. Bryan and the psychology of people of that type" would help to clear the air "for straight thinking."

More than seventy teachers were elected by the Rhea County School Board today, but Scopes was not among them. His application for re-election was held in abeyance pending the outcome of his trial, scheduled to begin July 10. A vacancy was left in the science department, which will be filled after the trial.

EXPERTS ARE NAMED

A list of scientific experts who will be called to testify in the defense of Scopes was announced tonight by Dudley Field Malone. The list includes both scientific advisers and witnesses. All witnesses have consented to appear, Mr. Malone said. The list follows:

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, research professor of zoology, Columbia University, author of "Evolution of Religion" and "The Earth Speaks to Bryan" and of numerous papers on the relation of science and religion. The most active opponent of Mr. Bryan in the present discussion.

Dr. Edwin Conklin, professor of biology, Princeton University, author of "Direction of Human Evolution," and prominent member of the Congregational church.

Michael Pupin, professor of electro mechanics, Columbia University, distinguished author, scientist and inventor of the loading coils that made possible the long-distance telephone.

Prof. Kirkley F. Mather, chief of the department of geology, Harvard University, author of many books on scientific subjects and one of the leading geological authorities in the United States, he is a member of the Baptist church and superintendent of the Baptist Sunday-school in Newton, Mass.

Prof. Maynard M. Metcalfe of the zoology department, Oberlin College, Ohio, author of works on evolution and zoology, long associated with Congregational churches and colleges.

Arthur M. Miller, professor of geology, University of Kentucky lecturer and author of books on evolution and religion. Prof. Miller was Mr. Scopes's teacher of geology at the Kentucky institution.

Henry Higgins Lane, professor of zoology, University of Kansas, author of "Evolution and Christian Faiths."

Dr. Edward L. Rice, professor of biology, Ohio Wesleyan University, author and address entitled "Darwin and Bryan" and of numerous articles on science and religion which are generally regarded as authoritative.

Dr. J. G. Lipman, biologist, Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., author of works on biology and acknowledged as a leader in his branch of science.

Dr. Ward J. MacNeal, chief biologist of the post-graduate medical school, New York City.

Mr. Malone said all these advisers and witnesses are active members of various Christian denominations.

Arizonan Asks Divorce; Pleads Wife is Cruel

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RENO (Nev.) June 25.—Thomas J. Smith, said by his wife to be a former wealthy resident of Phoenix, Ariz., with a yearly income of $15,000 to $18,000, has been ordered by District Judge Bartlett to pay all preliminary expenses of Mrs. Smith in contesting his divorce suit. Costs include temporary alimony of $200 per month, $300 attorney's fees, and all railroad expenses.

Smith charges his wife with extreme cruelty, alleging she struck him several times, flung a cup of coffee in his face while they were in a Phoenix cafe, and threatened his life. Mrs. Smith denies all allegations and has countered with a cross-complaint charging desertion. She asks for a decree of separate maintenance.

LANDMARK OF MUSIC PASSES

New York's Steinway Hall Formally Closed

Patti and Many Others of Note Heard There

Shifting of Artistic Center Abandonment Course

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—One of the most famous musical landmarks in the country has just ended its career with the formal closing of old Steinway Hall on Fourteenth street, near Union Square, this city. Opened in 1866, the Hall resounded to the voices of Adeline Patti, Christine Nilsson, Charles Dickens, Edwin Forrest, and a host of other great musicians, actors and lecturers of the past. Now after nearly sixty years of existence, it is being abandoned by its builders as a result of the shifting of the city's artistic and social centers to locations further uptown.

From the time of its opening, in 1866, to 1890, the Hall was accounted the finest auditorium for concerts and addresses in the city. There practically all the musicians and lecturers of note in this country and abroad gave their New York appearances. There Charles Dickens gave the first of a series of readings from his own works and Adelaide Ristori, the Italian tragedienne, appeared, also in readings, assisted by Theodore Thomas and his orchestra. In the months that followed Christine Nilsson, "the Swedish nightingale," made her American debut at the Hall, as did also Anton Rubinstein, the pianist, and Henri Wieniawski, the violinist. Others who trod its boards during the following years were Edwin Forrest, Charlotta Patti, Henry M. Stanley, Lugi Arditi, Mark Twain, Ole Bull, Minnie Hauk, Rafael Joseffy Salvini, and Adelina Patti.

In more recent times the Hall has seen the New York debut of Fritz Kreisler, then 13 years of age, the appearance of Victor Herbert, fresh from the Court of Wurtemburg, where he was violoncellist to the King and concert engagements of such artists of note as Eugen D'Albert, Conard Ansorge, Arthur Nikisch, Anton Seidl, Mme. Lilli Lehmann, Emil Fisch, Emma Juch, and Mme. Marcella Sembrich.

ANGELENOS GIVE REALTY MEN ADVICE

Secretary and Treasurer of Local Board Speak at Detroit Convention

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, June 25.—Active participation in legislative matters for protection of the interests of realtors, is one of the important functions of a realty board, Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, declared today in an address before the legislative division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in convention here.

"In planning legislative work," he said, "the first essential is to provide for a standing committee on board policy to be composed of realtors who are in a position to give considerable time to matters affecting real property."

He suggested that the boards center their activities on a few important measures. Co-operation with the State officer in charge of licensing also was recommended.

An address on "Selling Long-Term Leases" was delivered by Robert Baker, treasurer of the Los Angeles board, before the sales division. The convention closes tomorrow.

Higher Wages for Women, is Plea of Cleric

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Women in industry and arbitration of labor disputes, were subjects of speakers at today's closing session of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems.

Restrictive immigration laws, by cutting down the supply of cheap labor, have seemingly impelled industry to turn more intensively toward negroes, women and children, said Rev. John M. Cooper, D.D., Washington, D. C., professor of sociology of the Catholic University of America.

In a high proportion of cases the living wage for women, Father Cooper said, should now be a family living wage. He cited census reports indicating that one-fourth of the women bread-winners in manufacturing cities were mothers, one-fourth in families with no men wage earners, and about one-fifth the sole wage earners.

Film Publicity Stunt Shatters London's Nerve

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, June 25.—A motion-picture publicity stunt that succeeded only too well formed the chief topic of casual conversation in London today—to say nothing of being responsible for hurried inquiries by the War Office and the territorial army headquarters, questions in Parliament and asqumably indignant letters in The London Times tomorrow.

The trouble began last night when a detachment of sixty Hampshire territorials formed a guard of honor at the Berengaria's pier in Southampton to escort to shore James V. Bryson, managing director of a European motion-picture company, who was bearing metal boxes containing the negatives of an American-made film. To add to the impressiveness of the occasion, the military band struck up "The British Grenadiers," while motion-picture cameras ground out the scene.

The soldiers then came to London, where they escorted Bryson from Waterloo station through West End streets to the film company's headquarters. Today the storm of criticism broke. Army officials have not announced the result of their inquiries.

Depositions of Wrights to be Taken in Action

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN BERNARDINO, June 25.—Depositions of S. B. Wright, owner of Wrightwood, a resort in the San Bernardino Mountains, and his wife, Kate Wright, in the case of Mrs. Maude Jane Luller vs. the Bank of Italy, will be taken here July 2 at 10 a.m., according to a summons served today. This suit is one of a number brought against the Bank of Italy and the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank in connection with the purchase of the insolvent Valley Bank of Fresno.

Wright is expected to repeat statements that State Superintendent of Banks Johnson has no financial interest in Wrightwood, although his attorney acted in negotiations in September, 1923, that resulted in the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank loaning Wright $50,000 on a mortgage on Wrightwood. Mr. Johnson is linked in the valley suits because he recommended that the banks buy the insolvent institution to prevent its stockholders from taking a much heavier loss.

Union Protests Killing of Four in Mexico State

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—A protest sent to President Calles by the National Catholic Federation of Labor declares four persons were killed and several wounded at Guadalajara when Jalisco State troops attempted to disperse a manifestation protesting against the arrest of 600 members of the federation.

The protest alleges that the arrested workers refused allegiance to a recently created syndicate at a factory in Guadalajara after which they were denied admittance to the shop. Seemingly the workers attempted to force an entrance and were arrested by the troops protecting the buildings.

This easy comfort necessary to smart appearance is the keynote of the Mullen and Bluett displays of summer clothes and accessories. FLEET TRAINING WILL CONTINUE

Tactical Tests to be Made on Australian Trip

Train Squadrons and Ships to Change Places

Visitors Will be Picked Up at Pago Pago

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONOLULU, June 25.—Comprehensive plans for an extensive program of training during the Australian cruise of the fleet were announced today by Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander in chief.

Shortly after the sortie from Honolulu, at an hour and in a manner to be specified later, a signal will be made for the train squadrons and battleship divisions to exchange places in the formation.

TACTICAL TRAINING

The orders read:

"During the cruise to Australia the commander in chief expects to see great strides made in training in all lines. Tactical training of the unit is to be combined with gunnery training as may be practical. It is the commander in chief's desire that attention of the units' commanders be given to visual signals, particularly transmission and reception of code groups by flashing lights. The unit commanders will exercise the forces under their command independently in gunnery training and unit tactics.

"The Melville normally will be the fleet guide. The fleet speed will be eleven knots. The fleet unit guides will rectify the formations daily at 6 p.m. unless night training is to be carried out, which will interfere, in which case the formations will be rectified as soon as possible.

PICK UP OFFICERS

"At Pago Pago certain Australian naval officers and data regarding the entertainment programs will be picked up. Departing from Pago Pago the fleet will take the same formation as on leaving Honolulu and the speed of the fleet and the training system continuing in force as on the preceding leg.

"On the arrival at the rendezvous, latitude 38:10, which is approximately a day from Australia, the commander in chief of the battle fleet will be ordered to proceed to Sydney with the California detachment, the Seattle detachment proceeding to Melbourne.

PROSPERITY IN WAKE OF PROHIBITION

New York Dry Disciple Ascribes All Good to Operation of Law

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Prohibition is held to be responsible for "an unprecedented wave of prosperity in Manhattan" by the World League Against Alcoholism, which made public the results of a survey here by Robert Everett Corradini, research secretary of the league.

"The value of former saloon real estate which has been altered for legitimate purposes has increased in such an unprecedented degree that it not only has offset any loss to the city government for revenue, but shows undoubtedly the most fruitful source of revenue," the survey statement declares.

"In New York City, where administrations borrow to the very limit of credit, prohibition has been a veritable life saver. The financial benefits accruing to the community from this law are contingent upon the degree of enforcement by the local as well as by the Federal authorities.

"The changes have all been for the better; turning saloons into new stores has given employment to workers and created a demand for considerable quantities of building material. The new stores have added invariably to the atmosphere of the community. The money which no longer goes into the till of the liquor trade has found ready and willing recipients in the many shops which have supplanted the saloons, and which sell necessities and luxuries for the home. Especially in the poorer sections there is new interest shown by the families in furnishing their homes. This improvement tends to keep the men at home and so to create a new interest in the family."

ITALY READY FOR FUNDING TO CAPACITY

Ability to Pay is Fixed as Conference Foundation at First Session

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The capacity of the Italian government to pay its war debt to the United States was established today at the first funding conference as the basis upon which negotiations for a settlement will proceed.

At the outset, Secretary Mellon, as chairman of the American Debt Commission, informed the Italian delegation of the American view that the $2,138,000,000 debt should be funded "now" and on conditions "taking into consideration Italy's capacity to pay."

The Italian reply, made by Ambassador de Martino, was that his government could not give consideration to any proposal that threatened it with disaster, nor would it agree to any arrangement which it did not believe could be carried to a successful conclusion.

"The basic principle of the capacity to pay," the Italian spokesman continued, "is admitted—I am sure—by the practical mentality of the American people and is accepted, as I have been given to understand, by the American government."

The remaining discussion in the conference, which lasted three hours, was limited to generalities. Specific provisions were left to be taken up at the next meeting, scheduled for Tuesday of next week.

NEW PHONE PROPERTY IN COUNTY LIST

Next Year Tax Will be Assessed Only by State, Board Announces

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—The State Board of Equalization announced today that it has classified as nonoperative new property of the Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco, Marin and Sacramento counties, and of the Southern California Telephone Company in Los Angeles.

This action by the board is in line with the requests made by the assessors of the four counties, and will subject the property in question to county taxation for the year 1925-26. After that, the Board of Equalization announced, the property will be classified as operative, thereby subjecting it to State taxation solely. The property involved totals over $1,000,000 and is located mostly in Los Angeles and San Francisco counties.

Crime Condition Responsibility is Fixed by Clergy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Parental indifference, lack of respect for authority in the home, and outside, lack of religious training, overestimated emotions, corrupt public officials and courts, ineffective laws, and moral decadence, are outstanding causes of present crime and moral conditions in the opinions of more than fifty Episcopal clergy in the Chicago diocese as expressed through "the Diocese of Chicago," Episcopal publication.

Some clergy maintained that moral conditions at present are more favorable than in the past, others declared conditions to be an outgrowth of the war; some held the press responsible for lawlessness and immorality; one claimed the Eighteenth Amendment has brought on immorality and advocated its modification.

COLOR ZULU FETE FEATURE

BY G. WARD PRICE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, in United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. Great Britain, London Daily Mail. South America, United Press.]

DURBAN (Natal) June 25.—The Zulu jinricksha boy, who pilots a frail two-wheeled vehicle around the streets of Durban, is by all odds the gayest and most colorfully costumed individual that the Prince of Wales has met in Africa. A long line of jinrickshas, specially bedecked as to vehicles and "drivers," paraded for the Prince during his stay here and he had the opportunity also of testing the riding qualities of this unusual means of locomation.

Not even on the west coast of Africa has the Prince seen any native finery to compare with that of this group. A special squad of them went through some drilling in front of the Prince's stand, permitting him a close inspection of their muscular perfection.

Each man wore an enormous feather head-dress, reminiscent of Gaby Deslys, with plumes a yard long sticking up fan-wise in a spray four feet broad. From the base of the feathers a pair of polished bullock's horns jutted out, while on the body underneath was a harlequin-colored shirt, covered with jackals' tails. The feet were decked in close-fitting socks, painted with a brilliant design complete with clocks which stretched halfway up the bulging calves.

PRANCES LIKE HORSE

The Prince was interested in comparing their handling of their two-wheeled craft with that of the coolies, whom he has often seen in the Far East. Instead of keeping the shafts low, like the Japanese ricksha man, the Zulu tilts his passenger backward and prances like a high-stepping horse. When the slope of the road is favorable he allows the weight of his fare almost to lift him off his feet, and he takes giant strides hardly touching the ground, like a track runner in the slow-motion film.

Another peculiarity which struck the Prince was the Zulu's habit of piercing the lobe of his ears and then gradually widening the opening until he can carry a good-sized pill-box there. We were told that a cigarette tin of the size used to contain fifty cigarettes is the limit of an ordinary jinricksha man's aural expansion, but one Zulu at Durban has patiently stretched the lobes of his ears until he eventually produced a fragile dilated ring of cartilage through which he is able to pass his arms.

STREETS THRONGED

Crowds thronged the streets for miles when the Prince drove through the crisp morning air from the suburban station of Berea. Even the roofs and cornices and narrow ledges of the buildings were lined with precariously clinging spectators. There was a greater and more modern military display than at the other towns we have visited. Airplanes circled overhead while the troops marched past the town hall, various militia units participating together with squads of the veteran Naval Volunteers, the South African defense force and the cadets, simply but smartly dressed.

The Prince's visit to Ladysmith was devoted largely to inspection to historic places and battlefields. The morning of his visit to the kopjes around Ladysmith was marked by an activity unexampled since the siege of 1900. The Prince led scaling parties up the steepest and most boulder-strewn hillocks at a rate which soon decided half of his following to remain at the bottom. From the summits of the kopjes, Admiral Halsey, who served as a lieutenant with the naval batteries throughout the siege of Ladysmith, told the Prince the story of that protracted battle.

Arizona Senate Leader in Hot Reply to Hunt

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, June 25.—"A vicious, venomous, wanton attack," is what Mulford Winsor, president of the State Senate, calls yesterday's letter from Gov. Hunt terminating Winsor's connection with the making of the new State code. "The charges constitute," he declared, "a deliberate assault upon the American form of representative government. They raise the question whether the Governor of a State shall have the power of a Roman tyrant, or shall be, as the constitution of this State intended, merely the chief official of one of the separate and distinct branches of government."

A fuller reply is promised by Winsor, who may make his views on Hunt's policies of centralized government and on Hunt's opposition to unity in Colorado River development planks in his platform in his campaign for Democratic nomination as a member of Congress from this State.

Father Arrests Man in Attack Upon Daughter

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) June 25 His daughter attacked while she slept and while he walked his beat several blocks away early yesterday, Patrolman Charles Kasch vowed to apprehend the culprit. A few hours later he placed in jail Charles Day, 47 years of age, a husband and father whom his daughter identifies as her assailant. Day is held on charges of being a "peeping Tom," also with assault and battery on the girl.

Day, Miss Norma Kasch charged, entered the window of her bedroom and picked her up from her bed. As she fought him he attempted to carry her from the home through the window. Under her blows he released her and fled. She notified police and her father was informed. He took the trail and finally took Day in custody. The latter denies the accusation, however.

What Owners Say

3676 N. Workman St., Los Angeles, Calif., May 15, 1925.

I have used the REVIGATOR water for three months. It seems to have benefitted a long-standing ailment. For years I have been troubled with constipation. It has done wonders for me. I can recommend its use to anyone suffering from constipation.

Mrs. G. Plate.

Secretary of State, California, June 2, 1925.

I have your letter enquiring whether I am entirely satisfied with the Revigator.

I must say that at first I was skeptical, but 60 days of actually drinking the water from this jar convinced me with so much better health and increased energy that it would be most unfair to withhold the benefit of my experience from other people who doubt. It is truly wonderful that everyone, by this simple discovery, can now have a radio-active health spring in their home.

Sincerely yours, Frank C. Jordan.

Food Agency, Los Angeles, Calif., May 7, 1925.

My family drinks the water from this jar and we need no other regulator.

H. W. Tauszevon.

Los Angeles, Calif., August 27, 1924.

I have been using a Revigator Ore Lavoga, and been drinking Radio-Active Water for one month. All my life I have taken laxatives, but now I have discontinued the use of them, and owe this to the drinking of Radio-Active Water. I am very glad to recommend this wonderful Radio-Active Water to anybody, and do this only for the purpose of assisting others who may be suffering in same way.

Dave's Manager Refuses to Permit Him to Come West for Walker Go

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Dave Shade, California welterweight, who is recognized here as the foremost challenger of Champion Mickey Walker, will not go to California to fight Walker in their proposed ten-round bout to a decision on July 21. This statement was made by Leo P. Flynn, manager of Shade, who has just returned from the Coast. Dissatisfaction over the arrangements for the proposed bout was advanced by Flynn as his reason for deciding that he will not permit Shade to make the trip cross-country.

UPSON WINS OVER YALE GOLF STAR

Defeats Cummings But Bows to Mudge Later in Day

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MONTCLAIR (N. J.) June 25.—East and West remained firm in their battle for honors today as the finals of the national intercollegiate golf championship approached.

As the result of matches played in a heavy fog in the morning and a downpour in the afternoon, the title will lie among Frank Wattles, Jr., of Yale, Eddie Held of Washington University, St. Louis, Burton Mudge, Jr., of Princeton, A. J. Westland of the University of Washington at Seattle, and E. P. Stratton of Williams.

Three others who eliminated opponents today have good chances of attaining a place in the finals, however.

Lauren Upson of the University of California caused the real surprise of the day, eliminating Dexter Cummings of Yale, two-year tournament champion, 2 and 1. Upson fell later in the day before Mudge, 4 and 3. Westland defeated S. K. Alman of Pennsylvania, 6 and 4.

BUD TAYLOR TO MEET VILLA OR McLARNIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Bud Taylor for the winner of the Villa-McLarnin fight on the Fourth of July.

That's the match Tommy Simpson has in mind for the future—providing, of course, that after the Independence Day contest, he is able to secure another open-air date.

Taylor, following his decisive win over Dynamite Murphy, is a strong Bay District attraction, and the fans would like to see more of him.

With a defeat to Villa and a win over McLarnin, although by no wide margin, the Indiana boy is the logical chap to tangle with the winner of the forthcoming contest.

BOB SAGE ON WAY FOR FIGHT HERE

Bob Sage, who conquered Jack Rettick, light heavyweight champion of Canada, at Vancouver last week, is returning to Los Angeles next Tuesday, according to Elmer Leary. Bob, who is known as the "Fighting Barrister," is anxious to grab a match here with some ambitious middleweight at Hollywood or Vernon — and may be accommodated. He and Mickey Rockson fought a furious battle in the film city's arena about a year ago.

BABE RUTH BENCHED

Famous Yankee Slugger in Bad Shape Following Too Early Return to Game After Illness

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Babe Ruth, the Yankees' great slugger, requested to be taken out of the Yankee line-up. He realizes today that he returned to the game too soon following his recent illness. A few of his wounds, the result of his operation of a few months ago, are still unhealed. He is suffering from swollen ankles and his arms are paining him, all of which shows in his present playing.

Ruth today is merely a shadow of the once great Ruth of other years. It is saddening that an athlete could slip so far back as Ruth has today. He realizes his shortcomings and has made several appeals for Huggins to bench him in favor of Witt, Paschal or Veach. His request was finally granted yesterday. Veach played right field.

"Wait till Ruth returns. The Yankees need Ruth." These were the words uttered by followers of the game. The crowd clamored for Ruth's return to the game while he was still under the doctor's care.

Ruth cannot throw as of old; he cannot hit. Pitchers are pitching to him. No more is he the threat he once was. The players on opposing clubs say:

"Ruth is not important any more."

Manager Huggins, who kept Ruth in the line-up because of the great demand for him, hopes for the best. He feels that Ruth might find himself, recover his past form and start playing like the Ruth of old.

The Yankee officials knew they were gambling with the success of Ruth's return but today they realize they have lost.

LENGLEN BEATS AMERICAN STAR

Only Two Yankees Survive in Men's Singles

King George and Queen Mary Witness Contests

Swedish Ace Succumbs to Californian's Attack

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

WIMBLEDON, June 25.—Two Americans, Ray Casey of California and John Hennessey of Indianapolis, remained among the last sixteen players at completion today of the third round of the men's singles in the all-England tennis tournament. Four Americans were eliminated today, they being Lucien Williams, Charles S. Garland, L. B. Rice and Louis B. Dailey.

Casey's defeat of C. E. Van Braun of Sweden, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, was an easy one, but Hennessey, who played notwithstanding a temporary illness that caused him the keenest distress, had to fight for life to defeat Crole Reese of England, 3-6, 2-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Earlier in the day, before the greatest crowd ever packed into the stands and in the presence of King George and Queen Mary, Elizabeth Ryan, the former California girl, bowed before the superior playing of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen after a gallant fight, 6-2, 6-0.

NO UPSETS

Today showed no great upsets, but there were one or two fairly close calls. J. O. Anderson, the Australian star, found one in P. D. B. Spence, the South African, who yielded only to the Australian's greater knowledge and experience. The score was 6-3, 8-10, 6-2, 6-3.

R. Lycett, Anderson's old doubles partner gave Rene Lacoste of France, some warm moments before losing in four sets, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

The only big surprise today was the defeat of Baron de Morpurgo, the hard-hitting Italian, by G. R. Sherwell, a South African. The score was 1-6, 6-2, 7-5, 2-6, 8-6.

The young East Orange (N. J.) player, Louis B. Dailey, Jr., did not menace Jean Borotra of France, Wimbledon title-holder, but he did surprise the crowd with clever and courageous play. Borotra won, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

GARLAND ELIMINATED

Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh, was another American to suffer elimination. He was defeated rather easily by J. B. Gilbert, the left-handed English player, 8-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Lucien Williams of Chicago, was defeated by H. G. Mayes, England, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3, and L. B. Rice of Boston, was put out by Jacques Brugnon of France, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

It cannot be told whether the spell that has wound itself around the name of Lenglen upset Miss Ryan's composure today, or whether the great Californian no longer is in the bracket with the French girl. Miss Ryan played magnificently at the start, taking the first game after it had gone to deuce three times in a series of long, breathless rallies.

Then, as far as Miss Ryan was concerned, it was all over. Suzanne played superbly. Even those familiar with her game marveled. Miss Ryan fought pluckily, but she was puzzled. Time and again she let balls whizz by or dealt with them weakly and ineffectively.

Miss Ryan was as helpless as a schoolgirl before the utter perfection of Miss Lenglen's play.

REFUSES A BIG OFFER FOR MUSHY

Callahan's Contract is Not for Sale, Says Manager in Turning Down $10,000

Eddie Sears, manager of Mushy Callahan, yesterday turned down an offer of $10,000 for the contract of his crack scrapper and then proceeded to sign him with Johnny O'Donnell for the ten-round main event at Vernon July 7.

The offer came from Larney Lichtenstein, veteran manager of fighters who sees in Callahan one of the coming sensations of the ring. He had Jimmy Clabby when that great middleweight was in his prime.

The Callahan - O'Donnell match was closed yesterday afternoon by "Wad" Wadhams. O'Donnell has not fought since the engagement at Vernon with Jack Silver when he blew up in the tenth round and dropped the verdict to the San Franciscan.

On the same card as a semi-wind-up event will be Billy Petrolle and Johnny Lamar. The former made a distinct hit last Tuesday at Vernon and earned another trial. He's getting it with Lamar, a very tough Mexican.

PADDY MARTIN HURLS VICTORY

Beaver Southpaw Shuts Out Tigers Until Ninth

Hemingway's Triple Drives in Vernon Markers

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Patrick Martin, a southpaw, who acts left-handed on the mound despite the fact that he is no relation to Mr. Joe Martin, well-known movie idol, pitched the Portland Ducks to a 3-to-2 victory over the toothless Tigers in yesterday's luke-warm pastime at Washington Park. The win puts the visitors in front in the series, two games to one.

Mr. Martin had several narrow escapes during the afternoon's festivities, but his narrowest one took place in the final frame when the Bengals clouded up, just like the weather, and proceeded to storm to the extent of two runs before Paddy turned weatherman and cleared up the situation. Ed Hemingway's three-base clout with two on and two out in the ninth was the bolt of lightning that shattered Martin's chances for a shutout victory. Hemingway's drive cleared Rohwer's head and came near bounding into the bleachers for a home run, landing just about a foot below the railing.

Buzz Eckert did the twirling for the locals, but his strange desire to throw home-run balls to the Duck batters brought about his undoing. Twice Eckert's control was too good, the ball going right in the groove, and twice it was hit out of the field for homers. George Lafayette socked one into the bleachers in the first inning, while Duffy Lewis poled the other circuit clout over the left-field wall in the eighth. Lewis's run proved to be the margin of the Ducks' victory. Thefore, Mr. Lewis naturally becomes a hero, at least for a day.

BENJAMIN BACK IN GOOD GRACES OF BOXING BOARD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—Joe Benjamin, Stockton lightweight fighter, was today reinstated by the California Boxing and Wrestling Commission. Benjamin was barred from competition on April 13, following his disastrous bout with Ace Hudkins. It was charged that Joe used novocaine on an injured knuckle.

Benjamin recently returned to California from a trip east. Since being badly beaten by Hudkins he has had his face remodeled. In some quarters it is said that he is about ready to fight again. He may show in San Francisco soon, reports having it that he will meet Tommy O'Brien August 1.

FILIPINO HAS TOUGH BATTLE

Buffalo Boxer Out to Win and Meet La Barba

Bantamweights Promise Much Action for Fans

YOUNG NATIONALISTA

In the past Nationalista has been just a good trial horse for boys seeking main events with big reputations. Before Jimmy McLarnin, Fidel La Barba, Georgie Rivera, Teddy Silva and some more of the bantamweights got much of a reputation, they had to fight Nationalista. All four have beaten the little brown man from the Orient, but by such a slight margin that he is always good for a main event when a matchmaker is seeking a little fellow who will guarantee to please.

Ryan has fought all the good boys in this country. He came west to see what the country looked like west of the Kansas corn belt. There is more work in his line right here in Los Angeles, where a whole flock of bantamweights have been enjoying unusual prosperity.

The fact that Tommy Ryan dropped a decision to Georgie Rivera hasn't hurt him as a drawing card at Hollywood. The house was with Ryan the night he fought Rivers and they showed they thought Ryan didn't get an even break.

The cushion-throwing demonstration by the fans sent Ryan into another main event. If he beats Nationalista tonight then he is a cinch to meet Fidel La Barba in July and maybe Bud Taylor or Georgie Rivers in August.

Hayden Pythian is making his way to the top of the heap in the middleweight division on this Coast. Boxing under the careful instruction of Jerry McCarthy at the Manhattan gymnasium has made a different fighter out of Pythian. He fights Joe Kelly tonight. The card:

Hayden Pythian vs. Joe Kelly, 160 pounds, six rounds.
Johnny Gonsales vs. Freddie Mack, 143 pounds, six rounds.

SEAT 3000 AT TOURNAMENT

St. Louis will have seating accommodation for 3000 during the clay court tennis tourney July 13.

OBSERVATIONS

YESTERDAY'S reports indicate that Babe Ruth has just about reached the end of the trail as a great star in the big leagues. His difficulties may possibly be only temporary, but the Babe is not noted for the care he has taken of himself, and when a big, heavy fellow of his type begins to crumble physically it usually is a pretty complete and speedy job. Babe Ruth has unquestionably been the biggest box-office attraction in baseball, but as a great baseball character he is not to be mentioned in the same breath as Hans Wagner and Ty Cobb.

There is going to be some tall, powerful high jumping when the boys get together in the national championships at San Francisco, about a week hence. Our own Hank Coggeshall, Tom Poor of Kansas, Russell of Chicago, Work of Stanford and Hampton of California will attempt to make Osborne, the former Illinois demon, exceed his best previous effort. Every one of the jumpers mentioned above has leaped over 6ft. 4in. this year, which is pretty close to a world record all by itself. Osborne, who has jumped consistently over six feet and a half, looks like a cinch to win.

Back about 1919, if our memory is correct, we remember a red-headed boy who shot across the high school athletic horizon in Southern California like a comet. He hailed from South Pasadena High, and, as we remember it, he fussed along without amounting to so very much until his senior year, when he suddenly burst into athletic prominence, ripping opposing lines to pieces as the plunging fullback of the Tigers, and then demonstrating his versatility by bowling over all the juniors in Southern California to win the leading prep tennis honors.

That's about the last we've heard of him from that day until this week, when we sauntered into the Metropolitan to get an earful of music a la college boy, as dished up by Waring's Pennsylvanians. And if that red-headed tenor, programed as Wynne Bullock, late star of the Music Box Revue, isn't the red-headed Percy Bullock who used to ramble through for touchdowns on behalf of South Pasadena High, we'd be surprised. Wonder if he still swings a mean racket in that left hand?

And, speaking of seeing your old friends when you pay money to see a show, we saw a movie down at Santa Monica the other night with a whole mess of names upon it which brought back to us fond recollections of other days in sports. It was one of those Ben Turpin things, and the names we noted on the introductory line-up of those who had assisted in perpetuating it were Ed Kennedy, who had something to do with the direction, William Williams, cameraman, and Ernie Crockett, who supervised some of the trick photography.

Ed Kennedy never performed locally, but he was one of the great amateur heavyweights of about the same period as Tom Kennedy, ex-Hollywood matchmaker. Billy Williams was a fellow member of the L.A.A.C. swimming team many years ago, when both of us were young. Billy was the finest diver in the country. Ernie Crockett was once a demon lightweight, who used to knock 'em dead in the days of Walter South, Louie Rees and a lot of other demons of bygone days.

ing her flame-colored jersey and turban bandeau, was presented to King George and Queen Mary and chatted with them for a few minutes.

Casey, in his match with Van Braun, showed how much he had improved in form over his first match. Thus far in the tournament, Casey's service never had worked so perfectly. Van Braun took only two of the American's service games. The big American's one weakness was an inclination to take things a bit easy; but when Casey let down, Van Braun leaped to the attack.

HAYDEN PHYTHIAN

CASEY ON OFFENSE

This provided the necessary stimulus, and in every case Casey shot back into form, keeping his opponent on the defensive in the back court with a series of unhittable cross-court drives and smashes.

A huge crowd watched the two final sets which the American pulled out of the fire, 6-4, 6-4, and won the victory.

Rees, one of the young modernists of England, who just missed the Davis Cup team by a hair breadth, played carefully and steadily. He showed good sportsmanship, leaping across the net to congratulate Hennessey.

In the next round Casey will meet La Coste, who in the opinion of a majority of the English experts, will be victorious. Hennessey will have as an opponent F. G. Lowe, the veteran Davis Cup and Olympic Games player, Borotra will play Gilbert and Anderson will meet Brugnon.

HELEN WILLS IN EAST

Miss Helen Wills national tennis champion will make her eastern debut in the Essex C. C. tourney, Boston, the week of July 20.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

IT'S hard to explain why some of the local promoters are passing up one of the greatest fight plums in sight and wasting their efforts in other directions. We refer to the Fidel La Barba-Pancho Villa scrap for the world's flyweight championship, which apparently everybody has forgotten in the made scramble to land a Walker-Shade fight that was never intended for here in the first place.

La Barba is the greatest local favorite to be developed here in over a decade and, with Villa ruling as king of the flyweight division, a match between the two would outrank anything that so far has been proposed by our local promoters.

If he gets by Jimmy McLarnin on the Fourth of July with any degree of neatness and dispatch there seems to be no reason in the world why the little Filipino should turn down a bout with Fidel. McLarnin's two victories, questionable, of course, in the eyes of many, would make him a favorite to take La Barba into camp.

But Fidel's improvement in the past few months has been rapid, very rapid, since he tangled with "Baby-Face Jimmy" around the first of the year.

When Frank Churchill, manager of Villa, left here a couple of weeks ago to meet Villa on his return from the Philippines he left the impression that he would be glad to sign for any bouts as soon as he learned from Villa that he was in good shape.

Even the McLarnin match in Oakland was held up until Churchill talked with the flyweight king. Apparently everything was okeh, for the title-holder's manager signed for the McLarnin bout, but since then the managers hereabouts have been deaf, dumb and blind as far as any action toward securing a Villa-La Barba match is concerned.

Tom Maloney, manager of Teddy O'Hara, wants the world to know that his offer to give $500 to the Billy Oates fund the minute some brave lightweight agrees to meet his battler is not hokum.

He is actuated by three impulses—one, to get a fight for O'Hara, to do something for Billy Oates and to show the local sport world that a San Francisco manager is human.

Tom bars no lightweights from the field—Tommy O'Brien, Phil Salvadore, Tommy Cello, Dick Hoppe or any of the others, and he'll take Mushy Callahan, too.

Bud Taylor and his manager, Eddie Long, reach the city this morning from Oakland, where the Terra Haute Terror handed Dynamite Murphy an artistic lacing on Wednesday night.

Bud and Eddie are giving a party at Marchetti's to their intimate friends tonight, after which they leave for Chicago, returning the early part of August for the bantamweight championship bout with Rosenberg in September.

UPSETS AT BERKELEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, June 25.—Four upsets were recorded in the play in the Pacific Coast tennis championship tournament at the Berkeley Tennis Club. Herbert Suhr went into the semifinals of the men's singles by defeating Wallace Bates, a seeded player, 6-2, 7-5, and in the same event Bowie Detrick, a Davis Cup player for Hawaii, went down before the strokes of Amos Sewell of the Oakland Tennis Club, 6-2, 6-1.

Morgan Fottrell and Homer Levinson, seeded in the men's doubles, were defeated by W. O. Jens and Gaylord Warwick, a comparatively unknown team, by a score of 6-3, 6-1.

Frank Geve, seeded in the junior singles, went out of the tournament after crossing rackets with Robert Fites, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1.

William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, second ranking team nationally, went into the semifinals, and Elmer Griffin and Catlin Wolford, formerly of Portland, Or., moved into the fourth round. Mrs. William Henry of Santa Monica paired with Eleanor Tennant, won in the second round of the women's doubles, dropping seven games in two sets, with Edith Cross and Dorothea Swartz. John Wheatley and Stanley Almquist are finalists in the junior doubles by winning from Howe Bancroft, San Diego, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, 6-3, 6-3.

DAUBENSPECK WINS RACE

Phil Daubenspeck, crack Venice Plunge Swimming Association merman, was the big hero of the Ambassador Hotel aquatic meet last night, winning the feature 150-yard men's medley race in 1m. 53 4-10s. from a fast field. His teammate, Wally O'Connor, finished second and George Leach of the Los Angeles Athletic Club was third.

Vernon Rue won the fifty-yard dash for boys under 16 years of age. George Leach was second and Robert French of Hollywood was third. Olive Hatch led Sara Schwartz and Mildred Lowe to the tape in the fifty-yard, free-style for girls. Miss Schwartz is from the Pasadena Athletic Club and Miss Lowe is from Hollywood. The time was 31 2-10s.

Miss Hatch also won the 100-yard back-stroke for girls. Marion Himmelstein of the Club Casa Del Mar was second and Mrs. Roper of L.A.A.C. finished third. The time was 1m. 26 4-10s. Viola Hartman of Los Angeles won the 500-yard swim for girls. Mrs. Roper was second and Vivian Bernard of Hollywood finished third.

Mickey Reilly of the L.A.A.C. won the diving. Stan Kistler of Pasadena was second. Tipton of Hollywood was third.

BABY JOE GANS WINS OVER SAILOR ASHMORE

Scoring knockdowns in the second and ninth rounds, Baby Joe Gans, colored fighter, outpointed Sailor Ashmore in the ten-round main event at the Pasadena Armory show last night. It was a good fight, both boys working hard. Ashmore didn't have the class. Joe Mandot and Henry Marcus went six rounds to a draw in the semi-wind-up. Eddie Shannon drew a decision in four rounds over Peewee Nolan. Young Polo trimmed Henry Miana in a four-round battle. Sailor Santos scored a technical knockout over Larry Estrada.

Victory Gives Champs Odd Game from Yankees

Athletics Nose Out Boston and Sweep Series

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Coveleskie had a slight edge on Pennock in a pitchers' battle today and Washington took the odd game of the series from the Yankees, 1 to 0. In turning in his shutout victory the veteran Washington hurler let down the Yanks with four hits, while the Senators gathered only one more off Pennock. Score:

WARNER AFTER KAMM'S RECORD

Vernon Third Sacker So Far Averages 4.4 Chances

Angels and San Francisco Are Best Clubs in Field

Tobin Has But One Error for Season to Date

Jackie Warner appears to be about the fastest thing on two legs the Coast League has seen since the days of Willie Kamm. The Vernon Tiger third baseman has been scooping them up at the rate of 4.4 chances per game. This is an unusually high average.

Willie Kamm startled the baseball world in 1920 when he accepted 729 chances at third base for San Francisco in 182 games. Warner is certain to surpass this record if he continues to knock them down during the balance of the season as he has in the past.

Ray Jacobs of Los Angeles and Hal Rhyne of San Francisco are the leading shortstops. Tobin, Portland catcher, has made only one error in forty-nine games. "Brick" Eldred of Seattle has been charged with only one error in the outfield.

Los Angeles and San Francisco are the best fielding clubs in the league with marks of .966.

PADDY MARTIN BEATS TIGERS

WOLFER STARS

Ike Wolfer was the fielding star of the afternoon, turning in a couple of sensational catches, both, by the way of coincidence, robbing Martin of hits. Hunnefield, Duck center fielder, also made a great snag in the first inning when he raced over to the scoreboard, leaped up and grabbed Oliver's long drive.

There were no fights or tumbling acts to enliven the contest, the only thing that was unusual being the weather, which may not be considered a joke here, but would be up around Frisco.

The Ducks started off auspiciously by taking the lead in the opening frame when Lafayette poled a homer into the bleachers that grace right field.

Vernon's toiling athletes filled the sacks in their half of the inning, but as usual it didn't mean anything. After Hunnefield had captured Oliver's loft, Hemingway singled past Johnny Jones to left. Wolfer's dinky rap went for a double when Duffy Lewis and Jones decided that it is better to let a ball drop safely than to collide. McDowell fanned, but Warner drew a walk, filling the sacks. Beals Becker, though, could deliver nothing better than a grounder to McCann and both he and the Tigers' chances to score were thrown out simultaneously.

The Beavers gathered another run in the third when Martin beat out a hit over second, was sacrificed to second and driven home by Jones, who doubled to center. Jones ambled to third when Griffin mussed up the throw-in, but died there when Rohwer lofted to Oliver.

The Ducks muffed a chance to score in the fourth when McCann singled with one away, Lewis flied to Oliver, but Truck Hannah laid a double to left that hit just inside the foul line. Although there were two out, McCann stopped to see whether the ball was going to light foul or fair and when he started running again he could get no farther than third. Wolfer then grabbed Martin's fly to end the inning.

LEWIS HOMERS

Duffy Lewis's resounding smack over the left-field fence accounted for the final Portland run in the eighth.

Martin gave the cash customers a little amusement in the ninth when he hit a hard one down to Jimmy McDowell, who made a great stop of the ball just inside the foul line. Martin might have had a chance to beat Jimmy to the sack, so deeply was it fielded, but forgot to drop his bat and the handicap was too much for him. Mr. Martin should have a valet to take his bat from him after he hits a ball.

TIGERS RALLY

Then in the home half of the ninth the natives put on their two-run splurge that caused Martin to get another gray hair. Whitney started things with a double to left center, while Wes Griffin walked. Schang, batting for Eckert, forced Griffin at second. Martin slipped over the third strike on Oliver, making it two outs. Hemingway at this juncture delivered his triple, bringing Whitney and Schang across the plate. Jones threw out Wolfer and the contest, like the World War and several other things was over.

INDIANS TAKE THIRD IN ROW OVER ACORNS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, June 25.—Seattle beat Oakland for the third successive time this week today by a decisive score of 10 to 4. Krause was ineffective and received poor support in addition. Outfield errors contributed much to his troubles and he was hit hard with men on bases. The Oaks put on a rally in the fourth inning and scored three runs, otherwise Hasty held them safely. Score:

DELEOT LEADS CHALLENGERS

Wilshire Ace Heads Invaders Seeking Title Honors

Martin and Coleman, Young Stars Add Feature Wins

Close Play Promised in Match Competition Today

BY W. O. WISE

R. G. Cawley, Cliff M. Buck, Lester Coleman and Pete Daley, fast traveling California golfers, won their first-round matches in the championship flight of the annual club invitation golf tourney at California yesterday.

Frank Deleot, Wilshire's premier fourth horseman, turned in a sizzling 6 and 5 win over S. F. Oriopp to lead W. E. Hermansoh, Rancho, W. B. Dickinson, Brentwood, and David Martin, Montecito, in the golfing advance to remove the California flight trophy from the home-club defenders.

E. E. Moore, who tied with Lester Coleman, a club mate, for medal honors in the qualifying round, lost a hard-fought 1-up match to Hermanson of Rancho. More was out in 38, but the Rancho star had on his golfing clothes and came from behind to trip the California luminary.

Despite the fact that Cawsy is playing great golf, his 6-to-5 win over Jack Neville of Bel-Air, was one of the feature upsets of the day. Cliff Buck nearly caught a tartar in Elmer Henderson, former U.S.C. football coach. Buck, out in 38, lost the ninth hole and was 3 up at the turn but Henerson staged a rally that carried the match to the home green where Buck won, 1 up.

FEATURE UPSETS

Big Jim Knudson of Rancho, playing stellar golf, managed to hold Lester Coleman even through the first eight, but lost the ninth to a freak stymie that was nearly unplayable. One down at the turn, Knudson kept shooting through, but was unable to overtake Coleman, who finished under 80 to win the match, 1 up.

TWENTY-TWO HOLES

E. W. Dietz, another Rancho star, golfed through the twenty-second hole to win the hardest match of the tournament, 1 up, from W. E. Carrigan, California. Chester McInnes caught Alan Moser, Wilshire, when the youthful star was having a bad day and through a flock of stellar golf, tripped the medalist in the Wilshire tournament two weeks ago, 2 and 1. Moser was three down at the turn and tried hard to come back, but McInnes, playing the rugged California course in championship style, managed to hold his lead for a 2-and-1 win.

In Praise of Heresy

Without heresy there can be no religion, for heresy means trying to think out the answer to the riddle of life and death for ourselves. —[George Moore.

WISE and OTHER WISE
by Bill Wise.

Ray Cawsy holed a beautiful eighteen-foot putt for a win from Neville on the ninth hole after Jack's long putt rolled across the cup for a half stymie.

Cliff Buck was out in 38 in his match with Elmer Henderson. Jim Knudson and Lester Coleman each played the first nine in 40 and were all even at the turn. Knudson got a bad break when Coleman missed a two foot putt that left the big Rancho ace a short and practically unplayable stymie. Jim lost the hole and trailed through.

L. C. Paris called the turn on the difficult tenth. A bunch of golfing authorities, including Tom Stevens and others, were discussing the hole when Paris offered the suggestion that the green be changed into a saucer—instead of falling away from the back tray, enabling a player to hold a pitch shot from any side. The hole is not impossible—but it's a golf hole that calls for everything a player has. Many good players get away—and many don't. The hole is furnishing an interesting innovation to all—especially the gallery that finds considerable amusement, and some grief in every shot.

D. L. Davis, Bel Mesto's golfing authority, pulled the most beautiful explosive shot of the day from the back trap of the tenth. The ball hit the cup, bounced—and stopped dead, two inches past the pin—and Davis collected a par—and a lot of sympathy.

J. Cowan, Sr., father of the inseparable Janis, whose juvenile sinema fame has long been international, came within an eyelash of scoring a hole in one on the fourth. The ball hit the pin and dropped dead on the lip of the cup.

Walter Cochran, former billiard champion, is a wizard with his short game. Jim Kirkwood, the naturalized American inventor of fresh drinks, could learn a lot from Cochran's game. The billiard expert chools for the cup on every hole and missed none by inches on three holes yesterday—the third, tenth and fourteenth.

Cochran defeated G. M. Lewis of Rancho, 3 and 2, in one of the prettiest matches of the day. With the defeat of Lewis the knowledge of his marriage to Miss Florence Hallock, former Salt Lake golf champion, was also disclosed. All will remember the numerous championships that fell to the lot of the hard-hitting Salt Lake feminine ace—her wonderful record in several national championships and other metropolitan features and her advent in Coast golf means a welcome and fast shooting addition that will improve local women's golf.

F. C. Porter, popular Flintridge golfer, caught the narrow apron to the left of the tenth green and watched his ball roll back and was down in the regulation three putts for a par 5.

AUXILIARY CHAIRMEN TO MEET

Mrs. Ted Haas, chairman of the handicap committee of the women's auxiliary of the S.C.G.A., has called a special meeting of all association handicap chairmen to be held at the Wilshire Club at 1 o'clock Saturday. The new women's western ruling changing the handicap yardage is to be discussed and adopted and all chairmen are urged to be present to help in the important handicap revision.

Salvadore and O'Brien Head Vernon Program

Tommy O'Brien and Phil Salvadore, two of the best-known lightweights on the Pacific Coast, meet at Vernon Tuesday night in the main event of ten rounds. O'Brien's last appearance here was at Ascot last month, when he won over Ace Hudkins on a foul. Salvadore lost a ten-round decision to Sammy Mandell on the same card.

Find Beethoven Manuscript

An original manuscript of a Beethoven wedding song, composed February 6, 1819, and not heretofore recorded, was recently found attached to another manuscript by Beethoven's publishers in Leipsic. They were searching at the time for some of Beethoven piano concertos in the original.

Lopez Offered Job as College Diamond Coach

Coach Bill Lopez, whose Jefferson High School baseball teams have been the terror of the city for the past three years, may be head baseball coach at the California Christian College next spring. Lopez has been approached by H. A. Piper, athletic head at the Vermont school, and will probably take the new berth. He will remain at Jefferson as head of the physical education department, but stated that he had practically decided to accept Piper's offer.

In the three years that Lopez coached baseball at Jefferson, the Democrats lost but two games—both to Los Angeles High. If, or when, he goes to the Christian College, the majority of the 1925 Jefferson ball team will go with him. Eleven of these players received their letters at Jefferson yesterday. They were Capt. Blackman, Brayton, Warren, Grossman, Lugom, Falk, Perl, Burbank, Kerwan, Rundell and Koller. Ten of this list graduate. Most of them will follow Lopez to his new position, it was stated.

Yosemite in High Gear and a new Economy Record with Richfield!

THIS is the same stock model (top and windshield removed) which was used in the ninth Annual Los Angeles to Yosemite Economy Run May 22nd and 23rd.

In that run, where Richfield was not represented, using another well known brand of gasoline, it averaged 26.42 miles per gallon. Dusevoir chose Richfield for the necessary power and mileage after carefully testing every brand of gasoline available. His wonderful record is the answer...only 9¾ gallons of powerful mile-producing Richfield for the entire 360 miles of stubborn grades, sharp curves, sandy and muddy roads.

Any good gasoline can give you mileage. It is power plus mileage that makes Richfield the exclusive choice of the world's greatest drivers...men who have made accurate tests and who are experts on gasolines and oils.

This run in a stock model Star Touring car, officially observed by a representative of the Los Angeles Examiner, was a wonderful tribute to car, driver and gasoline and is the first officially observed high gear run into Yosemite.

1200 Self-striped English Broadcloth Shirts $2.85, 3 for $8.00

Again, let it be said with emphasis, to satisfy a broad demand for Shirts of English Broadcloth, the popularity for which in Southern California is largely due to the many presentations of such events, this at Bullock's, here are 1200 that measure up to every standard set for them---

And it should be noted that they are all in the new Self-striped effects (three different stripings included) in plain grey, tan, blue and white—both collar attached and neckband style—

There is the story in a nutshell, as it were, and but for calling attention to certain details which some might not know about, the story has been told.

For instance, the colors are a distinctive tint peculiar to English Broadcloth of this quality—a silk-like sheen to English Broadcloth which gives it a very attractive appearance. Bullock's demands standards of tailoring which make these shirts unusual. And so on, and so on, detailing detail until a real accomplishment is evident in such shirts at $2.85, 3 for $8.00.

Men's Linen Handkerchiefs $1.50 doz

Such a remarkably low price for this quality of Linen Handkerchiefs for men that they will be sold by the dozen only—$1.50 dozen. Note the fact that they are of a very good quality of linen measuring 17 inches square. With the popular narrow hemstitched hem. This is an item that should be a center of interest Saturday Morning—at The Store for Men—at Bullock's Street Floor—Broadway Building.

SPIRITUAL LACK SEEN AS MENACE

Attorney Scores Judge Who Upheld Admitted Atheist as Boy's Guardian

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEDFORD (Or.) June 25.—That our nation is in as great a peril as was Rome fifty years before the Eternal City fell, was the statement of Attorney Griffith Jones of Los Angeles in an address delivered in the First Presbyterian Church here. Judges who fail to uphold the sanctity of the Bible, he said, are a menace to the spiritual life of the nation.

"Unless a regard for Jesus Christ and respect for the Holy Bible is inculcated into the youth of our land, the United States will fall as did Rome," declared Mr. Jones. "Our financial condition was never so sound. We have much to boast of, but our spiritual power is at a low ebb.

"When a judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county can say from the bench that an atheist makes as good a guardian as a Christian, and that a man who denies the existence of God and the deity of Jesus Christ, is as much entitled to the custody and care of a child as is a member of any church, we well may tremble for the future of the land we all dearly love.

"Rupert Hughes was appointed guardian of Marshall Ricksen, brother of the late film star, Lucille Ricksen. It was brought out, through cross-examination of Rupert Hughes that he has no respect for the Bible, or for God or Jesus Christ, but the judge refused to swerve from his decision.

"It is the duty of the church people of America to see to it that the sanctity of the Bible is upheld by the judiciary."

Missouri Lad Kills Mother by Accident

ROLLA (Mo.) June 25.—Mrs. Cora Roberts, 43 years of age, wife of D. D. Roberts, living near Fiat, in this county, was shot accidentally and killed by her 16-year-old son, John Roberts.

The accident happened about noon. The boy had gone into the house to get a gun to shoot a squirrel. He loaded the gun, and as he was closing the breech the gun was discharged. His mother was in an adjoining room, but the door was open and the shot struck her.

GAS TANK BLAST FATAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CUT IN FEDERAL ESTATE TAX AIM

Present Overlapping Method to be Modified

Mellon Reported as Friendly to New Proposal

Ways and Means Chairman is Author of Plan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Not the abolition but the reduction of inheritance taxes under a scheme of co-operation between the Federal government and the States will be sought by the administration when the tax-reduction bill is before Congress next winter.

That Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who has advocated abolition of Federal inheritance taxes, has modified his attitude became known today, following a conference between the finance minter and Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, on the tax-reduction program.

Mr. Green is the author of a plan to reduce the inheritance taxes and do away with the overlapping of State and Federal inheritance taxation which finds favor with Secretary Mellon in principal, at least. The Secretary took the Green plan under consideration.

Treasury officials generally concede the futility of pressing Congress to abolish inheritance taxes and leave such taxes to the several States under existing conditions. The sentiment in Congress is known to be strongly in favor of continuing Federal taxation on estates, though not necessarily at so high a rate as at present.

Mr. Green is opposed to the abolition of the Federal inheritance tax, pointing out that if there were no national tax persons could escape such imposes by taking up residence in Florida or the District of Columbia, where no death duties are exacted under local law.

As matters now stand, an estate is required to pay taxes to both the Federal government and the State, receiving from Washington a credit of only 25 per cent of the State tax. That impels persons to take up residence in Florida and the District of Columbia, where only the Federal tax is paid. Mr. Green would partly remove that inducement by crediting the entire State inheritance tax on the Federal estate tax.

Texas Drought Entails Total Crop Failure

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUSTIN (Tex.) June 25.—All kinds of crops are a total failure in the Austin and San Antonio territories this year. The time has passed when cotton, corn or other products may be planted with any hope of maturing before frost, even should bountiful rains come at seasonable intervals during the remainder of the season.

The plowed fields are as bare of vegetation as a floor. Here and there are small cases of irrigated tracts. There is a group of about twenty counties which are the worst affected by the drought and the total normal production of cotton of these counties is about 700,000 bales. This year their total production will not be 10,000 bales, according to present prospects.

Many farmers are facing a deplorable financial condition. It is stated by local bankers that they have reached the limit of their credit and nothing is left but to foreclose on many properties. Farmers are abandoning their homes and moving into towns by the scores. Many of them are seeking work as day laborers or teamsters.

Mexico Sends New Attache to South America

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—Mexico has introduced an innovation into South America with the appointment of a labor attache to the Mexican delegation at Buenos Aires. Carlos Gracidas, the new official, told interviewers that his appointment was due to the initiative of President Calles.

Senor Gracidas explained that the Mexican President was working out a comprehensive policy unhampered by petty log-rolling and stated he was not disposed to follow the line of least resistance, self-pedaling the thorny problems of labor.

Senor Gracidas's appointment is coincident with similar appointments to the Mexican legations in France, Germany, the United States and Russia.

CAPTURED AS HE GOES TO MOTHER

Bandit Fugitive's Desire to See Parent Costs Him His Liberty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) June 25. Harry L. Bryant, sofe-spoken and mild-mannered, 23 years of age, who police assert left a trail of more than a score of hold-ups over Indiana, Michigan and Tennessee before his career of banditry was checked by Grand Rapids police nearly two years ago, and who has escaped three times from Michigan State prisons, was captured here Tuesday night by detectives.

A desire to see his mother cost him the freedom he had enjoyed since he escaped in April from Marquette, by nailing himself in a packing box. He was to have met her here. Police were informed of his plans and detectives were planted.

When Bryant sauntered along the street near the Grand Trunk station he was nabbed. He has agreed to go back to Marquette without extradition.

Bryant was sent up about two years ago from Grand Rapids to serve from seven and one-half to fifteen years for robbery with a pistol.

CABINET BACKS CAILLAUX PLAN

Principle of Financial Proposals Approved

Four Billion Francs to be Issued in Notes

Exchange Value Based on American Dollars

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, June 25.—After a morning meeting of the Cabinet council, at which Finance Minister Caillaux's financial projects looking to restoration of the Treasury were discussed, an official communique was issued saying:

"The principle of M. Caillaux's proposals to remedy the financial situation has been approved by the Cabinet council at which Premier Painleve presided today. The text will be communicated to the Council of Ministers' conference tomorrow with President Doumergue presiding.

Authoritative financial circles interpreted this as simply meaning that France has decided to issue an additional 4,000,000,000 francs of special notes to meet maturing bond payments in July and October.

"This is neither inflation nor a moratorium," was all Finance Minister Caillaux would say about this issue, which, he always has emphasized, did not involve inflation.

M. Caillaux and Premier Painleve in a conference with the regents of the Bank of France are said to have reached a definite agreement regarding the nature of the new issue. It is reported the purchasers will be guaranteed against fluctuations in the exchange value of the issue, which will be based upon the par value of the franc in terms of United States dollars.

The Chamber of Deputies, hard driven by M. Caillaux in his determination to have France's 1925 budget voted before July 1, today raced through the budgets for the ministries of Foreign Affairs, Interior, War and Marine within the first two hours of its sitting. M. Caillaux hopes to be able to present the budget for the Senate's ratification late this evening or early tomorrow.

After the Council of Ministers approves M. Caillaux's financial measures tomorrow he will introduce a bill embodying them in Parliament. The bill will be referred to the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies with the request that it report immediately so that the bill may be debated in the Chamber before July 1.

ROBINSON GIVES MAIN ADDRESS

Foreign Traders Told That Loans Abroad Will Grow

Germany and America Will Settle Debt Question

Advises Creation of Board to Study Problems

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE, June 25.—Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, told the National Foreign Trade Council today that the reparations question narrows down to a general settlement of inter-Allied debts. Mr. Robinson, who was one of the three American experts to formulate the Dawes plan, delivered the principal address of the council convention, which is in session here.

To satisfy their American debts, the Allied nations, Mr. Robinson pointed out, will assign their reparations claims to the United States, and when Germany is in a position to make settlement, this country will face the forced exportation from Germany of goods for something more than half of the reparations annuities, possibly about $350,000,000 a year. If the United States is to soften this blow the commercial investment bankers must continue to make investments and loans in foreign countries in order that those countries may improve their economic position and accept some of the German export volume.

TO DEVELOP COLONIES

In considering the methods by which reparations payments by Germany will be made and the effect on American business, Mr. Robinson suggested four means through which the transfer of Allied credits in the Reichsbank are possible. Of these methods he declared that the most feasible is the plan to use these credits to develop colonial projects, such as the opening up of the Belgium Congo and of Morocco.

"I believe," he declared, "that, in final analysis, the 'assisted schemes' method may easily prove to be the most important, both in amount and in its effect on the producers in other countries. This statement is on the assumption that reparations stand alone. But, inasmuch as we are the creditor of all the Allied nations, when the inter-Allied debts reach a general settlement, the whole problem will shift.

"Great Britain, France and Italy have to receive payments from Germany. Great Britain would have to pay the United States all Germany pays her and all she may receive from France and Italy. France and Italy having settled the basis for payment of their war debts, all three will become merely intermediaries between Germany and the United States, and on the figures it might easily be that over half of whatever is paid by Germany would be 'bypassed,' or short-circuited between Germany and the United States. The problem, therefore, becomes, over the major portion of the field, a German-American one."

ASSOCIATION PROPOSED

In emphasizing the necessity of larger foreign investments abroad, Mr. Robinson asserted that the industrialists, the foreign traders and bankers for their own protection and the good of the nation, ought to associate themselves together for a better understanding of the problems involved.

He suggested that a board for the co-ordination and the compilation of available information might be created by the five interests most concerned with the problem of foreign investments. This board would be composed of two members each from the National Foreign Trade Council, American section of the International Chamber of Commerce, United States Chamber of Commerce, American Bankers' Association, Investment Bankers' Association of America, and two of the Cabinet officers, preferably the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of the Treasury.

"It appears," he concluded, "that we shall be under economic compulsion to make foreign loans and investments. It appears that the making of such loans, in the finality, will be of both direct and indirect advantage to our nation's business, if made with wisdom. It appears that the probabilities favor unparalleled developments in new countries and this, in the finality, will be of extraordinary advantage generally to the business of this country. It appears quite certain that in the earlier stages it is more than a duty for the various business elements of the country to operate with due consideration to the effect of their actions on the other elements."

BUILDING ACTIVITIES LEAD IN ACCIDENTS

CALIFORNIA CONSTRUCTION WORK TAKES LIVES OF 645, SAYS REPORT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—Building construction leads in number of accidents in California, according to statistics given out by the Industrial Accident Commission. Out of a total of 206,131 accidents reported to the commission in 1924, a total of 11,836 were chargeable to the building trades, says the report. Of the accidents reported, 645 resulted in deaths, 1319 in permanent disability and 87,982 in temporary disability.

NEW BLOCK ON RUM AND DOPE AIMED

Treasury Aide Will Seek to Check Heavy Influx from North and South

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25. — Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury is considering the problem of curbing the influx of liquor and narcotic supplies across the Mexican and Canadian borders, with particular attention to means of expanding his recent prohibition reorganization to bring additional pressure against those sources.

While the treaty with Mexico, negotiated in May, is looked upon as a long step toward curtailing smuggling, it cannot be effective until ratified by the Senate, and in the meantime, the border problem is acute.

The rum treaty with Canada also is regarded as a great help, but organization work that must be done lies on the United States side of the line.

Mr. Andrews probably will make a survey of the Canadian-border situation in the early autumn or sooner, having acquainted himself with Mexican-border conditions while at El Paso last month.

Mr. Andrews had not arrived at any definite conclusions today with respect to the means he will employ to tighten up the borders. He believes it can be done, however, and said a plan for more rigid enforcement would be developed.

Federal Court Gives Kerensky Regime Damages

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 25.—A jury in Federal District Court today returned a verdict of $3000 in favor of the defunct Kerensky government of Russia against the Lehigh Valley Railroad for damages growing out of the Black Tom disaster. The amount originally sued for was $1,642,000 but Judge Mack ruled out several items and reduced the claims passed on by the jury to $338,000.

The Black Tom disaster occurred on the Jersey shore of New York Bay July 30, 1916. Several cars of explosives were detonated, destroying millions of dollars of property and bringing a series of lawsuits, some of which still are pending.

BOYS HELD AS LEPERS

New Jersey Lads Found Afflicted After Mingling With Playmates

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEWARK (N. J.) June 25.—Two Newark schoolboys, Hale and Frank George, 11 and 13 years of age, respectively, are suffering from leprosy in the County Isolation Hospital at Soho.

They were taken to the hospital on June 15 after having suffered from a skin disease for three days. Hospital physicians said the disease was not in an advanced stage.

Dr. George J. Holmes, medical supervisor of schools, said that the danger to schoolmates who had come into contact with the boys was slight and that every precaution had been taken to prevent contagion.

The family came from Bermuda six years ago.

LONDON, June 25.—One thousand guests, including a number of Americans, tonight attended the court at Buckingham Palace and were presented to King George and Queen Mary.

King George wore an informal Royal Horse Guard's blue uniform. Queen Mary was dressed in a gown of pure gold brocade with a pale blue drain.

SPURN CONTROVERSY AT CHURCH SESSION

EUROPEAN PRESBYTERIANS SHY AT DEBATE ON FUNDAMENTALISM

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CARDIFF, June 25.—The controversy between fundamentalism and modernism flickered briefly here today during the session of the Alliance of Presbyterian Churches. But almost immediately it was snuffed out and died through lack of vital interest. The congregation on this side of the Atlantic are not concerned with the issue, no matter how important it may be in America.

A reference to the question was made in an address to the alliance by George Richards of Lancaster (Pa.) Theological Seminary. He stated the position of western Presbyterians to be a rejection of fundamentalism, but not an acceptance of modernism.

The subsequent discussion made it clear that representatives of European churches see no necessity for the introduction of the problem in their fields.

DIVORCE CHARGES OF SPORTSMAN DENIED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Mrs. Ida May Symington, in a low voice today denied the charges of infidelity upon which Thomas H. Symington, wealthy sportsman, bases the action for divorce being tried before Supreme Court Justice Ford and a jury. She declared there had never been the slightest impropriety in her relations with Maurice Fatio, named as one of several correspondents in her husband's bill. And on the night of March 11, 1924, which Talbot W. Chambers, wealthy coal operator, has sworn Mrs. Symington spent with him at his apartment, she told the jury she was constantly in her husband's company. Chambers is under bond on a charge growing out of his testimony.

FIRE HAZARD INTENSIFIED BY DRY WIND

Oregon Timber Periled as Flames Rge in Several Sections of State

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 25.—While a hot, drying wind was sweeping the forest areas of Oregon, hourly increasing the fire hazard, several fires were being fought today in the western part of the State and one in Central Oregon.

Threatening a great body of timber in the Siletz Basin, the fire which yesterday destroyed Camp Four of the Cobbe-Mitchell camp at Valsetz, was burning still today. The company's entire force of 200 men was fighting the flames. For a time the fire menaced the town of Valsetz and the big mill at that place, but the wind changed when the fire was within a quarter of a mile of the town.

FINGERPRINTS USED TO REVIVE "DEAD" CROOKS

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TELLS TRICKS OF CRIMINALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Remarkable stories of bringing criminals back to "life" after they are officially reported "dead" and of apprehending skilful crooks, who falsely identify unknown dead to collect insurance, are recited in a report prepared by finger-print experts of the Department of Justice.

Victims of amnesia, hundreds of the more than 80,000 unidentified persons buried every year and criminals of all descriptions—all are being successfully identified, the report declares, through use of the highly developed finger-print system.

Many men with criminal records, the report discloses, appear at morgues and give their own names to unidentified bodies, in order to continue unhampered their criminal practices, while the word "dead" is stamped on their records at the Bureau of Investigation.

Many crimes are being committed by these "dead" persons, but culprits usually are "revived" when their finger prints, taken after some subsequent misdemeanor, reach officials here.

An unusual case described is that of a man killed in Utah, who was identified by a woman as her husband. But when finger prints were forwarded to Washington they were found to be those of a man who had escaped from a Federal penitentiary and shortly afterward the woman's husband, whose insurance policy named her as beneficiary, was located in Los Angeles.

TEST OF OAKLAND'S WATER BONDS BEGUN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—An appeal action to test the validity of the bond issue for $39,000,000 voted by the city of Oakland for a new water supply was filed today in the State Supreme Court. The appeal is from a decision of the Alameda Superior Court upholding the bond issue. The original action against the issue was brought by a number of taxpayers.

First Photos of Shanghai Rioting Received in Los Angeles

While the situation in China emanating from intense antiforeign sentiment and manifesting itself in sanguinary antiforeign demonstrations, is becoming more critical every hour, foreigners in the big Chinese cities where American, British and French activities are centered, have mobilized to defend themselves against the rioting Chinese. Above are the first actual photographs depicting phases of the disturbances in Shanghai, to be received in Los Angeles. Upper left—Shanghai's foreign volunteer force patrolling a district in which some of the worst riots occurred. Upper right—Volunteers on guard at corner in downtown section immediately after a riot had been quelled. Note straw brought by rioting students to set fire to buildings. Lower left—Fire hose used against rioters, playing on one of the principal streets. In this instance pressure was too low to be effective and bullets were used to stop the rioters. Lower right—American trooper members of the volunteer force on guard at point where Americans were wounded in early rioting by bullets from windows of near-by buildings. (P. & A. photo.)

Thousands of Human Derelicts were the guests of "Brother Tom" Liddecoat at his Midnight Mission Wednesday on the occasion of the eighth anniversary of the founding of the haven. All who came were fed heartily between 5 in the afternoon and midnight, society women aiding the jovial philanthropist and his staff. Photo shows section of one of the tables. (Times photo.)

The Sanctity of the American Bench is an empty and meaningless phrase to workers in the Hollywood Bowl season ticket drive. Above three of the vandals are depicted in the act of interrupting Judge Caryl Sheldon's Police Court while Bailiff Hubbard strives desperately to intervene. VETERANS VOTE IRWIN REMOVAL

Re-election of Commander Loses on Ballot

Cards Attacking Leader Are Distributed

Regional Office Criticised in Resolution

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OMAHA, June 25. — After a tempestuous session, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in national convention here, today, decided against the re-election of National Commander Frank J. Irwin.

The convention session today spent most of its time in the discussion of changing the constitution to permit Commander Irwin to serve another term, which debate was climaxed by the distribution of anonymous cards which attacked the commander and intimated that he was "too friendly" with the United States Veterans' Bureau. The convention was thrown in an uproar, but later voted unanimously to condemn the author of the cards. It then voted 259 to 174 against changing the constitution, and, at the suggestion of Irwin, made it unanimous.

Resolutions were adopted attacking the Little Rock (Ark.) regional office of the Veterans' Bureau. The Little Rock delegation said "the office is torn by strife and discord" and that "various executives are fighting among themselves."

HOSPITAL PROPOSAL

Other resolutions adopted included one by Lieut.-Col. J. H. Stolper, commander of the Claude Shore Chapter, D.A.V., at Muskogee, Okla., requesting that Director Frank T. Hines of the Veterans' Bureau take immediate steps for the purchase of municipal hospital at Muskogee as an addition to the "overcrowded" United States Veterans' Hospital, No. 90, there.

Another resolution called for a full and unbiased investigation of the United States Public Health Service into the treatment of tuberculosis administered by Dr. Asas Brunson at El Paso, Tex., to disabled veterans. "It has been found," the resolution read, "that Dr. Brunson's treatment has been used with the greatest of success."

A resolution, presented by the Iowa delegation, calling for an official grave-marker for deceased D.A.V. comrades, also was adopted.

OTHER CANDIDATES

With Commander Irwin out of the running, lines were being drawn tonight for other candidates. The names of Jimmy O'Neill, New York, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor; John Mahan, Helena, Mont., and Capt. Thomas Kirby of Washington, D. C., present head of the D.A.V. legislation committee, are the most prominent. Elections and choice of the 1926 convention city will be made Friday afternoon.

The post of national commander affords a salary of $5000 a year, with traveling expenses.

Several addresses and reports also were made today, including those by Robert H. Smythe, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, who appealed to the business men of the nation to absorb into employment those men disabled by the war and who recommended that Director Hines eliminate the time limit on vocational training, now fixed at June 30, 1925, establish a traveling hospital inspection staff and set up a separate review division to re-examine all disallowed cases.

GIGANTIC RUM PLOT AIMED AT AMERICA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BANGOR (Me.) June 25.—A rum syndicate backed by millions of dollars at the command of French and British financiers and operating in the United States through the influence of wealthy Americans in several instances of high social and political connections, is revealed in the ship's papers of schooner Cherie, it was disclosed today. The Cherie was seized off the coast with a half million dollar cargo of high grade liquors which now is under guard in the rum room of the Federal Building here.

Names of the British and French liquor owners are in the hands of the government officials. It is learned, as well as proof that the half million dollar cargo was intended for wealthy residents of Maine summer resorts.

CLUB ENTERTAINED BY NONAGENARIAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OWATONNA (Minn.) June 25.—A novel program was presented at the weekly luncheon of the Owatonna Rotary Club when Rufus A. Spalding, 93 years of age, one of the city's oldest residents, delivered the oration he had given when graduating from high school seventy-six years before. He also repeated from memory a short address of Daniel Webster, whom he had known intimately in his youth, and sang two popular songs of that period.

Tourist Picks Up Monkey on Desert Road: Familiar With Cars

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) June 25. An odd desert find was that of R. A. Smith, who brought in a large monkey that boarded his car ten miles out of Tucson, on the Ajo Road.

The animal when first seen was in a tree, but came without hesitation, hunting up a canteen and showing evidences of thirst. When the canteen was opened, the monkey drank in true human fashion. In the city, the monkey refused to leave the automobile and had to be lassoed and dragged away by a representative of the Humane Society.

It is believed it was lost by a touring party, as monkeys are not indigenous to the locality.

Oleomargarine Tax Foes File New Signatures

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—Proponents of the referendum against the 1925 law to levy a 2-cents a pound tax on the manufacture of oleomargarine in California today filed 24,017 additional signatures with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan. The signatures came from San Francisco and make the total filed 41,104.

In order to qualify the referendum and thereby hold up the law until the electors vote on it in November of next year, 48,289 signatures are required.

Police Besiege Striking Paris Mail Carriers

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, June 25.—Mail carriers, striking for higher pay, today barricaded themselves in one of the city's principal postoffices, but were driven out by the police at 7 o'clock tonight.

The carriers had ousted nine striking employees from the building and driven away all customers.

It is reported there may be a general strike of all postal, telegraph and telephone employees in France, numbering more than 100,000. The telephone service from Paris to London already is interrupted and local service is disturbed.

Attorneys Laud Governor's Veto of Vicious Bills

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA CRUZ, June 25.—The District Attorneys' Association of California in session here today adopted a resolution commending Gov. Friend W. Richardson for his stand in "vetoing vicious measures" passed by the last Legislature.

"Much vicious legislation was passed, but none of it was sanctioned by Gov. Richardson," said Dist.-Atty. Earl Warren of Alameda county.

The delegates and their wives motored to the Redwood Forest this afternoon on a picnic jaunt.

DOUBT CONVICT CONFESSION

Prisoner's Story He Killed Man for Which Another Hanged, Held Impossible by Officials

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—The sensational story told by Edwin H. Silva, prisoner at Folsom Penitentiary, that he was the one who killed a fellow prisoner in 1921, for which crime a third prisoner, George Donnelly, assumed the responsibility and paid the penalty on the gallows was discredited by prison authorities at Folsom today.

The slaying occurred in the prison yard when Earl Morse was fatally stabbed in the back while marching with a line of prisoners. Donnelly, a veteran prisoner, assumed the responsibility for the crime, was tried, convicted and hung at the prison February 23, 1923.

A prisoner recently released from the penitentiary took to Los Angeles a purported confession of Silva's to the effect that it was he who really killed Morse, but that Donnelly shouldered the responsibility and accepted the hanging with a grin on his face—just for friendship's sake.

A prison official, speaking for Warden J. J. Smith, pointed out that Donnelly was not allowed to plead guilty, but stood trial in Sacramento, where it was proved that he killed Morse.

"Silva's story that he was the real killer has been known to the whole prison for some time," said this official. "The story was never credited by the warden or anyone else. Silva is half insane, and his story is absolutely impossible, according to belief here.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

Sheffield Va a Regresar a Méjico

WASHINGTON, Junio 25.—Manifestóse hoy en el ministerio de Estado que el embajador Sheffield regresará a la ciudad de Méjico. Este diplomático se halla actualmente en Nueva York, recuperándose de una ligera operación que vino a que le hicieran en este país. Dícese que se espera regrese pronto a hacerse cargo de nuevo de su puesto en Méjico.

El gobierno mejicano hace responsable al embajador Sheffield, en parte muy considerable al menos, de la reciente nota del ministro Kellogg, en la que éste declaró que "no eran del todo satisfactorias las condiciones que prevalecían en Méjico, y que esperaba que el gobierno del citado país devolviera las propiedades ilícitamente confiscadas a americanos, e indemizara a éstos." Desde que se publicó la citada nota comenzó a decirse que tal vez el embajador Sheffield ya no sería en lo de adelante persona grata en Méjico, y que, en tal virtud, quizá ya no volvería a aquel país; pero los funcionarios no han prestado la más mínima atención a esos rumores, que, se cree iban destinados al consumo casero de Méjico.

En el Otoño Abrirá Méjico su Banco

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Junio 25. El tan cacareado "Banco Unico de Méjico", para el que el gobierno ha allegado 40,000,000 de pesos en los últimos tres años, va a abrir sus puertas el próximo 15 de Septiembre, según declaración oficial que circuló hoy.

Al abrirse el banco, circulará ya, según se dice, papel moneda en substitución de la moneda metálica de oro y plata que hoy circula.

Tiénese entendido que el capital del banco será de 100,000,000 de pesos, de los que el gobierno subscribirá el 51 por ciento, con el fin, sin duda, de tener representación dominante. El resto del capital, o sea el 49 por ciento, será tomado, según se dice, por banqueros mejicanos y extranjeros, sobretodo franceses.

El comité técnico nombrado hace varios meses por el Presidente Calles, acaba de rendir su dictamen ante el ministro de Hacienda. Este dictamen está ya en manos del Primer Magistrado, y a menos de encontrársele deficiencias, dase por cierto que el Presidente Calles promulgará el indispensable decreto, que la Constitución exige para establecer el banco.

Desde que comenzó la administración actual, se ha venido preocupando el gobierno por crear dicho banco, y por hacer frente a las obligaciones interiores heredadas de la administración pasada, antes de atender a las deudas exteriores, y a los pagos acordados en el convenio de Lamont. Este es uno de los puntos que ha hecho se pongan tirantes las relaciones entre los Estados Unidos y Méjico.

El ex-embajador Warren, y probablemente también el embajador Sheffield, han sostenido que Méjico debería consolidar su crédito exterior antes de pagar sus deudas interiores.

NOTAS LOCALES

El primer acto oficial del jefe de policía interino Davilla, al tomar hoy posesión de su puesto, ha sido aceptar las renuncias forzadas de todos y cada uno de los miembros de su departamento, desde los detectives hasta los escribientes. Ha sido ésta la más importante remoción de agentes de policía que ha habido en la historia de la simpática población playera.

Tal ha sido la respuesta que ha dado el jefe interino Davilla a la petición de la Junta de "Trustees" de Venecia, que clama porque entren "nueva sangre y despierta juventud" en el servicio de policía de la citada ciudad.

Aunque, como se deja dicho, cada uno de los miembros de la Jefatura presentó su renuncia, para cumplimentar la súplica del señor Davilla, créese que unos cuantos de los veteranos de ese servicio serán retenidos. La gran mayoría, sin embargo, saldrá, para dejar su lugar a hombres mas jóvenes.

Llegados a lo orilla del mar, torcimos a mano derecha, y seguimos por un andador de tarima, que corre entre la carretera y el mar (when we got to the seashore we turned to the right and followed a boardwalk which runs between the road and the sea), y que, por ese lado, conduce a "Pebbly Beach" (Playa Guijosa) (and which on that side leads to Pebbly Beach). A poco andar (after a short walk) llegamos a una casa de baños, y ni mis dos tíos ni yo pudimos resistir a la tentación de bañarnos en el mar (we reached a bath-house and neither my uncle and aunt nor I could withstand the temptation of bathing in the sea), cuyas aguas son allí transparentes y azulinas (whose waters are pellucid and bluish there).

Sin más acá ni mas allá (without ifs or ands), entramos en el despacho y alquilamos cuartos y ropas de baño (we went into the office and hired rooms and bathing colthes).

Cada uno se metió en su cuarto, se desnudó, y se puso su vestido de baño (each one went into his room, undressed and put on his bathing suit). Pocos momentos después nos reunimos en la plataforma desde donde baja uno al mar por una escala, o se arroja a él desde un trampolín (a few minutes later we met on the platform wherefrom one goes down a ladder into the sea, or dashes into it from a springboard).

Bee's Knees in Jeopardy and Judge is Wise

Bee, whoever she was, admitted that she was weak in the knees, but she professed to have the courage of her convictions, and proclaimed her love to whomever might care to read a postcard she mailed to Wesley L. McHolland, Hollywood realty man, which Mrs. Dorothy McHolland found and brought to Judge Summerfield's divorce court yesterday.

"Hello, daddy," read this missive. "How are you? Have been weak in the knees ever since that long dance. Am going on the straight and narrow path until you come back. After that nothing matters???? Now you can't call me a piker. I said I'd write and here goes. I always have the courage of my convictions. Bee."

Judge Summerfield read the note, agreed that it was evidence of cruelty and awarded Mrs. McHolland a decree. She is a Hollywood modiste.

MONEY LOST IN PARK DEAL SAYS WIDOW

Partially Paralyzed, She Stated Plea for Return of Investment Was Refused

Details of how her widow's mite was lost in the Valhalla Memorial Park project were told on the stand yesterday in Federal Judge McCormick's court by Mrs. Georgia Murphy, a government witness in the trial of John R. Osborne, C. C. Fitzpatrick, Maynard L. Monger and Charles C. Vaughn, indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The story of the witness centered about $230 she said she had paid on several lots in the San Fernando Valley enterprise. She said she had begged the officials of the project to return the sum to her or resell her lots as she was partially paralyzed and in need of the money.

Two letters signed by Vaughn, auditor of the Osborne-Fitzpatrick Finance Company, the first notifying her that if she did not maintain her payments of $20 a month her contract would be cancelled and the second advising her of the actual cancellation, were all that she received in response to her pleas, she said. The letters were listed among the exhibits.

The government yesterday speeded its presentation of evidence and in the forenoon had five witnesses on the stand. The first was Dr. Edmund G. Powers and the second, Margaret C. Rowell. Testimony of the two was to the effect that the latter had been paying on three sections that were transferred and deeded to Dr. Powers, who also had been paying on the sections.

Mrs. C. F. Ahrens testified she bought three sections and they were later substituted for others. Charles E. Rickershauser declared he had been given one of the "100 per cent profit letters."

Other witness who testified were W. P. Keogh, A. P. Soule, acting Real Estate Commissioner of California, J. J. Kinney, Frank Salerno, Pauline Frederickson, W. H. Lembke, George F. Aue, Mary C. Carson and Ned M. Green.

Mr. Soule identified several applications to deal in real estate that had been filed with him by officials of the memorial project.

The other witnesses either testified that they had contracts on land that had been deeded to others, or declared that the sections they had purchased were discovered by them ot be under portals or other structures at the park.

Wilbur Finally Gives Approval to Arctic Trip

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Wilbur, after receiving a message today from Lieutenant-Commander Byrd, head of the Navy section of the MacMillan expedition, informing him that the standard long-wave navy radio set had been taken aboard the Peary at Sydney, N. S., indicated that preparations of the expedition now meet his approval.

The Secretary had issued an ultimatum that the long-wave set, which weighs about 2000 pounds and was twice left behind by the Peary, must be installed or the Navy section would be withdrawn.

Only 6½ Miles from Down Town!

The Home Site Ideal

For a small cash payment you can have a beautiful home in Montebello Park. Get out of the ranks of the renters and become a home owner. Save your money instead of paying it out in rent. You will have an investment that in the years to come will pay you handsome dividends in health and happiness. It should also make you a substantial profit.

Over $650,000 will be spent on improvements in Montebello Park. 3448 carloads—nearly 70 full trainloads—of sand, gravel, cement, pipe and other materials will be required to complete the extensive program. Enough young trees will be used to plant a 60-acre city park.

Whittier Boulevard frontage offers a remarkable investment opportunity today, owing to the fact that it carries the heaviest traffic of any boulevard in Southern California and to the high class development that is taking place in Montebello Park. We can cite many examples of astonishing profits made on Whittier Boulevard during the past four years. Ask about it.

WHERE else can you find such beautiful high class development only 6½ miles from Seventh and Broadway at such low prices as prevail in Montebello Park? Here, close to the city and in the heart of the East Side highway system you can buy a homesite for as little as $995, and for only $1500 you can have a lot on a 120 foot street with beautiful landscaped parkways. Compare these prices with any other property no further from downtown, and you will ask with hundreds of others "How can they sell it so reasonably?"

Nowhere will you find a more beautifully laid out residence district, for the plans of Montebello Park, by Cook and Hall, are considered among the finest ever submitted to the Regional Planning Commission. And think of the convenience of its location—on two major boulevards only twenty minutes drive from the business center. Here is where you will find life most worth living, for every feature is included to make an ideal home community.

THE HIGHWAY PLANS OF THE EAST SIDE MEAN PROFITS FOR THOSE WHO INVEST NOW

Look at the map of any district showing where major boulevards are projected—there's where you will find the shrewdest investors are buying. The above map shows the East Side as it will appear when the major traffic plan endorsed by the Regional Planning Commission and the East Side Organization has been fully carried out. Most of the highways and two of the viaducts shown are already under way and being rapidly pushed to completion. Study the plan carefully and you will see that the principal traffic arteries—both North and South, and East and West—either go through Montebello Park or close by. When you realize what happened to values on the West Side as the highways were built, you can gain an idea of the tremendous increases that should take place here when this plan is accomplished.

A real surprise awaits you at Montebello Park. It is not like any other subdivision. It offers opportunities that have not been seen in Los Angeles real estate since 1923. Come out today and look it over. Drive out the Whittier Boulevard to the tract office or take the "R" car going East on Seventh Street to Pasadena Avenue. Or better still, telephone us and we will arrange to have a courteous representative take you out there.

MUST REDUCE INTEREST RATE

If Requirements Are Met Blair Will Get Bonds

Council Rules 4 1-2 Per Cent Burden on Taxpayers

Street Improvement Bonds Awarded Yesterday

If the syndicate headed by Blair & Co., Inc., can rearrange its interest charges on various blocks of the $11,250,000 municipal bonds to satisfy the municipal water department and the City Council, it is not unlikely that the bid will be accepted. This announcement was made yesterday by the Council and it is expected the syndicate will endeavor to meet these requirements.

Final action on the low bid of the Blair & Co., Inc., syndicate was postponed until this morning. The bid of the National City Company syndicate was definitely rejected by the City Council yesterday, and similar rejection was tentatively announced on the bid of the Blyth, Witter & Co., syndicate.

MATHEWS OBJECTS

The water department, through Special Counsel W. B. Mathews, objected to that part of the low bid, which fixed an interest rate of 4½ per cent for the $8,000,000 water bonds, while the $2,000,000 Colorado River aqueduct and $350,000 pedestrian tunnel bonds carried but 4 per cent interest, and the $500,000 branch library bonds and the $500,000 bridge bonds fixed the low interest rate of 3½ per cent.

Counsel Mathews contended that this was penalizing the water department, in as much as it must pay the interest and sinking fund charges out of revenue. He stated that the water bonds are more attractive than the others in that they have the protection of the city government as well as the water department.

READJUST RATES

An effort will be made to obtain a readjustment of the interest rates over the five issues, so that the total interest charge to the taxpayers will be the same or less than it was on the original bid. If this can be done, it is probable that the bid of the syndicate comprising Blair & Co., Inc., First National Bank of New York, Anglo London Paris Company Bank of Italy, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., Hallgarten & Co., Hayden, Stone & Co., Redmond & Co., and the Detroit Company, will be accepted.

If the low bidding syndicate cannot meet the requirements, the City Council will reject all bids and advertise for new ones.

The City Council yesterday accepted the bid of Drake Riley & Thomas for the $500,000 district bonds for the improvement of forty-five streets in the town of Girard section of Los Angeles in the San Fernando Valley. The bonds will bear 6 per cent interest.

BANK CONCLAVES COSTLY

BY EARLE E. CROWE

As part of the general policy of economy that is demanding a thorough scrutiny of all expenses incident to the conduct of business operations, the bankers of the country are beginning to ask themselves a pertinent question concerning the value of conventions. Most bankers admit the benefits accruing to the individual delegates and indirectly to the banks from these annual gatherings, but there is a difference of opinion as to whom should pay the bill.

Until recently, the competition for the conventions of the American Bankers' Association has been especially keen among the larger cities of the country, but lately a decided lack of interest has been shown. This year's convention goes to Atlantic City because no other city seemed to want it. The 1923 convention was held in Atlantic City and this year the bankers are returning practically without an invitation. They are going there because the hotel accommodations are adequate, but they will have to entertain themselves.

COST EXCESSIVE

Cost of entertainment is the question around which all the trouble revolves. When a city undertakes to act as host to the American Bankers' Association or any other organization, the local body issuing the invitation naturally is expected to play the host to the limit of its ability, or more correctly, its pocket-book. To entertain an association usually bringing about 6500 delegates now means an assessment of some proportions on the bankers of the city, and the bill is growing so large that many bankers are reluctant to meet such an obligation.

Seattle would have liked to act as host to the association this year, but after looking into the matter carefully, the bankers of that city decided that the expense would reach an exorbitant figure. It is not difficult to sympathize with this decision when it is learned that the Chicago bankers' assessed themselves $150,000 to entertain the association in 1924, and the New York bankers paid $200,000 in 1922.

Probably a majority of the delegates would have preferred to hold the convention this year in Seattle or Minneapolis or some other city in which the convention has not been held for some time. Undoubtedly a great part of the benefit realized in attending the convention is in meeting the bankers as a group in various sections of the country and learning of their local problems. However, the spirit of economy is gaining ascendancy over the desire of local groups to show their city to the bankers of the nation, and so this year finds the association returning to Atlantic City. The hotel managements are glad to have them, but there is no fund for entertainment and the delegates will have to amuse themselves.

SOLUTION PROPOSED

Faced squarely with the fact that their conventions are costing too much money, the opinion is gradually forming that the only solution is to relieve the cities from the burden of entertainment expense. If this is done, it is believed by some of the bankers that more cities will enter the competition for the annual meetings, and the delegates will then evince more interest in traveling to a different city each year.

One suggestion is that the nominal expenses of the convention can be met by charging each delegate a registration fee of $10. The visitors would assume the obligation of paying for their own entertainment, and it is possible that a good portion of the delegates would actually feel relieved if this plan were put into effect. In many cases the implied obligations to enter into entertainment programs provided by the local bankers is a severe strain on the delegates who would rather relax.

Under such a plan as this, it is possible that the bankers of Los Angeles may enter the competition for the convention in 1926. This city has entertained the American Bankers' Association twice before, once in 1910 and again in 1921. The association has not come to the West since 1921, and since that time Los Angeles has assumed an even more prominent position in the banking world. The city has four or five of the 100 largest banks in the United States, and total deposits are now estimated at more than $1,000,000,000.

WESTERN MAN DUE

When the convention was held here in 1921, the bankers of the city assessed themselves over $56,000 to entertain the delegates, but since that time the expenses have taken several jumps upward to correspond with the New York and Chicago ideas of convention entertainment. Even without agreement on the elimination of these expenses, it is possible that the Los Angeles bankers may bid for the 1926 meeting. It is recalled that San Francisco has been the scene for only one convention of the association, and that was back in 1903.

In connection with the suggestion of bringing the 1926 meeting to Los Angeles a glance at the records of the American Bankers' Association shows that the West has not named a president since 1920, when John S. Drum, president of the Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco held the office. The late James K. Lynch, the first governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, was the only other westerner to ascend to the presidency of the association.

From the West has come much of the new development in banking in recent years and naturally some outstanding leaders have been produced in this time. One or two of the California bankers have obtained international recognition, and the selection of one of them to head the association would come as a fitting recoghition of western banking progress.

INDUSTRIAL SECURITIES ON MARKET

Manufacturers of Marine Engines Own Shipyards in Scandinavia

An issue of $2,000,000 Burmeister & Wain, Ltd., of Copenhagen, fifteen year 6 per cent sinking fund external gold bonds will be offered today by a banking group composed of Brown Bros. & Co., Blair & Co., Inc., and White, Weld & Co., at 95½ to yield 6⅛ per cent. The bonds are due July 1, 1940.

The company is the world's largest manufacturer of marine and stationary diesel engines. It also owns the largest shipyards in Scandinavia. These yards are largely devoted to repair work and construction of ocean-going diesel motorships. The firm was originally established as a partnership in 1846 and is now one of the leading industrial enterprises in Denmark.

This issue is to be a direct obligation of the company and will rank equally with about $807,500 5 per cent bonds of the company now outstanding. The properties of the company are entirely free from mortgage liens, except for $248,907 mortgages.

Earnings for the past five years have averaged over seven and three-quarters times the interest charges after taxes and depreciation. These bonds will be followed by 20,000,000 kronen capital stock, which at current market price of about 123 per cent represents an equity of approximately $4,700,000.

During the past ten years the stock has sold as high as 245 per cent, and during this time the company has paid substantial dividends ranging from 10 per cent to 25 per cent, with a present rate of 12 per cent.

The issue is redeemable at the option of the company in whole or in part at 100 on any interest date. Semiannual sinking fund, beginning next January, of one-thirtieth of principal amount of issue to be applied to retirement of bonds by purchase up to par, and if not so obtainable, by redemption at par. The sinking fund is sufficient to retire all bonds by maturity.

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

[BY WIRELESS—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

(Evening Post Foreign Service, copyright, 1925, New York Post, Inc.)

LONDON, June 25.—A brighter outlook prevailed today in the financial markets.

The improved tone was due in a measure to the fact that underwriters of the recent trade facilities loan, with the government guarantee, were called upon to take a smaller proportion than had been feared.

Investments consequently were steadier. Chinese and industrial stock rallied slightly.

Continental exchanges were weak, however, especially the franc, which was quoted at nearly 106.

Some attention is being given to reports of a large Australian project for stabilization of wool prices. The proposal, so far as it is understood, has been criticised in the the city, especially as wool is now faced with a rival in artificial silk.

Metropolitan Offers Evening Banking Course

Paper money, modern currency problems, clearing houses, foreign exchanges and branch banking are some of the topics to be discussed and studied in the six-weeks' summer evening course in "Money and Banking," given by Metropolitan College, of the University of Southern California. The course will be given on Tuesday and Thursday evenings under the direction of Dr. Wallace McCook Cunningham, the head of the finance department at the University of Southern California.

Registrations will be taken at 7 p.m. the 30th inst., at Metropolitan College, in the Transportation Building, Seventh and Los Angeles streets.

The course will include discussions of bank problems in the United States with reference to the Federal Reserve System, as well as discussions of standards of value, and an examination of the value and functions of money.

BUSINESS TODAY

President's Tax Proposals Revive Discussion of Municipal Bonds—Wall Street Bankers Say High Levels Due to Quality, Not Tax Exemption.

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—In the heart of almost every securities dealer President Coolidge's proposal to slash taxes strikes a warm indorsement. Every time this question comes up, however, dealers in municipal bonds are confronted with some such question as this: If surtaxes are reduced will not tax-exempt municipals lose in popularity and therefore gradually decline in price?

FALSE THEORY HAS SPREAD

Wall street bankers in the last day or two have been asked this question again by some investors who have it firmly in their heads that municipal bonds have crept forward bit by bit to the present levels simply in response to buying by those who are attempting to escape taxes.

Such investors reason that a reduction in taxes is for the general good of the country, but fear that from a market standpoint municipal obligations are likely to suffer, now that the plan seems assured of adoption.

At the time our large surtaxes were imposed first much was made of the advantages of municipal over corporation bonds or, to put it in another way, of tax-exempt over taxable securities. The impression has spread that the market in municipal bonds is pretty largely made by wealthy investors anxious to escape taxation. That wealthy individuals seeking to avoid surtaxes have chosen municipals in thousands of instances is long established. That the market in municipals nowadays is controlled by investors of that type, however, it would be silly to contend.

MUNICIPALS FOR QUALITY

Those who buy municipal obligations in order to escape surtaxes are in the minority, if we look at municipal investors as a group. The great bulk of funds that flows into municipal bonds originates in the banks, insurance companies, fraternal and benevolent orders, trust funds and small investors. To investors of this type tax exemption means little. With them it almost never is the basis of a selection.

Quality is what governs the choice of the investors who at the present time hold most of our municipal bonds, and the fact that municipals happen also to be free from taxation is an incidental matter. To anyone who has watched the market in municipal issues over a period of years the conclusion must be obvious that the market is made by the demand from these investors. Buying and selling of the investors of the other type, those who seek freedom from taxation, is not large enough in the aggregate to sway the general market.

Such considerations should help to make it clear why municipal obligations continue so popular with our shrewdest investors and why, notwithstanding the present levels and the tax-reduction proposals, these investors keep on buying municipals. The large institutions figure that quality is what counts most, to them municipal bonds as a class generally are ranked next to Liberties. That surtaxes will be reduced does not turn their faith even in the market for these bonds, since the belief is rather common that the general price level in municipals does not yet discount in full the additional advantages of the tax features.

American Toll Bridge Company
First Mortgage 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

[Exempt from Personal Property Tax in California]

This Company was organized in 1923, by interests which own and operate the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Company, for the purpose of constructing and operating a toll bridge across the San Joaquin River, near Antioch, and a toll bridge across the Carquinez Strait in upper San Francisco Bay, California. The Antioch Bridge, when completed, will supersede the present Lauritzen Ferry; the Carquinez Bridge, when completed, will supersede the present Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry which will, thereupon, be liquidated.

The Antioch Bridge, 4627 feet in length, will afford a direct easy route between the San Francisco Bay communities and the highly productive delta region between Sacramento, Stockton and the bridge crossing. Construction of this bridge was begun March, 1924, and is expected to be completed in September 1925. The Carquinez bridge, 4482 feet in length, will be a main artery for traffic between San Francisco Bay communities and the extensive territory embracing Sacramento, Napa and Sonoma valleys.

Because of the important public service rendered by this company, its large assured earning power, and the ample security afforded by the absolute first mortgage on all bridges, franchises, lands and other properties now owned or hereafter acquired, we regard these bonds as unusually desirable at the present price of 100 and interest to yield 7%.

Descriptive circular will be mailed upon request.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Prices Drift Downward

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Bond prices drifted downward today simultaneously with a rise in the call money rate to 5 per cent, and a diversion of speculative interest to stock trading. Although the financial district felt that the stiffening of call loans was only temporary in view of the month-end settlements, the development was used as an excuse for general profit taking.

Revolutionary disturbances in Greece caused fairly heavy selling of Greek government 7 per cent bonds, which broke 3 points and closed 1 3-4 below last night's final figure. Continued uneasiness over the Chinese situation at the same time was reflected in a recession in Chinese Railway 5s to a new loss for the year.

For the first time this week buying support was lacking for United States government obligations and prices of both Liberty and Treasury bonds were shaded.

Speculative purchasers were induced to unload some of their holdings by the record high levels attained on the recent upswing.

Railroad issues, after showing a tendency to follow the upward trend of carrier stocks in the early dealings, turned reactionary. Oil, rubber and sugar bonds also gave way after a strong start.

The $20,000,000 loan arranged for the Chilean mortgage bank by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will be offered publicly tomorrow at a price of 97 3-8. The bonds bear 6½ per cent interest and mature in thirty-two years. A loan of $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 was reported under negotiation for the city of Cologne, Germany.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices, as taken on the New York Stock Exchange and the total sales of each bond. These quotations are received over a leased private wire and, as republic transactions, the closing is omitted when it is the same as the low, and both low and closing are omitted when they are the same as the high.

NEW YORK CURB

Prices Move Up

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stock prices moved up sharply in today's curb market, with increased public interest manifested in the public utility shares. Oils made only moderate response to reports of another sharp decrease in crude production for the week ended June 20, Cheesebrough being among the few issues to show net gains of a point or more. In the industrial group, Electrical Refrigeration issues gave another exhibition of group strength, Nizer and Serve-Xi both mounting to new high levels for the year. National Tea posted 25 points on a few odd-lot sales in reflection of a sharp increase in sales and earnings. Other strong spot in that group included St. Regis Paper, Cuba Company, Gillette Safety Razor and Chrysler Motors, all up a point or more.

National Power and Light was the spectacular feature in the public utility division, soaring 15 points to 238. Substantial gains also were recorded by Power Corporation of New York, Lehigh Power Securities and United Light and Power, with high current earnings stimulating the buying in each case. Western Power was weak, breaking more than 3 points to 42. Speculative interest in the mining group was divided between the heavy trading in Kay Copper, which sold around its recent high levels, and the strength of Ginsberg Gold, which crossed 57 for a gain of more than 4 points.

STOCK PRICES SURGE HIGHER

Advance Despite Marking Up of Call Money Rate

Specialty Movements Feature Heavy Trading

American Can Makes Best Industrial Showing

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stock prices moved steadily upward today despite the marking up of the call money rate from 4 1-4 to 5 per cent. Specialty movements featured the day's trading, which ran just over 1,000,000 shares.

Pools were again active, particularly in the tobacco, public utility and motor issues. More than a score of stocks were lifted to new high levels for the year, the list including Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies common and preferred, United Cigar Stores, Tobacco Products, Simmons Company, General Motors 7 per cent preferred, Yellow Cab Manufacturing, Hudson and Manhattan common and preferred, Federal Light and Traction, Mackay Companies, American Type Founders and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

BALDWIN GAINS

American Can made the best showing among the so-called standard industries, closing 1 5-8 higher at 135 3-8 after having sold a point above that figure. Baldwin showed a fractional gain at 111, and United States Steel common receded 5-8 to 114 3-4. Lehigh Valley was one of the outstanding strong spots of the rail group, showing an extreme gain of more than 3 points at $1 7-8 on publication of the May earnings report showing net operating income of $1,541,540, as compared with $901,982 in the corresponding month of last year. Steady buying of the Northwestern rails, particularly Chicago and Northwestern, was in expectation of a favorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the application for an increase in freight rates in that territory.

OILS FIRMER

Oils showed a firmer tendency on publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute, showing another large decrease in the daily average of gross crude oil production for the week ended the 20th inst.

Marking up of the call money rate from 4 1-4 to 5 per cent, the highest rate in nearly three months, was attributed to the heavy demand for funds in connection with July 1 dividend and interest payments. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.85 3-4, but French and Belgian francs yielded slightly to 4.64 and 4.59½ cents, respectively. Greek exchange turned weak on reports of the revolutionary disturbances. Danish kroner touched a new high at 19.58.

STEEL AND IRON TRADE HOLDS FIRM

Less Anxiety Expressed Over Possibility of Any Sharp Recession

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, June 25.—June brought to the iron and steel industry evidence of no important change in business volume, either favorable or unfavorable, reports the Iron Trade Review. Gains in tonnage in some lines to a large extent have been neutralized by tapering off in others. The net result leave the situation as to its fundamentals virtually unchanged from that which existed sixty days ago. The market remains of a very liquid character with the gap between demand and supply unusually narrowed as weeks pass. However, the feeling of security has been strengthened as to permanency. With continuing fair business, even though placed on a hand-to-mouth basis, producers and consumers are adjusting their mental attitude accordingly and less anxiety is expressed over the possibility of any sharp recession.

About 65 per cent operations of the steel industry today compare favorably with 45 to 50 per cent a year ago. Except for two additional furnaces blown out at Chicago, activities of works this week are modified but slightly.

Tonnage is flowing to mills from the automobile industry at a rate much greater at this season than for several years. Buying from this source, while constant, is not in large lots. Reports of heavy tonnages of sheets and strip steel being placed by the Ford Motor Company proved greatly exaggerated. This buyer three weeks ago placed 5000 tons of blue annealed sheets with a Mahoning Valley maker at 2.20 cent. Pittsburgh, and this week several small lots of black sheets in the same territory at 3.10 cents Pittsburgh. Its main needs for the third-quarter, estimated at 30,000 to 35,000 tons, are yet to be placed. Galvanized sheets displayed fresh raggedness with something akin to a price war between certain producers, especially in southern territory.

Another large week of structural steel awards shows 45,384 tons and a total of about 92,000 tons in the past two weeks. The Oklahoma National Gas Company placed a sixty-five-mile pipe line, requiring 10,000 tons and other oil and gas requirements keep coming up in good volume.

Southern railroads are understood to have closed for a total of 27,000 tons of rails in Europe at prices of $33.50 to $34 tidewater, against a domestic price of $43. Mill orders for concrete bars and structural shapes taken along the Atlantic coast the past sixty days largely from jobbers, are placed at 16,000 to 18,000 tons. While sales have dwindled, pig iron is showing an increased firmness. Considerable tonnage of valley foundry iron has gone at $18.50 now the minimum, or 50 cents above the low point.

The Iron Trade review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products this week is $37.33, compared with $37.43 last week and $38.37 one month ago.

SIGNAL HILL IN ITS FIFTH YEAR

Move Begun to Put Marker on Discovery Well

Field Has Produced Total of 150,000,000 Barrels

New Development Centers in Northwestern Area

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 25.—The Signal Hill oil field began its fifth year today, after producing 150,000,000 barrels of crude oil.

Inauguration of a movement to place a marker on the Shell company's Alamitos No. 1 well, the discovery well of the big field, was launched today as a feature of a celebration of the field's fourth anniversary. Officials of the city of Signal Hill pointed out that the scenic drive, now undergoing improvements alongside the historic well, will attract thousands of motorists, and that a bronze tablet or some other fitting marker on the well would add to its interest. Shell company officials, it was reported today, have agreed to cooperate in the plan.

Alamitos No. 1 started in its fifth year after a crew of Shell company workmen had renewed the sucker rods and inspected its pumping equipment. The well is now producing sixty barrels a day. Since June 25, 1921, the well has produced 435,902 barrels of oil. The well was off production more than half of 1922 while being deepened to the second sand. This operation was notably successful, the well making 271,317 barrels during 1923, or more than half of its total yield. In 1921, the hole yielded 54,150 barrels, and the next year it produced 23,609 barrels. Production in 1924 dropped steadily from approximately 9000 barrels in January to 3700 barrels in December, the total for that year reaching 70,924 barrels.

Total production for Signal Hill during the four years ending today is estimated at 150,000,000 barrels. Several wells in the field have each made better production records than the discovery well, and in shorter periods of time, some of the more recent wells having yielded in excess of 2,000,000 barrels each, and more than a dozen having passed the 1,000,000-barrel mark.

Today the field is yielding about 107,000 barrels a day. Official figures for May show a yield of 3,376,762 barrels, a daily average of 108,928 barrels. Active producing wells at the beginning of this month totaled 537. The May production in the field was more than one-sixth of the total oil output in the State.

New development in the field now centers in the northwestern area, where a score or more of new derricks have been erected and additional wells are being planned. A total of from sixty to 100 new wells are projected for this portion of the field during the next six months, oil operators assert.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The greatest production era since the days of Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs is occurring in the Inglewood field, which has reached a daily output unequalled in California since these two great gusher fields began their sensational careers. Estimates of oil men, based on actual gauged production of practically all the wells at Inglewood, show the output yesterday to have been well above 80,000 barrels.

This production was chiefly divided between the four large companies operating in the field, with the smaller operators producing only a few thousand barrels. The Standard Oil Company, original discoverer of the field, led the list with more than 30,000 barrels, the Pan American interests, including the Petroleum Securities Company, running a close second with about 25,000 barrels. The Associated Oil Company was credited with about 12,000 barrels, while the Petroleum Midway Company, the Mohawk Oil and Gas Syndicate, and the Brownmoor Oil Company, the only other producers in the field, accounted for between 3000 and 4000 barrels, the bulk of which was produced by the Petroleum Midway Company.

No field in the Los Angeles Basin has reached this daily output since Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs made their world records. The largest producing field since that time was Torrance, with a peak of about 75,000 barrels, with the Domingues top figure being about 65,000 barrels in a single day. The Rosecrans field has yet to reach the 20,000-barrel mark.

Part Third Well

The Gilmore Oil Company is rigging up to start its third well in the North Midway field, it was reported yesterday by C. S. Beesemyer, vice-president of the company. The Gilmore's second well is now down about 1150 feet, and is within about 200 feet of the point where it will be completed.

To Redrill Well

E. J. Miley will redrill his No. 5 well at Athens, it was officially reported yesterday. To date the well has been a disappointment in spite of the fact that it penetrated 300 feet of continuous oil sand, and was expected to make the banner well of the field. Drillers believe the formation was mudded off, and that it may come into its own if it is properly redrilled. The five-inch oil string will be pulled, a new hole made, and the well will be brought in barefooted.

Start First Well

A. T. Jergins, head of the syndicate which has been developing the municipally owned lands of the city of Long Beach at Signal Hill has started his first well in the Newport Beach district, according to field reports. Jergins recently acquired a considerable block of acreage in this district.

Quit Wildcat Well

The Globe Petroleum Corporation has officially abandoned its Tejon No. 1 well at Comanche Point, on the Tejon Ranch, according to official reports. The well was tested recently after standing idle for more than a year, but no showings were found.

Pays Dividends

The Garner-Kelly Oil Company and the Garner Oil Corporation, both Long Beach companies headed by William E. Garner, have declared dividends of 1 and 1½ per cent, according to official reports. The Garner-Kelly Company's 1 per cent dividend makes a total of 51½ per cent of the capital stock paid out in dividends, while the Garner Oil Company dividend of 1½ per cent makes a total of 57½ per cent on the capital stock, it is said.

Resume Operations

The San Jose-Elk Hills Company which drilled to 5000 feet in depth in the Buena Vista Lake bottom, without encountering oil, has resumed operations, it is said, with the intention of drilling another 1000 feet or more if necessary, to tap the oil believed to be in this new area of exploration.

Official Report

Oil-field operations reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ending the 20th inst., show thirty new wells started, as compared with thirty-seven during the previous week. Of the thirty notices to drill filed this week, five were for wells in the Inglewood field, one in the Newport field, three in the Rosecrans field, four in the Long Beach field, one in the Dominguez field, three in the Torrance field, one in the Whittier field, one in Santa Barbara county, ten in the fields of Kern county, and one in Tulare county. The total new wells this year is 670, as compared with 764 at the same date last year.

Tests for water shut-off this week numbered thirty-three, as compared with fifty-four during the previous week. Yearly total to date, 716; total to same date last year, 828.

Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered sixteen, as compared with eighteen during the previous week. Total to date this year, 460; total to same date last, year, 383.

Abandonments this week numbered seven, as compared with ten during the preceding week. Total to date this year, 206; total to same date last year, 256.

Wheat Market Closes Lower; Corn Also Off

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Liquidation was on in the grain markets with prices declining sharply, numerous stop-loss orders being uncovered on the way down. In wheat the realization that there had been little damage by rust so far, coupled with local pressure, and a lack of support carried the September down to 1.48¼, or 5¼ cents under the high on Wednesday. Under 1.49, however, aggressive buying developed and with short covering there was a strong rally with the close at 1.49¾@1.49⅞. Net losses for the day were 2¼@2⅝ cents, with July at 1.52@1.52¼, and December at 1.51¼@1.51⅜. Corn closed ⅝@1 cent lower on the old crop futures and ⅝ cent higher on December, while oats were off 1⅜@1⅝ cents and rye 2⅛@2½ cents. July corn finished at 1.02¼@1.02, September at 1.03¼@1.03¼ and December at 84⅝@85⅛.

There was nothing in the general run of news to account for the selling movement in wheat, although weather conditions in the Northwest were better and there were further denials of rust in Canada. R. O. Cromwell estimated the three provinces had a prospective yield of 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels at the present time, compared with 245,000,000 bushels last year. Sanford Evans wired that rust talk was about ten days too early as far as Canada was concerned. At the same time Crop Observer George Bryant, who has returned from the American Northwest, estimated that the condition of spring wheat there was around 10 points lower than on June 1, due to damage by frost, rust and excessive moisture.

There was persistent selling of wheat futures credited to an eastern operator who was recently very active on the buying side. Local sentiment was decidedly bearish early, with the failure of the outside trade to enthuse on the buying side a big factor. Liverpool closed 1⅛@2d lower in sympathy with the decline in America. Foreign crop conditions on the whole were slightly less favorable, and Argentine cables claimed dry weather continued. Export demand fell off materially with sales in all positions estimated at 200,000 to 400,000 bushels, mostly Manitoba.

July corn sold down to 1.00½, a new low on the present downturn and to the lowest figure in over two months with scattered liquidation on. Short covering caused a strong rally from the low point. The December showed stubborn resistance to pressure a good part of the day, although weather conditions were generally favorable for the new crop. Spot basis was firm. Oats reflected the action of other grains to a large extent with stop-loss orders caught on the way down and the close was about the bottom.

Norway bought a cargo of rye at the seaboard and with scattered lots to other countries the day business was finally estimated at 200,000 to 250,000 bushels. Trade-in futures was not large and prices declined in sympathy with futures.

Commission houses were on the selling side of September lard with scattered liquidation on, but became firmer toward the last on buying by cash houses. The close was unchanged to 20 cents lower. Ribs were 20@22½ cents slower, with bellies 10@25 cents lower.

CRUDE RUBBER MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—The strong factory demand that imparted to the crude rubber market the buoyant tone it has displayed over the past two days showed the first signs of slackening in today's session, and prices quick to respond established a softening tendency. Spot prices were still quoted firm at Wednesday's level, and in some instances even higher marks were named, but future positions were on an average of 1c below the prices they commanded yesterday. In view of the sharp and rapid advances that prices made, this settling was considered only natural and dealers displayed little concern. Inquiry from manufacturing sources was still in evidence, but of smaller volume, and although business was transacted at the quoted figures, bids were generally about 1c under the asked price. London rates ease easy and off ⅛d at 58⅝d.

July Option Declines $2 a Bale Under Pressure of Contract Liquidation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, June 25.—The cotton market weakened soon after the opening today on considerable liquidation in July contracts and some local and southern selling of the new crop months, because a few more points in Texas had some beneficial showers overnight.

The decline ranged from 50 points or $2 a bale on July contracts from yesterday's closing quotations to 25 and 30 points on October to March of the new crop.

This brought July down to 22.94, the first time it has sold at a discount with the new crop months. October sold down to 23.19, December, 23.30, January, 22.80 and March, 23½.

There was a rally of 15 to 20 points from those prices in the afternoon from the usual covering of shorts to get profits, and also some speculative buying by local traders on the rains in Texas being insufficient, and the official forecast for only possible showers in the northern part of the State tonight.

This was the first day "notices" for the tender of cotton for delivery on July contracts could be issued here. The equivalent of about 90,000 bales was sent out on the opening of the market, including 50,000 for the most prominent spot house and the balance by two others. This was out of the total contract stock here of about 115,000 bales. It was the circulation of these notices that broke July, thereby upsetting the balance of the list.

A good deal was taken back later and hedges that had been outstanding in July contracts, were also covered while these notices were circulating. The option now seems to be well liquidated with the cotton now held mostly by other spot houses and exporters.

Today's exports were 4473 bales. It brought the total from August 1 to 5,982,935 bales against 5,541,502 for the same time a year ago.

Wall Street Paragraphs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1925, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Five per cent call money today had no inverse effect on stock market sentiment, as the general price trend continued to gain headway with a number of issues getting into new higher ground. New group movements again were prominent, although they were not to the exclusion of specialty securities, which made further progress up the ladder. Dividend possibilities were stressed as market factors, and to this feature was added the prospect of consolidation, always interesting to the speculative mind. The rails steamed along under the guidance of the granger shares, for which Wall street foresaw a new lease of life once given the expected rate increase. Tobaccos continued their advance under concentrated buying and the oils maintained a firm appearance, which the street conceded to be fully warranted on current earnings.

FROM PILLAR TO POST

That floor traders were making many of the moves without much effort, was the declaration of observers with direct telephone connections to the stock exchange. And by taking some dull stocks in small lots at offered prices they were able to effect some outside response, as the tape advertised unusual action, and readily reaped a profit.

CONSOLIDATION PROSPECTS

Railroad consolidation matters were to the fore in street discussion, with the Van Sweringen and Loree plans leading topics. The stand of the D. and H. chief in planning his own system through to Chicago was in marked contrast to the position which tentatively had been allotted to him by the eastern trunk lines, while the merger hearing affecting the proposed Nickel Plate naturally focussed much attention on that operation. The street previously had heard of the subject which now was before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the suggestion of a "friendly" interest at the Grand Central for the Cleveland brothers was something quietly discussed in railroad circles several years ago. When the Van Sweringens first were prominently mentioned in merger matters it had been intimated that a "friendly competitor" for the New York Central might prove not unwelcome and the Chesapeake and Ohio minority backers now appeared to have similar thoughts in their efforts to thwart the merger, at least on present terms available to them. The transportation action became law in 1920 and at the outset the railroad executives largely were credited with being opposed to its purport, but today that phase was known to have passed. However, in the intervening years no important accomplishments have been made in fulfilling the terms of that legislation beyond, perhaps, the absorption of the El Paso and Southwestern by Southern Pacific.

AT THE CORNER

For the Northwestern carriers a turning of the corner was predicted. Expectations of a rearrangement of the rate structure of that section were prominently commented upon, while there also came into consideration the probable showing of some of those roads for last month. The change in the executive make-up of the Chicago and Northwestern management was stressed as important for the road's future and in addition private wires carried the forecast of an improvement to be revealed in the May statement, due for early release.

RISING SMOKE

Five eleven and 111 Fifth avenue, both significant addresses in the industry, were credited with being back of the movement in the tobacco group. United Cigar Stores made its daily new high mark and Tobacco Products reflected its ownership of more than 90 per cent of that issue, by joining the advance.

NAMING OF BABY AIRED IN DIVORCE

Contention of Wife for That of ex-Sweetheart Factor in Rift

The legendary strife over naming the baby showed up in divorce court yesterday, when Judge Gates granted a decree to Charles R. Hand, in his suit against Lillian Hand.

"Judge, she wanted to name the baby Robert," Hand related. "I thought he ought to be young Charley. She used to have a sweetheart named Robert and it just riled me that she should name my baby after that bird."

Current sweethearts of Mrs. Hand were the basis of further friction between her and her spouse, he testified. Once, he said, he found her with a sailor and stopped them.

"A little skirmish," he characterized the incident.

"What happened?" asked Judge Gates.

"Well, I got a broken finger."

"And how about the sailor. Did he escape uninjured?" pressed the court.

"Well, now, I only broke his nose for him. You see, we didn't fight very long. Just a little skirmish," modestly explained Hand.

"Fine. You get a decree," Judge Gates applauded.

President of Playground Commission Will Retire to Create Vacancy

The Playground Commission, one of the six City Commissions which are required to draw lots so as to provide one vacancy for Mayor Cryer to fill under the reorganization provided by the new charter, which becomes effective next Wednesday, held its drawing yesterday. As a result F. G. Leonard, who is now president of the board, drew the lot marked "zero." He automatically retires from the commission next Tuesday evening. Mrs. William Mead drew the four-year term. Mrs. A. C. Weir, the three-year term, Dr. E. P. Ryland the two-year term, and Daniel Beecher the one-year term.

The decision of the lot-drawing establishes the remaining terms of offices of the commissioners and takes the place of the four-year terms, which were given them when they were appointed by the Mayor. The new charter made this provision in order to provide rotation on the commissions.

The other commissions of five members each which must similarly draw lots are the Board of Public Service Commissioners, which is to be known hereafter as the Board of Water and Power Commissioners, the Civil Service Commission, Board of Library Directors, Municipal Art Commission and the Social Service Commission.

Plane Circles Area Menaced by Forest Fire

Where Conflagration Raged

FIRE ON MOUNT BALDY IS HALTED AS WIND SHIFTS

County Park Menaced by Flames; Army of Fighters is Aided in Battle by Scouting Plane

A shift in wind last night halted the progress of a forest fire that during the day burned over several thousand acres i nthe Angeles National Forest on the desert side of Mount Baldy. Reports from San Bernardino stated that the fire was virtually under control of the army of fighters. The shift came just as the flames were sweeping up the crest of the mountain, endangering the Los Angeles County Park and Wrightwood, a heavily timbered resort tract.

The exact location of the blaze and its boundaries and direction were furnished to Federal Forester Cecil by Charles H. Owens, Times staff artist, and Maj. Moseley of the Army Air Service. Maj. Moseley saw smoke from the blaze at Los Angeles Airport and asked Mr. Owens to volunteer as an observer on account of his experience in map-making. The trip of more than ninety miles from Los Angeles Airport to the scene of the fire was made in forty-seven minutes.

LITTLE HEAVY TIMBER

The fire started early yesterday in Sheep Creek. Ranchers burning brush are believed to have been responsible. About 3 p.m. after a strip about three miles wide and several miles long had been burned over, the forty-five mile northerly wind shifted to the south.

The fire at that time was creeping up the crest and was feared to be sweeping to Swartout Canyon where the timber is heavy and where an extensive blaze would greatly damage the watershed.

Most of the burned over area was brush, with little heavy timber in the line of fire, reports stated.

The origin of the fire was just outside the boundary of the national forests; it proceeded in a southwesterly direction, spreading as it went. At one place, Maj. Moseley reported, there was a sheet of flame up the mountainside a distance of 1000 feet. It was rapidly spreading shortly after noon, into the timbered slopes of Mount Baldy and creeping along the ridges toward the peak.

ASHES COAT PLANE

Maj. Moseley and his observer circled about the fire for more than twenty minutes, marking the location on an Automobile Club contour map, flew up under the smoke pall that was blowing across the mountain top and then descended until they could feel the heat of the fire itself. The plane, when they descended, was coated with ashes. The return trip was made in forty-five minutes.

Maj. Moseley was at the Los Angeles Airport arranging for the encampment of the Fortieth Division Air Service, California National Guard, which takes place July 4 to 18, and Mr. Owens had gone to the airport to make sketches for The Times. When he saw the smoke about 11 a.m., the same hour that the blaze was reported to the Federal Forest Service, Maj.

TWO HURT IN STREET CAR CRASH

Motorman and Passenger Sent to Hospital After Intersection Collision

Two street cars, one operated by the Pacific Electric and the other a yellow one-man car, came together in a spectacular collision yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Figueroa street and Sunset Boulevard, sending two victims to the Receiving Hospital.

The injured are E. C. Blodgett, 35 years of age, in charge of the yellow car, and Mrs. Mary Shea, 55 years of age, of 831 North Beaudry avenue, the only passenger in the one-man car. Blodgett was reported to be suffering from severe cuts and lacerations, concussion and a possible skull fracture. The woman was severely cut by flying glass.

G. L. Carnegay, motorman on the Pacific Electric car, which was out of service and proceeding to the barn at Sherman, was not injured.

Witnesses stated the motormen of both cars apparently became confused, each trying to get clear of the intersection. The red car rammed the one-man car in the center. The red car bore no passengers.

AUTOIST CAUGHT BY BOY HE HIT

After being knocked from his bicycle by an automobile last night at First and Main streets, Lyle Carrol, 13 years of age, of 2045 East Fourth street, jumped on the running board of the fleeing machine.

The driver was asserted to have tried to push the boy from the car. A citizen who witnessed the motorist's efforts joined the boy and held the motorist until arrival of Detectives Stoll and Kirk.

After an investigation, the detectives arrested the driver, Earl Platt, 42 years of age, of 1043 West Fifty-second street, and lodged him in the City Jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Leader in Air Service to be Banquet Guest

A general invitation to all reserve air officers in Southern California to attend the banquet has been issued. Arrangements for the summer camp for reserve flyers, which is to be conducted at Rockwell Field from August 2 to August 16, also will be discussed.

ANNEXATION TO VERNON BARRED

Court's Injunction Forbids Election in Territory

Isolation Plea by Owners of Industry Sites Wins

Saunders Says Victory is of Great Value to City

The proposed Vernon-Downey road shoestring annexation died yesterday in Judge Shaw's department of Superior Court without a struggle. It breathed its last when a stipulation was filed with the court providing for a permanent injunction against the announced annexation election which was to have been conducted by the three qualified voters in the fifteen-mile strip next Tuesday.

Suit to enjoin the city of Vernon from conducting the election was filed last Monday by attorneys for the Arcadia-Bandini-Baker Estate Company, which asserted it owned 2500 acres of land which would be completely surrounded by Vernon were the proposed annexation to carry.

The proposition also was fought by the East Side Organization, Inc., and other civic bodies, which contended such an annexation as that proposed would prove of great detriment to the development of industrial Los Angeles and the growth of the city toward the sea.

CIRCLING FOUGHT

The estate company attacked the proposed election on numerous grounds, chiefly that the territory it was proposed to annex was not contiguous to the city of Vernon itself, that the proceedings were contrary to the intended terms of the Annexation Act of 1913 and that lands owned by the estate company were valuable for industrial purposes and should the strip be annexed by Vernon the lands could not be annexed by any city except Vernon inasmuch as they would be encircled by that city.

The stipulation granting a permanent injunction was signed by Judge Shaw after attorneys for the estate company and the city of Vernon and its Trustees had gathered in court preparatory to Judge Shaw hearing arguments on a petition for a temporary injunction.

ELECTION BARRED

It was decreed that the proceedings calling for an election were illegal and void.

Declaring the injunction was a great victory for those advocating the development of industries and around Los Angeles, Leslie R. Saunders, executive secretary of the East Side Organization Inc., said yesterday steps will be taken to file suit to have the court review the proceedings whereby Vernon voted the 9th inst. to annex a strip resulting in the virtual isolation of a large area between Vernon and Huntington Park.

This action, Mr. Saunders said, will be similar to that now before the District Court of Appeals questioning the validity of the Long Beach shoestring annexations.

"With Los Angeles voting money to bring industries to Southern California, it is imperative for the better business interests of the Southland that we keep down the price of industrial property, otherwise other cities will succeed in landing industries which would like to locate in this part of the State," he said.

LOW PRICES NEEDED

"All industries should be able to locate on land priced at a reasonable figure, yet even now some available industrial lands are priced at $20,000 an acre. There are other cities on the Pacific Coast that are more than willing to make attractive offers to eastern industries planning to establish plants on the Coast and if Los Angeles and Southern California are to get their share we must see to it that there is plenty of good industrial land available at a reasonable price."

The stipulation providing for the injunction granted yesterday was prepared at the request of Attorneys O'Melveney, Millikin, Tuller and MacNeil, James L. Beebe, John E. Biby and Harry C. Biby. Harry A. Chamberlin appeared for all the defendants.

Cochran Declares Sight of Money Bound for Europe Fostered Plan to Bring Tourists Here

A stream of money, made up of lumps of $10,000 and $15,000, and other large sums, flowing to Europe out of New York Harbor in an almost endless stream, converted George I. Cochran, president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, to the idea of tourist advertising for Southern California. He thought then that the stream should be diverted and made to flow into Southern California.

Now as chief of the Southern California Forward Movement, which is raising $1,000,000 for Southern California promotion, he is bending every effort toward that end.

Cochran made the explanation yesterday, to members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association whom he addressed informally at luncheon.

"On my last journey to Europe," said Cochran, "I saw liner after liner leave New York for Europe, loaded with people armed with letters of credit for $100,000, $15,000 and other large sums. All of that money was to be spent in Europe on vacations. Southern California can give anyone as good a vacation as any spot in Europe, and if we tell the United States so, we will get an ever-increasing share of these people.

"I not only saw the people leaving New York harbor, but I saw them abroad. I saw them in Paris, about 200,000 of them. Paris, one of the most populous and one of the greatest of the cities of the world, practically lives on them. Tourists have become a commercial factor that we cannot overlook. I know that we have advertised for them and that advertising has paid. We must increase the effort. We are now competing with half of our own country, with Egypt, the Mediterranean, every country in Europe and with areas in Canada and even Japan."

He also dwelt on the fact that the promotional solidarity, offered by the combination of the All-Year Club of Southern California and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in the Southern California Forward Movement, should appeal strongly to everyone.

James Woods, managing director of the Biltmore Hotel, said that the hotels were for the movement strongly because they knew of results in the past. "We," he said, "can compare our business with that before the All-Year Club started work and know that its expenditures were most fruitful."

DYKSTRA TO BE SPEAKER

The weekly meeting of the officers of the State societies and of the Federation of State Societies will be addressed by Secretary C. A. Dykstra of the City Club today. The meeting is held every week in the Garden Cafe of the Broadway Department store at the noon hour.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

MAX, my Yiddish barber, has a way of colliding with ideas.

They strike him at the most astonishing moments.

With the hair clippers in his hand he suddenly dived around in front of the chair and, peering into my face, shouted excitedly:

"Get out of where?" I asked. Max's mental gymnastics are sometimes difficult to follow.

"Out of China," said Max. "Russia is trying to git up another world war and the first thing you know we'll be in it."

THE EDGE OF TRAGEDY

She is trying to draw the countless hordes of the Orient—India, China and Siam—into a frenzied rebellion against Europe. Under Russian leadership these hordes would rule the world.

A DESPERATE PLOT

Russia's immediate object in stirring up these Chinese riots is to force China to call for help—to call to Russia for help—against Europe.

If this happens there will probably be another world war. And a world war in which the Allies would stand a mighty good chance of having the everlasting tar whaled out of them.

If that trans-Siberian railroad is in good working order it would be much easier for Russia to get troops to the theater of war than for Europe or America. To say the least, we would find ourselves in a very awkward situation.

HELP FROM GERMANY

Ironically enough, we would have to look to Germany to save the world.

You can see so plainly that Europe recognizes this.

These two facts are in the paper the same day:

The British government openly declares that these Chinese anti-foreign riots have been stirred up "by another nation."

France, with startling suddenness, decides to extend the loving hand of brotherhood to Germany; and to get out of the Ruhr.

A TERRIBLE PROBLEM

It's this way:

Russia has a position of natural strategic advantage. She is on the inside of a circle; Europe on the outside.

To get troops into India or China involves a long, difficult, roundabout, peril-fraught voyage for England or France. But Russia can pour them into India through the Khyber Pass or into China through Siberia.

The terrible disadvantage of Europe would be the impossibility of knowing which way Russia intended to pour them.

GERMANY'S DAY

Germany would hold the key to the situation.

SINISTER OUTLOOK

On the other hand, Russia, with Germany as an ally, would sweep over the world. A Russo-Germanic army would have its right flank threatening England by the North Sea; its left flank in India or China—a world away.

On account of the enormous distance it would be necessary for England and France to have an army at all points of this stupendous line big enough to meet the combined German-Russian force. This, of course, is impossible.

Russia and Germany could so much more easily shift their troops from one point to another by reason of fighting on the inside of a circle.

AMERICA AGAIN

Unless America came to the rescue again Europe would crumble like clay.

That's the reason why Italy and France and Belgium are so suddenly polite about those debts of theirs.

America is in a position to demand, and get, anything she wants. If the situation in China develops much further Germany will also be in the position to demand what she wants.

MACHINE SEEKS SHADE IN HOUSE

Car Doesn't Stop for Door, But Noses In Through One Corner

An automobile that tired of standing in the hot sun and ran for shelter was recorded yesterday in the simple annals of the police department.

The car belonged to W. P. Halter, 1022 Toledo street, slipped its halter or its brakes or something and started down hill, which was easy enough, as there was a hill there to start down. At the bottom of the hill was a house, 925 Milwaukee street. The car, in its haste, did not bother about the door, but went in through one corner.

Joe Skripkus, 12 years of age, was playing in the room the car chose for a stable, and was bowled over when it came in. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital for bruises.

BRAND GETS HIGH POST IN FILM WORLD

Schenck Publicity Chief is Exploitation Director for United Artists

Harry Brand, president of the Western Motion-Picture Advertisers and for five years director of publicity for the Joseph M. Schenck enterprises, has been appointed director of exploitation for the United Artists Film Corporation and has transferred his headquarters to New York.

The announcement was made here yesterday in telegrams received from Hiram Abrams, president of the United Artists, and from Mr. Schenck, chairman of the board of directors.

Brand's work has brought him into close personal contact with virtually every film figure of importance and hundreds of others in every branch of the industry.

The post of director of exploitation of the United Artists was especially created and is generally conceded to be one of the most important of its kind in the film industry.

In his new capacity, Mr. Brand will direct exploitation for such artists as Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, D. W. Griffith, Rudolph Valentino, William S. Hart and others, and will have a staff of assistants in virtually every important center in the country.

SEWER DEAL IS MADE WITH BEVERLY HILLS

The City Council has given its approval to a contract between Los Angeles and the city of Beverly Hills whereby the latter city will be permitted to dispose of its sewage through the new Los Angeles outfall sewer by paying a proportionate share of the cost of the construction and maintenance of the main sewer. Similar contracts have been made with Glendale and a number of other cities in the metropolitan district.

BLACKMAIL IS LEWIS CHARGE

Oil Company Head Declares Receiver Plea is Plot

Effort to Extort $25,000 is Laid to Gillespie

Official's Answer to Court Action Cites Letters

Charges that the receivership petition recently filed in the Federal court here against the Lewis Oil Corporation was the outgrowth of an asserted attempt to extort $25,000 from the company and its directors, are contained in an answer filed yesterday by S. C. Lewis, president of the Lewis and Julian Petroleum corporations through his attorney, W. I. Gilbert.

The plaintiffs in the petition, Alice B. Gillespie and Lucy Tucker, are charged by Mr. Lewis in his answer with conspiring with George Gillespie, said to be husband and father, respectively of the two women, and assignor of gold notes of the corporation held by them, and others, to obtain the $25,000 by means of "threats, cajolery and blackmail." The asserted conspirators, the answer declares, threatened that unless the money was paid they would "cause to be filed in the court of California and elsewhere certain scurrilous, false and fraudulent allegations or complaints against" Mr. Lewis and the Lewis Oil Corporation.

LETTERS ARE CITED

A copy of what is said to be a complaint prepared by the plaintiffs, or some of them, and copies of letters asserted to have been exchanged between Mr. Gillespie, Warren E. Libby, his attorney and the officers of the Lewis Oil Corporation, are attached to the answer and made exhibits in the case. One of these purports to be a letter from Mr. Gillespie in which he suggests Mr. Lewis make him "a bid" on the corporation's security held by him and states, "As I do not wish to divulge anything that I know I want you to make a bid for them (gold notes of the company) which will be to your interest."

In their original petition the plaintiffs asked the appointing of a receiver for the Lewis Oil Corporation on the grounds that they feared the $5000 in gold notes held by them and not due for several years would depreciate in value through the dissipation by Lewis of the company's assets and the "confusing" by him of the company's assets with "those of the Julian Petroleum Corporation."

The charge that George Gillespie has "at various times and places" on the Pacific Coast and in the East, "made it a regular practice at the time of consolidation of various corporations to secure small blocks of stock and demand extortionate sums of money from said corporations in order to avoid litigation" also is contained in Mr. Lewis's answer.

Portland, Or., and Spokane, Wash., are given by Mr. Lewis as the places where similar actions are said to have been brought by Mr. Gillespie.

"Every allegation of any conspiracy, in so far as it concerns my clients, Mr. Gillespie or myself, is absolutely without foundation and I want to take this opportunity to deny them one and all," Mr. Libby said last night when told of the contents of the answer.

"I personally am acting as attorney for my clients, and doing my duty on a retainer and know of no conspiracy," Mr. Libby continued.

Mr. Libby denied that Mr. Gillespie had taken part in similar actions in the north, saying Mr. Gillespie bears an excellent reputation there. He is a banker and attorney himself and has had to resort to some litigation in the places mentioned in order to regain what was due him, according to Mr. Libby.

Among the other allegations contained in the answer is the charge that on or about June 6, 1925, and after the filing of the receivership petition against the Lewis Oil Corporation, "said George Gillespie, plaintiff's assignor, purchased one share of the Julian Petroleum Corporation's stock with the intention and purpose of using said stock in the furtherance of the conspiracy heretofore formed."

Exhibit G of Mr. Lewis's answer is a copy of a letter dated the 6th inst., and said to have been sent by Mr. Gillespie to Mr. Lewis. The letter states that the writer is now owner of stock in the Julian company and asks a number of questions pertaining to the affairs of the company. This, says Mr. Lewis, in his answer, was done to "harrass, hinder and delay the said Julian Petroleum Corporation and the defendant (Mr. Lewis.)"

The allegation of the asserted "blackmailing conspiracy" is based on Mr. Lewis's statement in his answer that although claiming to have assigned his $5000 in gold notes of the company to his wife and daughter, Gillespie caused to be prepared a minority stockholders' bill in equity against the Julian Petroleum corporation and their officers. This complaint, Mr. Lewis says, was shown to him by Gillespie with the statement that unless $25,000 was paid him for his $5000 in notes, the complaint would be filed, and placed before the public through the various newspapers in California.

SEEKS TO DELAY BUDGET

The meeting yesterday of the City Council's Budget Committee developed the fact that steps are being taken by President Workman, and Councilmen Criswell and Sanborn to leave the budget uncompleted by next Wednesday, so that it can be gone over and approved by the incoming City Council which takes office on July 1.

Originally the committee, of which Councilman Mushet, a member who retires next Tuesday evening, is chairman, planned to complete the budget, and the Mayor and the Councilmen-elect were invited to the committee meetings so they would become familiar with it. Councilmen Criswell and Sanborn, who will be members of the next Council, were added to the committee.

The problem of reducing the departmental requests $10,000,000, to bring the expenses of the city government down to $20,000,000, the probable income of the city during the fiscal year beginning July 1, has proved a difficulty. The committee could not agree whether to raise any salaries or to deny them all, and finally President Workman and Councilman Criswell departed from yesterday's meeting and the progress of the budgeteers slowed down.

The new president of the City Council, who will be elected next Wednesday, will appoint a new Finance Committee and then the budget may be completed by this committee, or by the Mayor and his Director of Budget. The method of handling the present budget will depend upon the ruling of the City Attorney, as the new charter provides that the city's annual budget shall be made by the Mayor and submitted to the Council for approval.

The committee yesterday reduced departmental requests $82,761, leaving $594,048 yet to be cut to bring the departmental expenses within the $20,000,000 income. This $594,048 is in addition to the requests for salary raises and personnel increases totaling $3,000,000 for the next twelve months. No consideration has yet been given this $3,000,000 in requests.

MILLIONAIRE YOUTH HELD IN BURGLARY

Blackface Workers at Pier Proves Adopted Son of Rich Chicagoan

A merrymaker on a Venice amusement pier last night threw a ball at the "pan," released a dusky figure from his high perch over a pool of water, and the youth dropped into the hands of a trio of detectives, who arrested the supposed "negro" as Jack Durand, adopted son of a Chicago millionaire.

Young Durand, the officer said, admitted his identity. His lamp-black make-up was removed and the young man was taken to the City Jail and locked up on the request of Chicago police who want to question him in connection with the confession of an asserted band of burglars in Chicago.

Assistant Captain of Detectives Cato and McCarron, together with Pinkerton Detective Olson, reported that when he was arrested Durand said "I didn't do anything in Chicago. Somebody just 'squawked.'"

Reports from Chicago stated that three Chicago youths were arrested in connection with burglaries of mansions in the Windy City. In the pockets of one of the suspects was found a letter addressed to Durand and threatening to "squeal" on him. Durand was traced to the Coast and his arrest followed.

His foster mother was credited with saying in dispatches from the East, that the adopted son had gotten into company of young men with too much money and that if he has gotten into trouble at his age, he will have to face the penalty.

LONG JAIL TERM IS GIVEN WIFE BEATER

Luciene Barba of Burbank was sentenced yesterday to ninety days in jail on a charge of wife beating. Barba was arrested Wednesday after he is said to have beaten his young wife, who is employed in a cannery, and driven her from their home. He is said to have been jealous of attentions shown her by men friends. Judge Watson of Burbank imposed the sentence.

MOUNT BALDY BLAZE HALTED

IN ANGELES FOREST

Heading toward Mt. Baldy, they rose to 7000 feet, where the column of smoke could readily be distinguished above the low-lying haze which had obscured it from below. They quickly located the fire directly north of Wright's ranch (or Wrightwood) and between it and the Los Angeles County Park. The fire is in the Angeles National Forest, but near the boundary of the newly-created San Bernardino National Forest.

Flying over the fire seemed to Mr. Owens a hazardous piece of work, though Maj. Moseley deprecated the danger. He admitted, however, that the rising heat waves made the air very bumpy and that it had required considerable work with the control stick to keep the plane on anything like an even keel. The trip back across the peak of Mt. Baldy was made at 11,000 feet.

Federal Forester Sears said the exact information furnished by Mr. Owens and Maj. Moseley was of great value to fighting forces.

A force of more than 125 men had been mustered before nightfall, of whom about fifty were dispatched from San Bernardino.

WATERSHED THREATENED BY BALDY BLAZE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, June 25. — Lifting suddenly over the range north of this city shortly before noon today and carrying with it a warning not to be denied, a dense cloud of smoke heralded the first forest fire of the season and is seriously threatening the local watershed, according to reports. The fire, starting at 9 o'clock this morning along Prairie Fork, a tributary of the San Gabriel River north of Mt. Baldy, is sweeping on west and north through the region of the Native Son mine toward Vincent Gulch. Acreage covered by the fire cannot be estimated due to poor visibility, J. A. Ball, San Dimas Canyon lookout, reported this afternoon. Atmospheric conditions are bad, he said, but he declared the fire to be extensive with most of it working through big pine growth. Location of the fire, according to Ball places it along the south line of a huge triangle formed by Old Baldy, North Baldy and Big Pines. Camp Fire Girls of Pomona are now in camp at Big Pines, but it is certain that they are in no danger unless the fire should spread rapidly to the north and a little west which is not expected.

FIRST VENTURA COUNTY FIRE EXTINGUISHED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, June 25.—Forest rangers late today reported that the first fire of the season in Ventura county was extinguished with slight damage. The fire was caused by lightning striking a tree in the Thorn Meadow section. Ranger T. C. Delapp led the fire-fighting crew.

Temperatures as high as 107 were reported from the Santa Ynez district today and Forest Supervisor Jordan said that a heavy thunder and rainstorm was sweeping from Figueroa Mountain to Frazier Mountain. The Coast section, however, was comfortably cool, the temperature in Santa Barbara reaching only 78 deg. today. The rain in the mountainous section can do no damage to crops.

STORMS CAUSES FIRE AT GOODWIN DAM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MODESTO, June 25.—Fire, believed to have started by a freak electrical storm that visited Goodwin dam above Knights Ferry early today, started a conflagration that was entirely out of control of fire fighters at a late hour today.

At 6 o'clock this evening it had burned over 3000 acres of grazing and timber land and was headed in the direction of the Tuolumne River, fourteen miles distant, destroying pasture grass and timber before it, valued at thousands of dollars.

An emergency call for fire fighters was sent to Oakdale, Knights Ferry, Jamestown and Sonora. Four hundred men were expected to arrive to fight the fire later in the night.

The fire swept everything before it, routing rabbits, ground squirrels and other small animals, which ran madly to escape the flames. Approximately 100 men, all that were available, were recruited to fight the conflagration.

Yacht Officer Fights for Life After Stabbing

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 25.—Frank Cosgrove, first officer of the yacht Ella, owned by George Whytell, who was rushed to a hospital here from Ensenada yesterday in a record run of twenty-two hours on the yacht, was still in critical condition this afternoon, it was said at Seaside Hospital, where the mate underwent an operation.

FOUND HIS GAME
The former German Crown Prince has been taking honors in tennis tournaments. What a pity that he ever took to playing with swords instead of rackets.

STRAWFOOT
At some of the English resorts men are wearing shoes that are made from Panama straw. They should at least be comfortable as well as showing which way the wind blows.

GENUINELY PACIFIC
There is a determination amid the peoples banked along its foamy frontier to make the Pacific Ocean all that its name intimates. It shall not be the setting for international discord and embroilment.

CORK HOUSES
They are mixing concrete and cork in the construction of homes in England. There are, however, quite a lot of Cork homes in Ireland. It would simplify things if a man could open his house with a corkscrew.

NOT PERMANENT
Some of the folks who are buying home sites in Florida would think it something of a punishment if they really had to make their home on them all the year 'round. There is no real homeland that is not companionable for twelve months in the year.

A DOG'S LIFE
An aggravated husband makes his appearance in the divorce court and objects because the wife always gave the dog his meals first. When the husband comes home at eventide much enhungered he will not readily sit on the side lines while Fido gets his fill of the filet mignon.

UP IN THE AIR
A medical authority is recommending aviation as a mental tonic. It gets one above the dust of the highways and blows the fogs and cobwebs out of the brain. There is nothing brightening about the motor traffic of the boulevards, but when one is soaring in the heavens the heart and mind join in choral outburst. The doctors are prescribing a plane diet.

LOST LEADERS
The passing of Senator Ladd is another heavy loss to the radical wing of the Republican party and may result in the complete bankruptcy of that political division. Of the original La Follette group only Senators Frazier, Brookhart and Shipstead remain and none of these can qualify for leadership. La Follette and Ladd were the voice and brain of the combination. The situation, however, is not critical. At this moment it is difficult to find a reason for the existence of a radical Republican. There is so much more sense and security in being normal and regular.

TREASURE
The present day may be coldly matter-of-fact, but this has not robbed buried or lost treasure of its lure. Romance still lives and appeals to the youth which in some survives maturity. Even now men are reported to be on the trails in the Atlantic and Pacific, following mysteriously marked courses on treasure charts. Thus do grown-ups, in fact, react to stories of buried gold or sunken chests of jewels or pirate caches or priceless plate packed in secret places as in imagination they did in boyhood—if they were like other lads—and take up the hunt.

CEASE FIRING
Blackmore's novel, "Lorna Doone," carries the story of a drive by rival factions against a lawless band. Each mobilized on an opposing height from which guns were to be turned on the enemy in the valley between. But things went awry. An accidental shot from one faction struck in the territory of the other. There was a return which was not accidental. Soon the two lines were blazing away at each other—and those against whom they had marched were escaping. This could be read with profit by modernists and fundamentalists who are now using religious ammunition against each other instead of against evil and suffering and other really inviting targets. Why not cease firing and lower the guns on the common enemy below?

NO "RED" SYMPATHY
It is encouraging to discover that the press of the country at large gives unqualified support to the decision of the Supreme Court in sustaining the conviction of Ben Gitlow for vile and revolutionary utterances against the government. The decision was signed by six of the judges, with two dissenting, and those persons who doubted the advisability of appointing Justice Brandeis to the Supreme bench will not be surprised to learn that he was one of the dissenters. The latter took the position that the arrest and conviction were not warranted, as there was no danger of "immediate action" by the radicals who read it. The majority opinion was that the only wise thing to do was to "extinguish the spark without waiting until it kindled a conflagration."

RIFF SELF-DETERMINATION
The end of the misnomer self-determination is not yet. The British have found it out before, the French and the Spanish are finding it out now. The articles which Larry Rue is contributing to The Times give ample proof of the harm which a misconceived slogan may cause. Secretary Lansing wrote a diatribe on the misleading motto shortly after he resigned from his office as Secretary of State, and the nations which assumed mandatories have paid the price ever since.

It was one thing to go to war to make the world safe for democracy, it is another to convince savages and half-savages that they are not ripe for their debut into the concert of nations or self-government. The Algeciras Treaty made Morocco and the Riff subject to white police patrol, the Versailles Treaty gave them a handle to shake off that international supervision. India had its Swaraj, or home rule. Egypt shook off benevolent protection. And even the natives of Uganda selected for their slogan on the front page of their first newspaper "Uganda for the Baganda."

Abd-el-Krim may repudiate the charge that Communistic propaganda had something to do with the Riff uprising, but the communications from the Riff camps, seized in a raid on Deputy Dariot's home in Paris, prove the contrary. In Versailles the Germans stood at the gates of the peace palace waiting on the pleasure of the big five, now Premier Painleve and Premier Primo de Rivera travel to the Riff in an attempt to lay salt on the tail of the elusive bird Abd-el-Krim, who delivers his ultimatum and peace terms to a newspaper reporter.

When the powers have to deal with vigorous peoples which seek self-determination, though unable to rule their own destinies in conformance with modern principles of political economy, a slogan which attempts to condense a large meaning in a short caption is a dangerous thing. An abstract idea well expressed in a short phrase appeals to thinking people, but it remains a concrete nomenclature to the unthinking. Hence a craze of modern phraseology to cram a big order into one or two words becomes a perilous weapon, recalling the old adage, "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

A representative republic is the logical form of government for an advanced people; it is suicide and reversion to primitive oligarchy and theocracy for half-savages. The Riff ambition shows this more clearly than either the Swaraj in India or the Young Turk movement in Turkey or Egypt. Dangerous phrases like self-determination become the text for holy wars and quasi-holy wars such as the Riffs are waging now. They stand on the principle enunciated at Versailles without understanding the meaning which lies back of the slogan. They do not read between the lines, nor do they connect Articles I and XXII. They do not distinguish the conditions laid down for eligible members to the League of the first article nor the benevolent, mandatory concessions made to "people not yet able to stand by themselves" in the twenty-second article.

The ills arising from a misconception of the Versailles covenant is one of the penalties to be paid for the error of sacrificing lucidity of meaning to the craze of modern captions and slogans which are a misguided interpretation of the old Latin phrase "multum in parvo."

FAITH IN NATURE
Carrying their blankets and a small stock of food, two young San Francisco girls recently hiked for over 100 miles in the high Sierra above Kings River Canyon. Day after day passed in which they met no human being, yet they trudged over the mountains and through the forests unafraid and, on returning home, reported that they had had "a glorious time."

These girls had read John Muir and had become so strongly imbued with the idea that they could follow his footsteps through the rough mountain region that they could not rest until they had shown their ability to do so. They had read that Muir tramped alone in the skylands for weeks with nothing but a bag of bread and a little tea for subsistence and that in all the years of his wanderings he never was attacked by a wild animal. The girls heard the weird cry of the mountain lion and the warning whir of the rattlesnake, but went their way assured by Muir that no harm would come to them from quadruped or reptile if they let these inoffensive creatures alone. At night they slept on the ground beside a sheltering rock or tree and were not molested.

While one would hesitate to recommend such an adventure to a pair of innocent, unprotected young girls, one somehow glories in the example set by these city maidens who ventured without a guide into one of the wildest regions of California. Though this example is by no means of extreme rarity, as our young women hikers sometimes go to great lengths in their enthusiasm for the trail, it should shame those timid folk who shudder at the thought of such adventure and who, when out on the highway huddle together in dusty auto camps, or, if they risk a short walk on a mountain trail, furtively peer all about for hidden sources of danger, as if nature were setting traps for them or was ready to betray them at every step.

While reasonable caution always is advisable, one must exert more of it while dodging city traffic than in many a wild canyon. A woman who lived alone in a desert cabin for months at a time was asked why she was not afraid to remain there without protection in that lonely place. Her answer was, "Because I love the desert and I have faith." This was an apt reply. Faith in God and in one's own resources is one of the finest of human attributes, and the most dependable.

When Muir tried to prevail upon Emerson to camp with him over night in the Yosemite and sleep under the stars the Sage of Concord, who for years had preached self-reliance, simplicity and a life conformable to nature, had not the faith of the man who confidently "rests his head upon the lap of earth," but went to what he deemed was a safer bed in a hotel. As Muir said, in commenting on Emerson's action in declining his invitation, "The house habit was not to be overcome nor the strange dread of pure night air, though it is only cooled day air with a little dew in it. So the carpet dust and unknowable reeks were preferred. And to think of this being a Boston choice! Sad commentary on culture and the glorious transcendentalism."

In California in the milder months there are thousands who tramp the sunny uplands and who delight in making their beds in the open. That there are among these intrepid ones so many young women who thus prove their faith in nature is inspiring, and it bodes well for the race.

"THE OTHER FELLOW"
"If it were not for 'the other fellow' travelling on the highway would be a joke," remarked a motorist the other day.

The difficulty is "the other fellow" is omnipresent. He darts out of an obscure driveway without notifying anybody of his immediate approach.

He bobs up at the most unsuspected places. Hidden corners and camouflaged alleys are his habitat. A crossing where there may not have been any puzzle over traffic problems for centuries suddenly furnishes "the other fellow" butting in at an alarming rate.

He runs up behind you, using his muffler for a horn and roars around, putting you in a pocket. Nothing but good brakes and a sensitive conscience enables you to avert a catastrophe.

He insinuates himself in your wake, honks his horn and then, just as you sway to the right to let him pass, he swings by on the wrong side and fills you with terror and an unaccountable psychological impulse to demolish him. This is one reason why men go wrong.

Or he may decide to be a pedestrian for a day to get you. So he takes a freak notion to cut across right through the middle of the law and makes your hair punch up your hat. His rabbit's foot alone keeps you from committing justifiable homicide.

The art of living together is nothing compared to the art of driving together. When taken in homeopathic doses it is productive of patience. Allopathy would make you a fiend.

After a few generations of driving together the remnants of humanity that may be left will be fit for bliss without further probation. Golfing and driving together are productive of perfect gentlemen.

Since there is not enough territory for a private driveway for every man who motors through the city, we may as well give up to be angels here or hereafter.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE
Is the American family circle doing its part to promote the Americanization of the thousands of foreign students who are in attendance upon our colleges and universities? The question is being discussed in educational circles, but perhaps not as widely as its importance deserves, in a general way. These students are as anxious to be familiar with our manner of home life as they are to speak our language and swallow our statistics, but it has been brought out that their only channel of information is through college activities. A writer in the Missionary Review (New York) impresses upon his readers the loneliness that pervades the life of a student who has never had the opportunity to experience the hospitality of an ideal American home, through a series of responses to a questionnaire.

A Chinese student says that he has been in this country between five and six years and has never yet been admitted as the guest of a family circle. Among other things, he said that he does not feel at home at all and that "the hearty welcome I get from church people makes me feel the more that I am among strangers. They greet me so much more warmly than they greet each other that it makes me feel that I am different." Another Chinese student writes: "Many Christians are sincere, but are narrow and superficial." Still another that "the message of missionaries is not practiced in America." Said a fourth: "I nearly accepted Christianity as I understood it when I was in China, but changed my mind in the United States."

It may be said that everything possible is being done to promote the welfare of foreign students, both educationally and socially, by the sundry college societies, clubs and committees within the student circle, but that does not meet the situation. There are many students of many nationalities on the rosters of the colleges and universities of Los Angeles. Whether or not any of these are among those who opened their hearts to the Missionary Review we are not told. Whether or not the criticisms uttered apply to Los Angeles, there is no finding out, but there is food for thought on the subject.

We, as American private citizens, should be ready and anxious to lend a hand in presenting to the peoples of the world the highest American standard of living whenever opportunity comes. It will repay manyfold in satisfaction and in knowledge gained from a foreign student's standpoint. A citizen whose name is familiar to readers of The Times says that he has embraced the opportunity on different occasions and the delight and appreciation of his guests have been a source of satisfaction, to say nothing of the intimate details gained concerning the country from which they came.

FORCING THE ISSUE
A spirited movement is under way in Chicago with the idea of holding up the payment of Cook county's part of the State tax until Chicago is given the representation in the Illinois Assembly to which the population of the big city entitles it. The Illinois Assembly has for years failed to furnish the reapportionment ordered by the constitution of their State. Chicago is tired of taxation without representation.

Just About It
by James J. Montague

MAYBE HE'S RIGHT

We smile to hear the graduate
In no uncertain accents state
The problems which
Vex poor and rich,
And how to make them lighter;
We smile to hear him say that life,
Though filled with trouble, care and strife,
Will soon accord
A rich reward
To him who is a fighter.

"Old stuff," we say, "this lad will learn,
When once he has his bread to earn,
That life is not Exactly what
It seems to lads of twenty.
No matter how he fights, he'll find
He'll never conquer human-kind;
He'll have his share of strife and care,
And troubles will be plenty."

And yet we always feel, somehow,
That were we graduating now—
If we could start
With eager heart
And no lost fights to tame us,
With an unconquerable soul
We'd knock this old world for a goal—
And by and by
Both you and I
Would be both rich and famous!

EAST AND WEST

By The Foothill Philosopher

On the subject "East and West" almost anything might be said and, in fact, nearly everything has been said. This is so because directions and locations represent mental attitudes and states of consciousness as definitely as they distinguish geographical lines and boundaries. Writing of "East and West" an English poet says that the twain shall never meet. He adds, however, that there is neither east nor west when two great men meet. That which is impossible in geography is attainable by the all-embracing consciousness of man. Life is not one-sided, it is a diamond of many facets. With her negative, often fatalistic attitude toward life, the Orient may yet have to learn that much of that which she seeks to renounce, or has renounced, as evil has a relative value which cannot be rejected with impunity, while the Occident will have to learn that many things, ideas and systems which she has long imagined vital and essential possess only comparative worth when considered from the standpoint of eternal verities and principles.

LETTERS TO The Times

All in Favor Say Aye

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] After studying the causes of business anemia I have come to the conclusion that there is really no excuse for it. The cause is really more psychic than material, and the greatest contributor to bad business is now, as always, the bad payer.

We have a Baby Week, a Raisin Week, a Drink-More-Milk Week, an Eat-More-Bread Week, a Pluto-Water Week; why not institute a Pay-Your-Debts Week?

The effect would be magical and our business would improve 100 per cent in ten days.

GERARD D'EMILE.

Clever Writers

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One wonders why our clever writers feel they must write down to the movies. Of course, we all know that writing for the movies is more lucrative than writing for anything else and one's exchequer does cut a figure, even with the highbrows.

When I see the women of the Friday Morning Club, after a morning of the world's best thought, make tracks for a picture for relaxation; when I recall conversations I have had with teachers of teachers' college, Columbia, showing their interest and pleasure in pictures; when I think of lonely and old people—yes, of intelligence—who enjoy the movies; well, I just feel that our clever writers are a bit short-sighted. They remind me of Europe's attitude toward America—Mighty convenient to stand in with the money bags, but not really—oh, you know, not really—one of us.

ANNE HOWARD.

But the World Does Move

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One of the ways in which the exponents of evolution are being vindicated is the treatment accorded them. They are not being burned at the stake or even thrown into prison; simply hissing and jeering them is but a mild form of repression and quite in advance of that in vogue formerly toward any who attempted to teach new truths or truths newly discovered. How long is it going to take to learn that facts are so stubborn that they are not to be destroyed, even if all who advocate them should be. The facts of nature are especially persistent and if there is variation there may be more variation, and yet more variation. Varieties become so diversified they become species and species grouped as genera so differentiated from each other that there are no longer any elements in common between them.

EVERY-DAY POEMS
BY J. J. LOWREY

You have met him. He is the five-foot-five sort of chap. It is possible that he is in your neighborhood. He boasts of the excellence of his position in the social and business life. On all subjects he is a mine of information, because of his aristocratic heritage and of his possessions.

It is just possible that you have cause for this chap. If you talk one would gain the impression that the universe depended upon him. He wears spats, carries a cane in his buttonhole, walks with a strut a bit out of the ordinary, looks at himself in the glass and believes the only way for him to advance is to make room.

He is an every-day person. You bump into him in a car, you meet him in the smoking compartment of the Pullman. He is somewhat significant, yet he is also significant to people by a constant blowing of his own horn, by his pompous manner of dress.

He struts and he frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more. He has a bit along with it.

But the chap is pathetic. He has great ambitions. He can talk about and dream of great things for the listener. He is always looking beyond the present, is always dissatisfied and the Beautiful Dreamer in his talk. People possessed of the real spirit, striving after success, have the stature of old oaks. They have great ambitions. They are successful, important, but he is always pitiable. He is always successful, important, convinced in his own mind that he is only anticipating his future, but he results in the end in failure. They have no illusions. They have no glimpses of fantasy, naval, [illegible] which he dwells.

About this chap there is something whimsical and pathetic. He constantly whistles to keep up his spirit. He detests the [illegible] and monotony of existence. He tries to color the pathway with the hope of having arrived. He tries to anticipate the things that will be his: the glory, the fame, the achievement. He is like a child who puts his cake before his meat on the table while he eats the other things, potatoes of his life's meal.

Oh, well may'st thou [illegible]

For loving and kind [illegible]

If the dew of affection be [illegible]
Be kind to thy brother, for [illegible]

EVERY-DAY FOLKS

Shakespeare Reader Heard at Matinee

Violin Performance of Young Uranga Praised

BY CLAIRE MELLONINO

The rising temperature was entirely forgotten yesterday in the joy of the entertainment which came from KHJ. One of our most constant patrons, John Wright, the Right Tailor, gave the party last night, presenting a delightful program in a lighter vein embracing Chico de Verde and his Russian Gypsy Trio; Maggie O'Shea, the Blarney Girl of KHJ; Sol Hoopi and his novelty three; Keaumoku Louis, Hawaiian baritone; Charlotte McKenna Hodge, soprano; and Uncle Remus.

Each member of the program emanated an unrestrained enthusiasm that gave a quality of effervescence to the evening and which made itself felt with pleasing results among the listeners. Mirth, song and wit followed each other in rapid succession and left everyone happier for having listened to John Wright's program from KHJ.

NEWCOMER HEARD

The matinee hour given by the Pacific States Electric Company, presented by the Arion Trio; Leuric Colston, baritone; Herbert Hove, reader; and Lillyan Bjorkstrom, character reader. In introducing Herbert Hove to our large family we had the extreme pleasure of presenting an interpreter of Shakespeare who brought to the microphone the qualifications gained by years of association with such world-noted figures as Sir Henry Irving and Sir Beerbohm Tree. Prior to coming to Los Angeles several months ago, he was head of several prominent dramatic societies of London. After a few well-spoken words dropped from his lips yesterday afternoon, the auditors immediately recognized the work of a master. Diction of crystalline purity, emotions speaking of great histrionic ability, an intimate knowledge of tradition and a well-modulated voice, all combined to make Herbert Hove's readings one of the outstanding contributions to the literary entertainment of Radioland. Lillyan Bjorkstrom delighted with her recitation "Cymanthy Buys a Claim."

The noon hour dance music was furnished by Kenneth Morse and his Six Friars appearing through the courtesy of Friars Inn. The hour also marked the bow of Scott McConnell, whose pleasing tenor voice appeared to excellent advantage in several groups of Irish ballads.

BOY VIOLINIST PLAYS

After Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog had made another addition to Radioland's history of knowledge, the children's hour presented Dickie Brandon, screen juvenile; Francis V. Earnest, Jr., reader-pupil of Carter Weaver; Phyliss Louise Jones, reader-pupil of Carter Weaver; Leola Dolbec, 10-year-old reader; Helen Frances Levy, 4-year-old reader, pupil of Mrs. Leland Moore; Laurito Uranga, 11-year-old violinist, who was assisted at the Knabe by his father.

Despite his tender years Laurito Uranga has been appearing before audiences in Mexico for three years. He also recently appeared at the Forum Theater in a special act for gifted children. This youngster's remarkable talents were revealed to us upon the occasion of one of our Saturday-morning classes. In one's enthusiasm for a splendid young talent it is very easy to mistake the clever performance of a gifted child for the flame of genius. But even to the initiated last night came the conviction that Laurito Uranga was a genius possessing in part the same spirit which was in Elman and Heifitz during their musical infancy. He has received his training entirely under his father, who is one of Mexico's best-known composers.

PERFORMANCE PRAISED

"Perpetual Mobile," by Rieg, and "Gallina Ciega," by Sarasate, were played by Laurito Uranga in a fashion which inspired the utmost enthusiasm. Technique, beauty of sonority and grasp of emotional content, each found its place in his interpretations. We do not know by what divine process a wonder child acquires his results. We may only be thankful that they exist in such entities as Laurito Uranga and that radio may do its share to bring them to the notice of the world.

At 7:30 p.m. John Henry Russell spoke on the subject of "Your Neighbor's Life Insurance." This was followed by the weekly address on "Care of the Body" by Dr. Philip Lovell.

If you tune in Sunday night you will be introduced to a new patron, Walker's Fifth-street Store, who will greet you with an excellent program of music. It would profit you to hear it.

Saturday night the "Lost Angels of KHJ" will make their ascent under the care of the Hollywood Yale Corporation. In addition to the regular favorites the caravan will contain Mamie Stark, the lady baritone; Ray Harrison's Orchestra from W-H-O- from Des Moines, Iowa, and Harold Hynes, who has just returned from a trip through the East.

CORONER WILL SEEK FACTS IN AUTO DEATH

County Coroner Nance will conduct an inquest this morning into the death of Mrs. Geneva Regar of Lynwood, who was killed almost instantly Wednesday night when struck down by an automobile near her home. The inquest will be conducted at the Bresee Brothers and Lynce mortuary at 1815 South Manchester avenue.

Why Tillamook flavor stays in the west

ONLY western homekeepers enjoy the famous flavor of Tillamook cheese. That is because they buy all the cheese skilled white-clad makers of this western cheese-land can produce. In big hotels on the Pacific Coast, too, Tillamook is served.

Tillamook, you know, is made from rich whole milk with every bit of the cream left in. It ranks high in food value.

Tillamook is the original branded cheese. The name on every slice or loaf is your assurance of the famous flavor. Make the mark on the rind your cheese-buying guide to full-cream flavor.

You can make many delicious dishes with Tillamook. Cream cheese sandwiches, cheese souffle, for instance. Our recipe booklet will help you. Write for it. Alice Bradley, of Miss Farmer's School in Boston, prepared special dishes for it.

Either through ignorance or through sheer intent to deceive the public, some of the stores that do not handle the Sealy Mattress advise against buying it, suggesting that as sold on the Coast, the Sealy is not the genuine product.

SKIN RASH

Useless torture of babies can be avoided

Skin rash comes either from internal digestive disorders or from external irritants.

In both cases, the condition is aggravated, particularly in babies, by the use of the wrong kind of toilet soap.

It is criminal to put on a skin already inflamed and sensitive, a soap that is alkaline or rancid.

The next time you bathe the baby use Castolay, The Modern Castile Soap. It is so pure, so mild, so free from alkali that it causes none of the irritation so common to ordinary soaps.

Castolay has all the good qualities of old genuine Castile and advantages that Castile at its best never had. It is pure, mild; it lathers freely, rinses quickly. Ideal not only for children, but also for every day use on hands and face, and for shampooing.

20c. a cake; 3 cakes for 50c. Made by The Andrew Jergens Co., the world's largest exclusive toilet soap makers.

Save Your Skin

Why go through summer with a brown or freckled skin, when one jar of

will keep your skin soft and white. A small amount used as a powder base positively prevents freckles, tan, and sunburn. At drug and dept. stores. 50c and $1.00. Double strength, $1.00.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the most popular brides-elect of the season is Miss Alex Barbara Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan James Wilson of Hayworth avenue, whose marriage to Oscar A. Trippet, Jr., is to be one of the events of next Tuesday. Mr. Trippet is the son of the late Judge Oscar A. Trippet and was graduated this month from Stanford University, his affianced bride motoring north for the commencement exercises. Among the delightful affairs given recently in honor of Miss Wilson was the luncheon with which Miss Mildred Moir, one of the bridal party, entertained Wednesday afternoon at the University Club, the table being exquisitely decorated with a basket of summer flowers and ferns, the guests being members of the bridal party only.

The 13th inst., Miss Hollis Hauge gave a luncheon at the Virginia Country Club in honor of Miss Wilson and her bridal party, bridge being featured in the afternoon's entertainment, while the following afternoon Miss Katherine Chapman and Miss Mary Champan were hostesses with a novelty shower at their home in Bronson avenue, bridge also being enjoyed.

Wednesday evening Mrs. D. L. L. Chapman entertained with a dinner party at the Beverly Hills Hotel honoring the bride-elect and her bridal party, those included being Miss Mildred Moir, Miss Hollis Hauge, Miss Frances Johnston, Miss Katherine Chapman, Miss Gwen Dennis and Miss Lucille Bentley, the decorations being carried out with garden blossoms. Yesterday afternoon Miss Frances Johnston entertained with a bridge tea at the Los Angeles Country Club in honor of Miss Wilson, five tables being arranged for the card games, while tomorrow afternoon Miss Wilson will entertain her bridal attendants with a luncheon at the Athletic Club, taking her guests to the matinee afterward.

Livengood-Imler

Of much interest to local society is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Frances Marie Livengood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Livengood to James E. Imler of Pittsburgh the ceremony taking place at high noon on the 21st inst., in the Brethern Church of Meyersdale, Penn. The bride is a native of California, and was graduated from Stanford University, living with her parents for many years in Los Angeles. She has taught English in the high schools of Meyersdale, Homestead Farwell and Swarthmore, Pa., and for the last two years assisted her father in the management of The Meyersdale Republican. A wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony after which Mr. and Mrs. Imler left for a two weeks' auto trip through Central Pennsylvania, New York and New England and after their return they will make their home temporarily with the bride's parents in Meyersdale.

Debutante's Party

Cards have been received from Winnetka, Ill., for a reception tomorrow afternoon given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris Ripley in honor of their attractive young daughter, Miss Beatrice Ripley, the hours being from 4:30 until 8 o'clock. Miss Ripley is the granddaughter of the late Edward Payson Ripley of Chicago and Santa Barbara, former president of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Summer Plans

Mrs. A. V. D. Rousseau of Oxford avenue, who has just returned from an extended visit in Chicago and vicinity, where she was extensively entertained, will leave shortly with her family for the vacation outing at their summer home in La Jolla.

Delightful Trip

One of the delightful outings of the month was that which Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Weaver of Fremont Place, and their attractive daughter, Miss Sylvia Weaver, have been enjoying in the north. After a delightful visit in San Francisco, where they were much entertained, they went on to the Yosemite, where they had a most delightful sojourn.

Connors-Flynn

The marriage of Miss Claire Cecile Connors, daughter of Mrs. Mary J. Connors of Harvard Boulevard, to J. Mervin Flynn, son of Mrs. Celia Flynn of San Francisco, was solemnized in St. Thomas Church the 16th inst., the ceremony taking place at 9 o'clock, with Rev. Father Gallagher, assisted by Fathers Walsh, Beman, Eagan and Concannon, a nuptial high mass following the ceremony. John B. Connors gave his sister in marriage. The bride wore a Boue Souers gown, with veil and orange blossoms, and she carried orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Sally Devlin was maid of honor, while Miss Celia Flynn and Miss Dorothy Mueller were bridesmaids. Harry Godde served Mr. Flynn as best man and the ushers were Harry Flynn and Phillip Connors. The bride's attendants wore frocks of pink chiffon with picture hats to match, and carride roses and pink sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served forty-four guests at the Mary Louise after which a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. After a wedding trip in the north Mr. and Mrs. Flynn will make their home in San Fernando.

Birthday Party

One of the delightful affairs of the week will be the afternoon party with which Miss Orlene Spray, charming little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Spray, is entertaining at the home of her parents, 4017 Berenice avenue, the occasion celebrating her eleventh birthday anniversary. After an afternoon enjoyed in games and contests, twenty-four guests will be seated for the tea, when the flowers and color scheme prevailing will be pink sweet peas, ferns and the piece de resistance will be the birthday cake, exquisitely iced and decorated with pink candles.

Church Wedding

One of the prettily appointed weddings of the week was that of last Sunday, when at 10 o'clock Miss Dana Lee Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leroy Norris of Dalton avenue became the bride of Leland Alfred Storch, son of Mrs. Johanna M. Storch of Santa Rosa, the ceremony taking place in the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale, Rev. W. E. Edmonds officiating. Mrs. Kenneth T. Mrs. William E. Balsinger

ONE OF THE delightful events of recent date was the dinner with which Dr. and Mrs. William E. Balsinger entertained at the Lafayette, the occasion being the first anniversary of their wedding.

Mrs. Balsinger was formerly Miss Charlotte Du Puys of Lewiston, Me., the wedding being one of the events of June 17, 1924. She is a niece of Mrs. Winifred Chabot of Lewiston, who is now making her home here.

Mrs. Balsinger is a native of France, but was educated at the Ursuline Convent at Three Rivers, Que.

Miss Willa Wagner presided at the organ and Miss Eleanor Wheeler sang "O Promise Me" preceding the ceremony. After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Storch will make their home in Los Angeles.

Anniversary Dinner

With a dinner at the Layfayette, West Seventh street, and at which were present twenty guests, Dr. and Mrs. William E. Balsinger, the evening of the 17th inst., celebrated the first anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Balsinger, who, prior to her marriage, was Miss Charlotte Du Puys of Lewiston, Me., and Los Angeles, is the niece of Mrs. Winifred Chabot, of the former city, but at present residing here. She is a native of France, but came to America as a child and was educated at the Ursuline Convent at Three Rivers, Que. Dr. Balsinger is distinguished as a surgeon, and during the World War served with the rank of captain in the United States Army Medical Corps, division of plastic surgery. He was one of the three first American surgeons to follow Pershing to France and now holds the reserve rank of major in the Army Medical Corps. The doctor and Mrs. Balsinger are now living at the Wilshire Apartments.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

MASSAGE FOR BABIES

Mrs. D.: All babies are benefited by massage. It is best given after the morning bath before feeding.

With weak or undernourished babies, you should begin not more than three or four minutes at first and lengthen the time as the child improves. Begin at the feet and stroke and knead gently upward. On the abdomen, massage in a circular motion, beginning at the right side and then up and across and down. Remember to begin gently and then increase the force and length of time gradually.

This massage stimulates the blood and lymph circulation, makes for a better muscle tone and so benefits the whole system.

RINGWORM

"Dear Doctor: What could be the cause for ringworm in a 5-months infant, breast fed, apparently a healthy child? Small patches on both shoulders and a bit on the head. When I do nothing for it, it does not seem to get worse. I did try powder and salve, but it got worse. What is a safe remedy?

"I am interested in the cause for I can't see how he got it. Am unusually healthy myself for I eat to maintain my health.

"What foods contain lime?

"MRS. S."

Ringworm is not related to the diet. It is caused by a fungus growth (one of the lowest forms of vegetable life.)

Ammoniated mercury ointment, sulphur and iodin ointments are all recommended by skin specialists. Whichever you use should be rubbed onto the patch very thoroughly and not merely smeared over. Scrub each day with soap and water and put on fresh ointment. Painting with iodin will sometimes effect a cure. Jackson says the best way to use iodin is to rub one dram of the crystals of iodin into one ounce of goose grease. This is to be well rubbed into the patches with a stiff brush. This treatment can also be used for ringworm on the body.

Remember that ringworm is contagious, so take all precautions to prevent its spreading to other members of the family.

Foods rich in lime are: cheese, milk, egg, yolks, almonds.

NAIL BITING

Mrs. A.: Nail biting and dirt eating may be symptoms of lack of proper nourishment or of nervous condition, but many times they have no relation to it. They are simply habits. Children at some period begin biting their nails. This can be stopped in the beginning with ridicule, but allowed to go on, it is a different problem.

Putting bitter substance on fingers does not seem to be very effective. With a small child, spanking the hands, or tying them is associated with the habit, may be effective. If not you may have to use splints to the elbows constantly. These allow the child to use the hands but the child cannot bend the fingers to the mouth.

Little pieces of adhesive tape placed on the tips of the fingers until they grow out, which seems to be replaced two or three times a day—may be effective, for as the nails are grown out and cut the child to a measure of confidence that as a little trust is placed in him the nails are grown out and cut, they may be broken, fine files may be used to keep them smooth. This habit will probably be an effort to smooth but not to bite.

The straps on the sleeves are the only things I can suggest to break the habit in adults, and the straps are to help not only not to bite the nails but also not to keep the hands away from the mouth.

We have a description of a mitten made of cloth and the idea is that the tongue depresses the cloth and the nails. You may have the fun of experimenting and sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

If the habit is not overcome in childhood, then it is very likely to be carried on through life, a sign of degeneracy, although, of course, degenerates may bite their nails or anything handy.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY MYRA NYE

A pretty ceremony of lighted candles will mark the installation of officers for the Twentieth Century Club of Eagle Rock today, opening the season of club sessions for the year with a charming program.

"Eagle Rock, the Dahlia City," is the name, now widely known, adopted and sponsored by the club, and today the clubhouse will be aglow with gorgeous and rare dahlias, the gift of J. N. Broomfield of the Dahlia Farm. Each candle will be held by one of the officers and Mrs. A. G. Reily, the retiring president, will light the candle which she presents to the incoming president, Mrs. R. L. Metcalf, who in turn lights the candles of the following incoming officers, this symbolizing the inspiration and power given from one to another: first vice-president, Mrs. S. B. Osborne; second vice-president, Mrs. M. I. Crosar; third vice-president, Mrs. G. E. Armstrong; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Hunt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. K. D. Palmer; treasurer, Mrs. Hal Baly; auditor, Mrs. M. Lee, and directors, Mrs. A. G. Kemp, Mrs. C. I. Ritchey and Mrs. L. Mann.

Hollywood Club

Yellow punch served from large "punch bowls," and refreshments molded into diminutive violins, lyres and horns will carry out the "Hollywood Bowl" reminders at the large community party which the Hollywood Club and music circles are arranging for Monday evening, the 29th inst., to honor Mrs. Adah Carter, and welcome her home after her transcontinental tour in the interest of outdoor music. With Mrs. Carter will be welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Reiner of Cincinnati. This will be the official presentation of Mr. Reiner to the West, and as the meeting is open to the public, and all Bowl lovers are eager to see and meet this man who will conduct the opening week of Bowl summer concerts, it is expected the clubhouse will be full to overflowing on Monday evening.

Mrs. Charles H. Richmond, president of Woman's Club, Mrs. Alice Nellis-Ryus, president of "Friends of Music," and officers of the Hollywood Bowl Association will receive the hundreds of guests as they arrive to meet the distinguished honorees.

The Hollywood Community Orchestra will give a concert of rare charm and interest, with Calmon Luboviski, the violin genius, as soloist, preceding the reception. The doors of the club are hospitably thrown open to all music lovers.

Friday Morning Club

Today will occur the last session for the season of the Friday Morning Club. It marks also the closing of the successful regime of the retiring president, Mrs. Florence Moore Kreider. So gratified are the members over achievements in the several departments that a celebration will be held today in the clubhouse in the nature of a card and dancing party. Mrs. Christian H. Hartke, hospital-chairman, is to be in charge of the club frolic.

This morning the program is to be presented by Alexander Bakaleinikoff. A complete Russian concert will be enjoyed and the new officers for the coming year will be installed. They are: President, Mrs. O. P. Clark; first vice-president, Mrs. Charles G. Stivers; second vice-president, Mrs. Charles F. Lee; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Waller Slayden; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles S. Crail; directors, Mrs. William Mayberry Chambers, Mrs. Charles Christopher Beaham, Mrs. Elmer Ransom Mastmer, Mrs. William A. Ellis and Mrs. E. B. Latham.

One of the most enjoyable events of this year was the out-of-door tea held Tuesday in Glendora at Duarte Park. Swimming, dancing, cards and various picnic sports were enjoyed throughout the day and at noon a luncheon was served under the beautiful live oaks where there is ample room for as many as 1000 to dine at one time.

Mrs. Walter Dalzell, owner of the estate and a member of the club, was hostess, and the day's outing was arranged by Mrs. [illegible].

Ebell Woman's Civic Club

Mrs. J. Olive was unanimously elected president of the Business Woman's Civic Club for the coming year.

In making the choice unanimous the club expressed its appreciation of and confidence in Mrs. Olive as its leader. She has solved many troublesome club problems in the past year, and has met them all with a fine spirit and untiring zeal.

Civic commission and active members generally, have for her the feeling which every president must be able to inspire in her co-workers, namely, that she always be counted upon to co-operate enthusiastically with them for the ultimate good of the whole.

Wa-Wan Club

Mrs. William E. Mabee, president of the Wa-Wan Club, is entertaining members and their friends at a musical tea and reception on Wednesday afternoon, this week, two until 5 o'clock at the Women's Athletic Club, 833 South Flower street, in honor of Mrs. Gilliman Kelley of Ohio, recently elected president of the Pacific Federation of Music Clubs and other prominent officers. Mrs. Kelley, noted American composer-pianist, who is to direct one of her symphonies at the Hollywood Bowl this summer, will also be present.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. [illegible] going and incoming officers. This is the closing event of the club year and will be a gay social.

The annual business meeting for club members will be held the afternoon, at 10 o'clock in the lobby of the Ambassador Theater.

BUILDINGS WILL COST $1,250,000

Twelve-Story Hotel and Five-Story Apartments to be Erected Soon

Two building projects, a twelve-story hotel and a five-story apartment-house, together representing an expenditure of $1,250,000, were announced for Los Angeles yesterday by their respective builders.

Preliminary plans have been completed by Architects Vickers and Dingwell covering a twelve-story, reinforced concrete hotel costing $750,000, to be built on Sunset Place near Hoover street for B. L. Laubenheim.

The structure will occupy a site fronting 117 feet on Sunset Place and will be 157 feet deep. Its exterior will be finished in stucco and trim stone.

Inside, the hostelry will contain 516 rooms equipped with baths, twelve studios with connecting apartments, several shops and a spacious reception and ballroom. The contract covering construction of the building has not been let but work is scheduled to start within the next month.

Announcement to the effect that work will start immediately on the erection of a five-story own-your-own apartment-house, costing $500,000, to be built on the northeast corner of Bronson street and Wilshire Boulevard, also were made yesterday by E. A. Becker, salesmanager for the enterprise.

It will be constructed and owned by the Mayo-Wright Properties, Inc. Plans have been filed and a building permit has been requested.

The apartments will be known as the Los Altos, will occupy a site 144x150 feet and will be built of steel-frame construction with the exterior finished in Spanish and Italian architecture. It will contain seventy-three apartments totaling 213 rooms. Architect E. R. Rust drew the plans.

THE LAST WORD

BY ALMA WHITTAKER

THE CHARITY AUCTION

It gained its greatest virulence and success during the old Red Cross days. Under the stress of war the stay-at-homes would buy any old thing to help the cause.

It was then, too, that we ran to celebrity "auctioneers"—usually a male motion-picture star, if we could get him. He had a great time airing his good-natured wit and crying out, "Now what am I bid for this very beautiful lampshade?" and gradually working the price up and getting round to the "Going-going-gone[$13—the lady in the green hat on the right."

Well, we are still trying to do it. We held a couple in my city last week. One was a musicale and tea held at our best hotel to raise money for disabled veterans' babies, and the other was a big affair held at a country club—luncheon, cards, music—to raise money for a rest home for poor invalids.

And at both affairs a variety of donations were to be auctioned off by a handsome motion-picture actor. And the crowds duly came.

But this auction stuff isn't what it was. I want to tell you the amiable celebrity who undertakes to perform auctioneer duties today is a veritable hero.

NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE

You know the list, and not forgetting the home-made cake and the home-made preserves, which have at least entailed a little work and expense upon the part of the generous donor.

But there is none of the old war enthusiasm for buying 'em. We are right up on the market price of all kinds of commodities and, anyway, we have come chiefly for the luncheon and the cards and a chance to wear our best clothes.

PERSPIRES IN DESPERATION

So our amiable—and soon perspiring—hero is confronted at the outset by lack of attention, by frivolous chattering that drowns his voice, by the fussing of the women in charge, who still hold Red Cross memories, and by the utter lack of glamour of the things he is required to auction.

He, too, has Red Cross memories. He recalls his triumph in the Liberty Loan campaign. He is still thinking in hundreds and thousands, whereas his audience have come down to dimes and quarters. He feels that his very reputation depends on selling this truck at fancy prices. Especially as feminine whispers in anxious tone reach his ears, admonishing him not to let that picture go for less than $10—while his highest bid at the moment is $1.75 and he can't place the last raise.

And when it is all over, when his nerves are on edge and his voice cracked, and he has bought in the paper-weights and pen-wipers himself in frantic desperation, when he has smiled and cajoled and wasted his best wit on a company that only wants to get away to the card-tables, he is quite likely to have a donor to two accost him reproachfully for letting her pillow or her autograph book go below the hoped-for price, and a preoccupied little chairwoman will murmur: "It was very kind of you to come, good-day," while she is really mourning because he only took in $98.75 when they had certainly counted on a couple of hundred. And, of course, it must be because the auctioneer wasn't up to standard.

CARNIVAL ARRANGED AT UPLIFTERS' RANCH

There will be swimming contests, races, games and all sorts of playground amusements, with prizes. Judges in the events will be bachelors, so that no accusations of partiality may be brought. HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

The Dog's Bath

Puppies should be over 5 months old before they receive their first tub bath. Baths up to this time are weakening and subject the puppy to diseases. However, a brushing every day is a surprising help. When out of the puppy stage the dog should receive a daily brushing and a bath once a month. Too many baths are injurious to the dog's skin, frequently causing eczema in summer and chapping the skin in winter, which results in sores.

Strong Buttonholes

If you find your buttonholes do not hold very well, try marking them with a pencil; then run a line of machine stitching all around the pencil mark. Cut through the center and buttonhole over the machine stitching. It makes a splendid firm buttonhole.

Those Razor Blades

Used razor blades are always a bother to get rid of, as we worry about someone going through the trash and receiving a nasty cut. Put them out with the ashes, not the trash. Or put them in a candy box, tie and then put them in the trash.

Shiny Faucets

Brass faucets in good condition give a well-kept appearance to the kitchen. They will clean beautifully with a flannel cloth dipped in vinegar. Then rub thoroughly with oil and rottenstone. Polish with a clean piece of flannel.

WOMAN IN CASE KEEPS SILENT

Visits Husband Held for Shooting Rival

Refuses to Make Statement to Reporters

"I Care Nothing About the Public" Her Reply

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, June 25.—With the "other man" dead, and the husband shaken and broken in his solitary cell in the County Jail, the woman in the triangle holds the key which, officials believe, may unlock the enigma surrounding the shooting five times with a shotgun of Harry Howard Kelly at a Taft pumping plant by Leon Hillier, oil worker, Tuesday night.

She arrived in Bakersfield this morning from Los Angeles, where she had been notified of the tragedy. Jail officials admitted her to her husband's cell shortly after her arrival.

It was revealed today by authorities and others who knew the family that Kelly was a foster-brother of Mrs. Hillier.

When called from the cell by a Times representive, Mrs. Hillier, a small woman, attired attractively in an orange-colored frock, refused to make a statement for the press.

To each query she replied, "I have nothing to say." At one time she said, "Why should the newspapers want to print anything about me?"

When it was explained to her that the paper's object was to serve the public, she said: "I do not care a thing about the public. I have nothing to say as yet. I am determined."

The girlish-looking woman was dry eyed. Her brown eyes twinkled at times at repeated questions, but she was fixed in her determination to remain silent on any subject touching upon the murder.

In the cell whence she had come, a different battle of emotions was in progress.

Hillier, his eyes swollen, and his hands twitching nervously, paced the floor of his cell like a caged animal. Gone was the last vestige of the composure which had marked his entrance to the Sheriff's office to give himself up the night of the shooting.

Two nights in the lonely cell had completely shattered his nerves.

Attorney E. J. Emmons, representing Hillier, who did not appear at the inquest, admitted that his client had done the shooting.

The verdict of the jury was "Death caused by hemorrhage due to gunshot wounds inflicted by Leon Hillier with homicidal intent."

Other witnesses at the inquest who corroborated the testimony of preceding citizens were: H. M. Gill and John Leippert, foreman for the Pacific Oil Company, and Dr. Charles Hawking, who attended the dying man. Investigation by Sheriff's officers revealed that Mrs. Hillier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bates, formerly of Bakersfield, had reared Kelly from childhood and that the two had grown up together in Bakersfield.

Hillier and the Bates girl were married seven years ago in Taft. They have two children, a boy 3 years of age and a girl 18 months old. Both are in Los Angeles with Mrs. Hillier's parents.

Sheriff's officials have several letters exchanged between Mrs. Hillier and Kelly while the woman was living in Los Angeles. One letter is addressed to her husband by Mrs. Hillier, and tells her spouse that she is supporting herself in the southern city and that she did not wish to go back to him.

According to Deputy Sheriff Phil Fickert, Kelly had written three letters to Mrs. Hillier and had left the missives in his room without mailing them.

A murder charge was prepared by District Attorney's officials today. This will be sent to Taft, where it will be formally sworn to. Date for arraignment has yet to be set.

No surviving relatives of the dead man have been located. His funeral will be conducted Saturday at 9 a.m. at Taft under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias and Redmen lodges, of which he was a member.

PLEADS IGNORANCE

Prisoner Says He Didn't Know Weed was Marihuana

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 25.—Steve Cassillas, held in the City Jail here on charges of violation of the State Poison Act, after officers found several hundred pounds of marihuana growing in his back yard at 1746 Seventeenth street, this morning faced Judge W. R. Garrett and entered a plea of not guilty. Date of trial was fixed for July 1, and bail set at $150, which he was unable to raise.

Marihuana is a narcotic weed, which when dried and smoked causes temporary insanity and false bravery. Its effect is the opposite to opium, officers declared.

Cassillas told police he did not know what the weed was, but that it had grown wild in his cornfield. Officers, however, found several pounds which had been dried ready for use.

VENICE, June 25.—After W. S. Brooks of Los Angeles, asserted by police to have been highly inebriated, had run his automobile into another machine, which, in turn, crashed into the front of a Brooks-avenue grocery store, he quit his automobile, but was later arrested by local officers and is being held in the City Jail on a drunk charge. Brooks will appear before Police Judge Walter Rennie, Monday afternoon.

PARADE TO BE FEATURE AT RESORT

Annual Kiddie Frolic at Ocean Park Bigger Than Ever Before

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OCEAN PARK, June 25.—More than 1000 children from all over Southern California will march in review here Sunday at 2 o'clock, when the sixth annual kiddies' floral parade, staged under the direction of Mrs. Earl Fraser, will be held. The parade, according to Mrs. Fraser, will be the largest ever held, with more float entries.

Santa Monica and Ocean Park merchants have assisted materially in assuring the success of the pageant. More than $1000 in cash prizes, with special prizes, will be awarded winners.

So that persons may witness the procession, grand stand seats have been erected in front of the municipal auditorium here, where the winners will be adjudged. The parade will form on Fraser avenue and proceed down the Ocean Front walk to Rose avenue, in Venice. Owing to the increasing numbers each year who witness the spectacle, the line of march will be considerably lengthened.

It is pointed out that this year only miniature floats may be entered in the pageant, such as decorated kiddie cars and tricycles. Arrangements have been made with the Pacific Electric Railway to handle the large crowds through a special service to the Bay District.

ATTEMPT TO HALT RECALL

City of Colton Stirred by Agitation

Silent Hand of Klan Seen Under Surface

Service Club Acts to Stop Balloting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, June 25.—Threatened fisticuffs and much diplomacy entered into Colton's recall controversy today.

Acting to halt the recall movement in the interests of community progress and development, the City Club, comprising two score of representative business men of Colton, named a committee to confer with spokesman of the Citizens' League in an effort to block the political warfare. The committee includes H. Palmer Willetts, Louis D. Spence and Floyd A. Amundsen.

The recall is directed against Mayor Walter H. Evans and three of his aides on the Colton Board of Trustees, Guy L. Rick, George W. Oden and Alvin H. Clark. Their removal from office on charges of incompetency, the asserted accepting of illegal salaries and countenancing of the defacing of the city streets is asking in the petitions on file by the Citizens' League with the City Clerk. There are 346 names on the petitions and 314 signatures of qualified voters are necessary to force the calling of an election.

The threatened fist fight occurred when James Heatley, recognized spokesman of the Citizens' League, challenged E. B. Hinckley, associate editor of the Colton Courier, to combat. Heatley resented the terming by Hinckley in an editorial of the recall as the "Heatley-Belarde" recall. He asserted that the term linked his name with that of Frank Belarde, a convicted bootlegger. Heatley was also reported to have challenged Traffic Officer Carroll Willhan to fight. Heatley, it is reported, accused the officer of attempting to interfere with the progress of the recall campaign.

Attorneys, too, are engaging in verbal clashes over the impending recall balloting. Attorney E. W. Bartlett represents the Citizens' League, and Attorney D. I. Rothrock today issued a statement for the city officials in which he denounced the recall attempt as having "been inflamed" by persons who cast "unjustified aspersions at the city officials."

Behind the scenes, however, is the undercurrent of a Ku Klux Klan issue. It is not written into the recall petitions, but recall advocates are charging Mayor Evans and his aides as being Klansmen. The petitions do charge, however, that the Trustees permitted the defacing of the streets. This intimates the responsibility for non-interference with the Klan in the painting of its symbols on the streets was with the Trustees.

A date for the recall election — if the efforts of the City Club to halt it fail — will be fixed by Mayor Evans at the next meeting of the Trustees on July 6.

Cotton Compress at Bakersfield Nears Completion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, June 25.—The completion of the foundation of the large warehouse and the placing of the machinery for the cotton compress marks the first step of the progress in the erection of the buildings and cotton compress of the San Joaquin Compress and Warehouse Company on the twenty-two-acre site immediately north of Bakersfield. The building program entails an expenditure of approximately $150,000.

The foundation of the warehouse building has been completed and the machinery is now being installed. All parts of the machine, with the exception of the boilers, have arrived and are at the site ready to be placed. The warehouse is a large structure, 250x500 feet with galvanized-iron walls and roof, and a large brick firewall through the center of the interior which separates the building into two rooms. The compress is the late model Webb-eighty with a capacity of from 100 to 150 bales of cotton an hour.

JAPANESE REBUILD CITY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, June 25.—Rev. Eustace Strong, chaplain of the American and British colony in Yokohama, arrived here from Japan yesterday and is now staying at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo. Dr. Strong is the man who conducted the funeral services for the American Consul and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kirjasba, both of whom were killed during the fatal Japanese earthquake two years ago.

Mrs. Kirjasba's father, Dr. H. Ballatine, is a resident of Pasadena. He is keeping the two Kirjasba children who were saved. Dr. Strong called on them today.

"The Japanese population in Yokahama before the great quake was 400,000. Now it is 350,000 which is an extraordinary recovery when it is remembered that the city was entirely wiped out by fire which followed the shake," declared Dr. Strong. "The young and more venturesome have returned to the city but the older survivors are remaining in the back country, where they fled in terror.

"The foreign population of Yokohama reduced from 3000 to virtually nothing, has now returned to 1000. Everyone in the city is now comfortably housed and considerable business is carried on. However, most of the buildings are temporary, due to the elaborate plan of the Japanese government for the rebuilding of the city. This plan calls for the widening of the streets and formation of fire protection zones. Now permanent buildings can be erected only where the streets and zones have been determined. The new buildings will be of concrete and capable of withstanding quakes," he said.

WAR ON CIGARETTES

Temperance Crusaders Turn Attention to Paper-Covered Smoke Sticks

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, June 25.—Members of the Ontario Woman's Christian Temperance Union today determined to wage battle against cigarettes as strenuously as they formerly did against liquor, after listening to a talk before the organization by Mrs. Pearl Gundy, who charged that the enormous increase of crime and juvenile delinquency in this country can be directly traced to cigarette smoking.

Mrs. Gundy declared that society must expect to reap as it sows and that if boys and girls are allowed the privilege of cigarette smoking, then society must pay for it in an increase of crime, invalidism and other evils that follow in the trail of "this frequently used narcotic."

In a paper on "dope," Mrs. F. F. Beckley severely scored the growing use of cigarettes, which she asserted are sold in the United States at the rate of 190,000,000 a day, exclusive of "the makin's" Mrs. J. G. Anderson presented a paper on statistics to the effect that liquor consumption in the United States has been cut 70 per cent by prohibition.

New Ballroom Open to Public at Ocean Park

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OCEAN PARK, June 25.—Another modern fireproof structure to arise from the ashes of the devastating $4,000,000 fire in the amusement zone here more than a year ago is the Egyptian Ballroom on the $2,000,000 Ocean Park pier, which will be opened to the public Saturday night.

The new ballroom was constructed by the Ocean Park Realty Company with which Gore Brothers, Adolph Ramish, George Cleveland and others are associated. The structure is the only absolutely fireproof dancing pavilion in the beach amusement zones.

Saturday's opening will be in the way of special carnival night, when Dude Smell's orchestra under the leadership of Bert Fiske will supply the music. The architecture is of old Egyptian design throughout, with a sixty-foot open-air promenade around the entire building. Chocolate gardens will be opened in connection with the ballroom.

Voters' League Members Favored For Pasadena Office

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, June 25.—Lawrence Williams, secretary of the Voters' Municipal League, the organization which succeeded in putting four new members on Pasadena's Board of City Directors, today petitioned the City Manager for the position of superintendent of the refuse-disposal department. The office was recently made vacant by the resignation of H. F. McDowell after charges of graft had been hurled at the department.

In this application Mr. Williams gave as references A. N. Cole, F. B. Cole, William Easterbrook and Carl S. Newcomer, the four new City Directors. If Mr. Williams's application is granted he will be the second official of the voters' league to obtain a city position since the new directors were elected. O. D. Hunt, principal orator for the league during the election campaign, has been appointed Acting City Manager.

ROB CLOHING STORE

Burglars Take Best of Stock in Alhambra Establishment

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, June 25.—Three heavy locks and an iron bar did not halt burglars who forced their way into Kahn's Furnishing Store some time last night and looted the establishment of between $2000 and $5000 in merchandise, according to the police. The loss was not discovered until later this morning, when Perry Kahn, the proprietor, opened the store for business.

A check of the stock showed that only goods of the best quality had been stolen, the burglars using discrimination in the selection of men's suits and other furnishings. The suits taken represented practically the same sizes, Kahn said.

FRESNO TO PROVIDE ARMORY FOR GUARD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, June 25.—With the city facing the loss of its two National Guard companies and a company of Naval Reserves because of lack of proper armory facilities, the Fresno City Commission today voted to spend $3100 in equipping the municipal auditorium with locker rooms, offices, quarters and other appurtenances for the Guard.

The Commission agreed to enter into an agreement for four years for use of the auditorium when Lieut.-Col. Raw W. Hayes advised that the Guard will pay the city a minimum sum of $150 per month, half of which is to go toward repaying the cost of installing the necessary equipment.

ORANGE COUNTY TO RECEIVE WAR TROPHY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, June 25.—Through the efforts of the local post of the American Legion Santa Ana is to receive a large German field piece, part of the vast amount of trophies captured by the American Expeditionary Forces in the World War.

The gun is of the 150-millimeter type and weighs 35,000 pounds. It is to be placed in the yard of the Courthouse here and dedicated to the men and women of Orange county who served with this country's forces.

TO EQUIP PLAYGROUNDS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 25.—City Commissioners have accepted a bid for the installation of playground equipment in two playgrounds. One of the recreational centers will be on the beach sands near the Dragon baths and the other north of the Santa Monica Athletic Club. The playgrounds will be opened for the kiddies of this city, Ocean Park and visiting youngsters.

Contractors Let Paving Job Go by Default

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, June 25.—At midnight last night the time limit given O. U. Miracle and George H. Oswald, contractors, who were the successful bidders for the job of paving Main street, expired, neither contractor having affixed his signature to the documents. The city is now faced with the task of starting new proceedings for the improvement of the two-mile stretch of Alhambra's main business thoroughfare. This will be done immediately, according to City Manager Irvine.

Miracle and Oswald have had the last fifteen days in which to sign the contracts. By not signing they indicated their refusal to go ahead with the job. Legal action will probably ensue to recover the 10 per cent bonds, which accompanied their bids and which the city still holds.

As no word has been received from either contractor, Mr. Irvine was unable to state their reasons for forfeiting their contracts. However, it is learned on good authority that technical errors were found in the proceedings by the attorneys of the contractors and that the financing of the contracts was thus hindered.

If the new proceedings are started at once and suffer no delays new bids will be called for within about five weeks. In another two months, if all goes well, the actual construction should start. Miracle was awarded the contract to pave the east half of Main street with asphaltic concrete and Oswald was given the contract to pave the west half with cement concrete.

Goes to Jail to Work Out Heavy Fine

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, June 25.—Charles E. Tignor, 38, Los Angeles salesman, in Justice K. E. Morrison's court here today, was convicted of a charge of reckless driving and was fined $250, in default of which he was remanded to the County Jail to serve out the fine at the rate of $1 a day.

Mrs. Stella Fransen of this city filed a complaint against Tignor after the car which he occupied with Mrs. Tignor, collided with her machine on the State highway near here late yesterday. Mrs. Fransen escaped without injury.

While admitting in Justice Court that he "took a couple of drinks" just before leaving San Diego, Tignor denied that he was intoxicated.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 25.—For the second time within a month an explosion partially wrecked the cleaning and pressing establishment of Barnett Brothers here this morning, and Barney Barnett was badly burned as a result. Cleaning fluid ignited, throwing Barnett across the room and setting fire to the building.

He was treated at St. Catherine Hospital, where it was reported his burns were not serious. The fire was extinguished by firemen from a near-by store.

FIRE BUGS PERSIST IN GLENDALE

Firemen Balk Fourth Attempt to Burn Bungalow on School Property

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, June 25.—For the fourth time within six weeks the Doran-street school was set afire this morning, and only prompt work by the fire department prevented the flames from completely destroying the bungalow annex, under which this morning's fire started.

The last attempt to set fire to this annex occurred on the 14th inst., when the flames originated in a pile of rubbish near the north wall of the building, between the floor and the ground. This morning the fire started in a pile of rubbish that had been carefully placed under the exact center of the bungalow.

For some time the police department has been keeping a careful watch on the property during the night, hoping to find the person who was responsible for the fires, but the pyromaniac evidently was aware of the guards' presence and waited until after daylight when the police patrol had been withdrawn and before the janitor came on duty at 7 o'clock.

The fire was discovered at 5:55 a.m. and an investigation by Fire Chief A. H. Lankford is said to confirm the suspicion that the fire, as well as the former outbreaks, was the work of an incendiary. The police department and the school authorities are redoubling their efforts to apprehend the culprit, and every precaution will be taken to prevent any fresh outbreak.

BARKER MADE HEAD OF LABOR BUREAU

Thomas Barker, who has been a deputy Labor Commissioner for the past three years, has been appointed head of the Los Angeles office of the department, it was announced yesterday by State Labor Commissioner Matthewson. The appointment comes as the result of a complete reorganization of the local branch in progress for the past several weeks.

Dr. Louis Bloch, statistician of the department, was appointed temporary head about two weeks ago to reorganize the office and place it on a more efficient basis. He will return to Sacramento today, he said, and Mr. Barker will take immediate charge.

Chief Deputy Barker before his connection with the State work, was a member for four years of the conciliation service of the Federal Department of Labor.

TRANSCRIPT MADE PART OF EVIDENCE

State Submits Testimony Before Coroner and Grand Jury in Camp Case

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, June 25.—Today was "the day after the storm" in the Lee Camp murder trial in Superior Court here. Acrimonious controversies which marked the closing of court yesterday were cleared away and nothing spectacular happened to disturb the most monotonous day of the trial.

Grim details of the occurrences at the Brown ranch on the foggy December Sunday when Lee Camp met his death by accident or design, were gone into through reading of the transcript of evidence given by two of the defendants, J. H. Tipton and Fred Mills, at the Coroner's inquest, and the evidence given by Tipton, Mills, and Robert McCamish, the latter also a defendant, before the grand jury.

The prosecution insists that all of the circumstances related in this testimony form part of a chain of evidence by which they expect to fasten the responsibility for the death of Camp on one or all of the defendants. They hold that discrepancies in the statements of the different defendants will strengthen the links in the chain of circumstantial evidence which the prosecution has been weaving against the defendants.

Court adjourned at 4 o'clock until next Tuesday morning.

Leaves Court-room to Take Marriage Vows

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, June 25. — Within an hour after the Superior Court adjourned this afternoon, Dist.-Atty. W. R. McKay, conducting the prosecution in the Camp murder trial, was standing before the altar in the Episcopal Church of this city, where he was married to Miss Fern Russell.

Rector A. H. Martyr performed the ceremony. The couple left for Fresno, unattended, and there were only a few friends and relatives present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. McKay will spend the week-end in Santa Cruz.

The bridegroom has served two and one-half years as District Attorney and two years as deputy in the office. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Russell, and a member of a pioneer family here. She has been principal of Hamilton School in this city for three years past. Mr. McKay is a graduate of the University of California and Stanford law school. The wedding is the culmination of a romance begun when the bridegroom taught school in this city five years ago.

JURIST EXPLODES BOMB

Gives Opinion Governor Has No Authority to Appoint Judges for New Municipal Court

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, June 25.—Attorneys and court attaches here were agog today when news of a speech said to have been made last night by Superior Court Judge John P. Wood, of Los Angeles, before the Bar Association of Fresno, reached here. In the purported address Judge Wood is said to have questioned the right of Gov. Richardson to appoint judges to the bench of the new Municipal Court, authorized by the last session of the State Legislature.

Local attorneys, through their Bar Association, recently selected three of their number for recommendation to the Governor as appointees to the bench in three of the five proposed departments of the Municipal Court here.

Judge Wood's declaration, it was pointed out, is a veritable bombshell in the ranks of the attorneys here who understood that the law providing for the municipal courts, provided also that the Governor should name the judges to serve until such time as a regular election is held. It was the contention of Judge Wood, according to reports of his speech in Fresno, that the Governor will have no authority under the constitution to make appointments to Municipal Court benches anywhere in the State until the positions first have been filled by election.

It is the Governor's duty to appoint judges to fill vacancies but the stand is taken that until judges have been elected to the new court there will be no vacancies. The Long Beach Municipal Court will begin to function about August 1, with five departments. It is understood that Judge Helwig and Justice Charles F. Cook will preside in two of the departments.

VENICE BACKS POLICE OUST

Trustees Accept Resignation of Capt. Lingo

Had Been Member of Force for Fifteen Years

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, June 25.—Backing the action of Acting Chief of Police Davilla in asking for the resignations of every member of the department, the City Trustees last night accepted the resignation of Capt. George Lingo, for 15 years a member of the force, and four others.

Other resignations will be accepted in the "shake-up" that followed the ousting of Police Chief McCausland in the demand for "new blood and alert young men" in the department. For the present the force will remain at 40, which is, Acting Chief Davilla said, sufficient.

Others whose resignations were accepted are: Patrolmen L. T. Donald, J. V. Sharpe, George Dunn and Tom Combes. Each had been on the force for a year or more.

Davilla's recommendation that Patrolman William Harry Green be appointed a sergeant was followed, as was his recommendation that D. J. Brown, Albert Jacques, Vesano of Venice and A. R. Wood of Los Angeles be appointed patrolmen.

The shake-up followed closely on the heels of the dismissal Tuesday of Chief of Police McCausland by the Trustees in a special session. He was dismissed with a compliment, but refused to leave office until he was bluntly informed that it was either a case of going quietly or being thrown out.

The dismissal was followed by the appointment of Davilla as acting Chief of Police, and his advancement to the rank of captain. Davilla has been on the force for years, serving as a motorcycle officer during the entire period.

He assumed office today and his first act was to call for and accept the resignations of every member of the department. He made explanation of the shake-up was to point out that the Trustees desired "new blood" and young men in the department, and that he was following out their wishes.

McCausland, at the time of his discharge, was informed that he had rendered excellent service in Venice as Police Chief, and that he had kept the city cleaner than ever before, but that he was needed to make room for a certain reorganization of the department with a younger man in command.

CHINO CANNERY AT WORK ON "COT" FA

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

CHINO, June 25.—Three hundred persons began work this morning in the Libby, McNeill & Libby plant for a three weeks' run of apricots. The large whistle sounded a call shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday, informing the world that the opening of the season was on.

Work will continue for ten days if the temperature is moderate, but if the present hot weather does not decline 100 additional girls will be put on to finish the pack in fifteen days in an effort to handle the quickly-ripening fruit.

After the run of "cots," the peach crop will be handled and the company hopes to be able to operate on northern peaches by July 15. It is believed that the Chino peaches will be given first consideration by valley canneries, owing to the higher price asked for the local product. However, the Chino northern crop does not end there is no doubt that the entire crop will receive bids.

ATTEMPT TO KILL SWEETHEART FA

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

FRESNO, June 25.—[illegible] when his advances were repulsed by Lucy Gonzales, 16 years old, Primitiva Sanchez, 35, forced his way into her room at 2 o'clock this morning and shot her three times as she lay in bed, her bed attempting to escape gunfire.

One of Sanchez's bullets missed her in the shoulder, a second missed but the powder burned her arm, and the third shot went wild and buried itself in the wall though he fired at a distance of four feet.

Sanchez was arrested two hours later on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. The wounded girl's injuries were said by police surgeons to be serious but not fatal.

SOLVES PROBLEM OF FAST TRANSPORTA

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

SAN BERNARDINO, June [illegible]. Mrs. Carl W. Stillwell of Camp at Big Bear, made a [illegible] trip to Los Angeles. She scheduled to meet her sister, William F. Blanchard of Park, Ill., who arrived by train, and had but a short time in which to make the trip and obtained the use of [illegible] Waterman Airline plane to [illegible] between Big Bear and Ontario and made the trip in 40 minutes. These planes were passengers to and from the Coast. Notwithstanding the fact that roads to the Stillwell Camp are in fine condition these planes are proving a popular method of transportation to the resort.

The first will be given at the Methodist church house tomorrow night, June 26, the first of a series of five Friday night lectures.

FLASHES

NEW STAR SIGNS

FIRST NATIONAL ANNEXES ROBERT FRAZER

By Grace Kingsley

Very cleverly and quietly First National Pictures is reaching out and annexing much of the best acting and directorial talent in the picture business.

Robert Frazer is the brand new star of First National. He has been signed on a long-term contract, and he is now playing opposite Blanche Sweet, who also now possesses a contract with the same company. Frazer's first entry on the screen for First National is with Edwin Carewe's "The Sea Woman." Fred Warren of vaudeville fame has an important part in this picture.

Hale Hamilton, who has graced the legitimate boards during the past several seasons, has just been signed with the June Mathis unit for "The Viennese Medley," which Curt Rehfeld is directing. Nigel de Brulier and John Salnpolis are two other actors appearing in the cast of this picture.

John Patrick has affixed his name to a contract whereby he will enact an important role in "Joseph Greer and His Daughter," with George Archainbaud directing. David Torrence likewise has a big part, as have also Lewis Stone, Shirley Mason, Barbara Bedford, Ethel Grey Terry, Hugh Allen, Joyce Compton, Tom Wilson, Lewis Dayton and others.

Ward Crane is playing in Corinne Griffith's picture. He signed immediately upon Miss Griffith's return from New York this week. Jack Mulhall has been in New York with the actress during filming of exterior scenes. As soon as Charles Murray is able to work, he will don a make-up for "Classified," Miss Griffith's picture. Murday has been ill due to an accident some weeks ago.

Five productions in all are now being made at United Studios for First National, with several hundred persons employed.

GRIFFITH STILL IS PLANNING FOR WEST

D. W. Griffith isn't to make "The Royle Girl" next, after all, according to authoritative word just received from New York. And after his next picture he is coming west, according to the same source of information.

I know Mr. Griffith has been crying "wolf, wolf" for a long time regarding coming west, but you know there is also the saying, not quite so old, but pretty well tried out of late years, that once you live in California, you always come back. And, after all, the wolf did come at last, you know, so this time let's believe the welcome news that the master director really is coming back to the old scene of his labors and triumphs.

Mr. Griffith is going to make one more picture in the East and then California again will be his goal if all goes well. "Sorrows of Satan" will probably be his western-made opus. The story he is making now, we are assured, is quite as interesting a picture as "The Royle Girl" would make.

In the meantime, it would seem, that "Sally of the Sawdust" is the best picture which Mr. Griffith has done in a long time, at least from an audience and box-office standpoint. It has been tried out in the East, and audiences laugh and cry at it from beginning to end. Carol Dempster is starred in both "Sally of the Sawdust" and Griffith's present picture.

Betty Bronson to Leave

Betty Bronson is going to take her doll rags and leave for New York in exactly one month from this time, according to the announcement made yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky. And as soon as she reaches the East she will begin work in Sir James Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella." She is now at work in "The Golden Princess," which Clarence Badger is directing.

A cablegram received yesterday by Mr. Lasky from Herbert Brenon, who is in London, and who is to direct the picture, stated that all points in connection with the production have been settled. He has been in conference with the author, and now nothing more remains to be done in preparation so far as story is concerned.

Tom Moore has the coveted role opposite Miss Bronson. This is the role of the London bobby, which was so delightful in the play. This role is one well suited to Mr. Moore's comedy gifts, and requires as well a flair for injecting a touch of whimsy and melancholy into the part.

"A Kiss for Cinderella" is to be the second special Christmas feature production of a Barrie story by Paramount. It was prepared for the screen by Willis Goldbeck, who adapted "Peter Pan" so admirably. Mr. Brenon took the script to London and reports that Sir James was entirely delighted with the treatment of the play.

Paulette Duval Loaned

Paulette Duval, that brilliant young French actress who lately arrived in this country, and who is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has been loaned by that organization to Universal, where she is playing the part of Olive Cartaret in Maurice Tourneur's production of "Sporting Life."

Millard Webb for Barrymore

Having the famous John Barrymore on their hands, naturally the Warner Brothers wanted to do themselves proud in selecting a director for their star. So, after glancing up and down their directorial ranks, they decided that Millard Webb would be the very man for the job. Wherefore Webb is getting all ready to tell Barrymore what to do in "The Sea Beast."

Millard Webb was formerly scenario writer; then he acted as assistant director, and was afterward promoted to the proud position of director.

Harry Langdon's Realism

Harry Langdon is going in for realism these days, it would seem. At any rate, in "Lucky Stars," his latest Sennett comedy, Harry plays a quack doctor, and many of the funny incidents are based upon actual experiences he underwent as boy assistant to a medicine show with which he traveled when a youngster.

EGYPTIAN THEATER MECCA

Professional and Social Luminaries to Add to Brilliance of "Gold Rush" Premiere Tonight

Tonight Hollywood will be the gathering place for the most distinguished personages of the vicinity, including stars of the films, civic leaders, and the socially elite, at Sid Grauman's elaborate presentation of the world premiere of Charlie Chaplin's feature-length comedy-drama, "The Gold Rush," in Grauman's Egyptian Theater.

So many personages in the public eye probably never before have been brought together at a premiere or social function of any kind. Almost every picture star, producer and studio executive have made reservations for parties.

The notables to be presented will start entering the theater at 8:30 o'clock, and will be appropriately introduced as they pass to their seats, the new system of announcing personages to be inaugurated tonight. Grauman has asked that the regular first-nighters and the society patrons be in their seats promptly at 8:20 o'clock so that the entrance of the stars may not be delayed.

The exhibitor of prologue fame has spared no pains or expense in preparing a scintillating spectacle. Alaska in the days of the Klondike gold rush will be presented in an elaborate ten-act prologue to introduce the master comedian's most pretentious production. Those who have had the privilege of a peep at Grauman's spectacle pronounce it an epoch-making exhibition.

A musical score has been arranged for "The Gold Rush" by Carli D. Elinor, composer, famed for such adaptations. The premiere will introduce to the public two new musical artists in the Egyptian, Gino Severi, well-known conductor, as the leader of the Egyptian orchestra, and Julius K. Johnson, at the console of the great Egyptian organ.

Following is a partial list of those who will attend the premiere of "The Gold Rush:"

Mr. Charles Chaplin and party; Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and party; Mr. and Mrs. John Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairbanks, Miss Marion Davies, Sir Arthur and Lady Collins of Drury Lane Theater, London; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, Elinor Glyn and party; Earle C. 'Heroine Chooses Heroic Suitor in 'The Lost World'

What maiden wouldn't hold out the engagement ring finger if the young man in question saved her from a hungry prehistoric dinosaur as big as seven elephants?

In A. Conan Doyle's "The Lost World," now showing at the Million Dollar Theater, Lewis Stone and Lloyd Hughes are both in love with Bessie Love. She says "yes" to the suitor who rescues her from one of the many monsters of 10,000,000 years ago, brought to life in this picture, which roams the wilderness of unexplored South America.

The band of explorers, which includes, besides the lovers, Wallace Beery as a fearsome scientist, captures one of these huge creatures alive and takes him to London, where the beast proceeds to wreck the metropolis.

MASON TO APPEAR

James Mason, whose work in "Beggar on Horseback" created so much favorable comment recently, will greet his fans from the screen soon in "Black Lightnin'," a Renaud Hoffman dog story, "Light of Western Stars," "Under the Rouge" and "Rugged Waters," a varied record of characterizations.

'Rolling Home' Coming Soon to the Majestic

"Rolling Home," a rollicking comedy drama by John Hunter Booth, author of "The Masqueraders," has been chosen as the stage vehicle to succeed Maude Fulton in "The Big Top" at the Majestic.

The new play, the second one to be presented by H. P. Caulfield and his associates, who recently took over the South Broadway playhouse, is the story of a little town in Massachusetts that has always spurned industry and preferred to be an exclusive residential center. How a wandering son returns from the war and other adventures, wakes up the town, turns it into a thriving industrial city, with only a $10 bill in his pocket, but a borrowed Rolls-Royce at his command, forms the basis of an uproariously funny romantic comedy.

Robert Ober, who plays the leading masculine role in "The Big Top," has been cast for the part of the hero in "Rolling Home." "The Big Top" will be played for the last times next Saturday afternoon and evening.

RECORD 'NANETTE' RUN TO END JULY FOURTH

The end of the phenomenal run of "No, No, Nannette," is drawing closer daily and it will not be long until the popular tunes and catchy numbers of this show will only be memories in Los Angeles. The final performance is on Saturday evening, July 4. Then Taylor Holmes, Nancy Welford and the rest of the big company will board a special train and start for San Francisco, where they are to open the following night. There is little doubt but that "Nanette" will attain the same popularity in the north that she did here.

ALLEN STARTS WORK

Sam Allen is to start work this week in a Hunt Stromberg production, "The Romance of an Actress," featuring Priscilla Dean.

DIVERTING OFFERING

"Wedding Bells" Gayly Presented by Oatman Players

That merry little diversion by Salisbury Field, "Wedding Bells," heterogenous mixture of bigamists, bridegrooms and divorcees, is the current offering at the Marta Oatman School of the Theater. Opening last night, it will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

It is a difficult thing for any but professionals to sustain characterizations throughout a regulation three-act play. However, several of the principals in "Wedding Bells" accomplished this difficult feat.

Briefly, "Wedding Bells" tells of a young man who, on the eve of his wedding, is confronted, much to his joy, with his divorced wife. Incidentally the lady has secretly decided that her erstwhile husband is not to marry his current fiancee. He does not.

Particular credit is due Kathryn Bryan Bradford for her interpretation of the wife. In addition to being charming to look at, she is one of the most finished of the Oatman Players. Margaret Ellis, as the mother, did real character work, while Glen Cook was clever as the absurd young poet.

Virginia Bishop was not happily cast as the young girl, though she found herself in a few scenes. The same might be said of William Challee in the leading role, which offered unlimited opportunities. Marshall Ames was a most satisfactory China boy, while Fred Leedom Scott, Gordon Westcott and Evelyn Le Gassick were more than satisfactory.

EISTEDDFOD MEETS TO FORM NEW YEAR PLANS

Plans for the 1926 Eisteddfod were formulated at a conference and dinner of the California Eisteddfod Association held at the Los Angeles City Club recently. At the dinner James G. Warren, president of the association, presided, and brief addresses were given by Maurice Brown, leader in the little theater movement in America and England, Ben F. Pearson, manager of industrial and public relations for the Southern California Edison Company; Mrs. Abbie Norton Jamison, vice-president of the California Federation of Music Clubs; Charles C. Draa, president of the Los Angeles Music Teachers' Association, and F. J. Hokin, organization chairman of the Eisteddfod association. Reports from the district Eisteddfods were given by the chairmen of the various districts. Program numbers were presented by some of the winners in the open contests in music, oratory and dance.

Representatives from the various communities which have participated in this year's contests attended the meetings of the art, dance, drama and music divisions, and problems relating to the adjudication rules and various other matters were discussed in these meetings.

Meetings of the various sections of the music division will be called within the next few days to formulate rules and select the numbers to be used in the contests next year.

The chairmen of the various divisions are: Art, Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh; dance, C. L. Glenn; drama, Mrs. Margaret Barbrick Gillette, and music, Alexander Stewart. Of the various sections of the music division Mrs. Adelaide Trowbridge Perry is chairman of the piano section, Mrs. Flora Myers Engel of the voice section, David Sanders, violin section; J. Arthur Myers, orchestra; Arthur M. Perry, band, and W. J. Kraft, choral.

Ten thousand participants took part in the various Eisteddfod contests in Southern California this year. Seven district Eisteddfods have been held. It is planned to extend the scope of the work until it will eventually embrace the entire State of California. In order that there may be a wider participation in next year's Eisteddfod, especially on the part of the choral and orchestra clubs, it is intended to have the contest rules and selections ready for distribution by September 1, so that ensemble groups may include the Eisteddfod material in their year's work.

COLLEGE SUMMER MUSIC COURSE IS VERY BROAD

Realizing that there are many who would like to continue their musical education during the summer, the University of Southern California has planned a notable series of music courses in accord with the best teaching ideals of the present. The instruction will be under the direction of the regular university music faculty, and of experienced musicians and teachers who have been chosen with regard to their ability, not only to teach individually but to coordinate in the larger program requisite of the education of the fully trained musician.

Among the visiting professors are Edith M. Rhetts, who as educational director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra has won national recognition; Carolyn Alden Alchin, author of test-books on ear training, tone thinking, applied harmony and keyboard harmony; J. Harold Powers, head of the department of music, Central Michigan Normal School, and Lula C. P. Parmley, instructor in harmony, Pasadena High School.

Information regarding the summer session may be obtained from the dean of the college of music, University of Southern California, 2601 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

LEWIS DEFENDS TRUSTEE

Atascadero Promoter, on Stand in Hearing to Remove A. R. Rutherford, Blames War for Failure

The hearing for the removal of A. R. Rutherford as trustee of the vast properties of E. G. Lewis, of Atascadero, neared its ending yesterday in United States District Judge James's court with a procession of witnesses called by the defense to uphold Mr. Rutherford's actions.

The outstanding testimony of the day was that of Mr. Lewis himself, who ascended the stand when it was offered by his attorney that, as his name had been brought into the proceedings, it was only fair for him to testify in his own behalf.

Judge James stated that in his opinion, on the present evidence, he saw no reason why the trustee should not have taken control of all the corporations possessed by Lewis. These numbered thirteen, it was afterward testified. One of the properties remaining in the possession of Lewis was the Atascadero News and another was the Atascadero Estates, Inc., upon which was based the Willett land-settlement plan, termed by Joseph Lewinson, attorney for the petitioner, as a "conspiracy to defraud."

Mr. Lewis testified that he came to California and contracted to buy the Atascadero land, comprising 23,000 acres, from the Henry estate in 1913, when he had but $500. It was brought out, however, that his wife was possessed of a considerable sum and that he had the backing of eastern capitalists. Mr. Lewis recounted his experiences in promoting the Atascadero project and laid the blame for his troubles upon the World War, which interfered with the sale of the property.

He stated that the unsold acreage, if disposed of under foreclosure, would yield little more than the amount of the mortgage held on it, about $1,000,000, but with development, would sell for a sum up to $15,000,000.

A. H. Wheatley, auditor for the Atascadero Estates, Inc., M. M. Lyter, attorney for the trustee, and W. E. Hanson, auditor for the trustee, all testified that Mr. Rutherford's operations were above reproach and that he had administered the estate in the best manner possible.

Both Mr. Lyter and Mr. Hanson denied a number of statements made by witnesses for the plaintiff in regard to their conduct in the early stages of the bankruptcy.

HEIR IS PINCHED FOR PUNCH

Arthur K. Bourne, Jr., Seeking Divorce Here, is Arrested Twice in Day in New York, First for Asserted Blow on Wife's Nose and Second on Allowance Count

Arthur K. Bourne, Jr., one of the heirs to a $40,000,000 estate, who filed a suit for divorce from his wife in Los Angeles last May, was arrested in New York yesterday on complaint of his wife, who says he punched her nose. Bourne pleaded not guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

The arrest, according to dispatches from the East, was made by police officers, who pursued Bourne down the street in a flivver with the irate wife standing on the running board and directing the pursuit. For two days the wife, Mrs. Beatrice W. Bourne, 21 years of age, laid siege to her husband's apartment-house. When he came home an argument ensued. She said he punched her in the nose and then fled through a crowd that had gathered. The chase followed.

Young Bourne, who is one of the heirs to the great estate left by his grandfather, Commodore Frederick G. Bourne, sewing-machine magnate, was released for hearing today. He was arrested for the second time yesterday on a warrant obtained by his wife on a civil charge based on her complaint of unpaid separation allowance.

In his suit for divorce filed locally, Bourne charged that his wife spent money recklessly, nagged him about financial matters, was a poor cook and an indifferent housekeeper, threw shoes, lamps and scissors at him, pointed a gun at him and threatened his life.

WOMEN NOT INFLUENCED BY POLITICS

Lecturer Visiting Here Says Conscience Remains Guide of Feminine Voters

Politics hasn't changed woman since her entrance into that somewhat hectic line of activity, but woman has changed politics, in the opinion of Mary Hight of Chicago, author and lecturer, who has taken an active interest in the politics of her State and the nation for a number of years.

Mrs. Hight, now at the Clark Hotel, is in California and the Southwest to gather material for a new lecture. She spent several months in Arizona before arriving in Los Angeles.

"It is too early to say what the ultimate effect of women in politics will be," said Mrs. Hight. "It's a new game and they haven't got onto all the twists as yet. For instance, the average woman has not as yet properly attained the national viewpoint.

"I am of the opinion, however, that woman will never lose her inclination to let her conscience dictate how she shall vote. The majority of women voters are influenced in their action at the polls more largely than men, I think, by their ideas as to the fitness of the candidates. Men with a shady record stand no show with women voters."

Irate Husband Made Threat to Kill, is Charge

A narrow escape from death at the hands of a husband in a love triangle was experienced by E. A. Hughes, attendant at an oil station at Cahuenga and Yucca avenues last night, he told Detectives Stoll and Kirk.

The husband and an unidentified man came to the oil station yesterday afternoon, Hughes said, and by threatening him with a pistol forced him to go to an apartment near by.

Inside, Hughes declared, the husband repeated his threats and declared he intended to kill Hughes on the spot and later kill his wife, with whom he accused Hughes of familiarity.

After much threatening, Hughes declared, the man pointed the pistol at Hughes's head and pulled the trigger. The weapon missed fire, he said. Taking advantage of the failure of the gun to explode, Hughes related, he struck the man and ran out of the room.

Police were investigating the case last night.

TO EXTEND CAR LINE

Melrose Tracks Will be Built South to Western

The Los Angeles Railway filed an application yesterday, with the Board of Public Utilities for permission to extend the Melrose-avenue line from Larchmont Boulevard to Western avenue, the starting date to be contingent upon improvement of the center strip of Melrose avenue.

The line at present runs from Larchmont Boulevard to Fairfax avenue. The extension would establish a connection with the S street cars and the Western-avenue cross-town bus.

It is proposed that west of Larchmont Boulevard the one-way fare will remain the same, 5 cents, with no transfer privelege, but that east of Larchmont Boulevard the fare will be 5 cents, including transfer between Los Angeles Railway street cars. A 10-cent fare on any part of the line will include transfer to and from connecting Los Angeles motor-bus routes.

CONTRACTORS TO DINE

Sixth Annual Banquet Will be Held At Biltmore This Evening

More than 500 reservations have been received for the sixth annual banquet of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America this evening at the Biltmore. This is expected to be the most important meeting of the construction industry this year, according to Edwin A. Irish, chairman of the program.

Speakers will be E. M. Scofield, C. L. Peck and J. C. Edwards. The reception committee will welcome guests at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Godfrey Edwards will be master of ceremonies.

WARS CITED AS DEFENSE URGED

List of 200 During Nation's Life is Pointed Out

Test Day Declared Vital to Protection Plan

Police and Firemen Will be on Muster July 4

BY LIEUT. L. A. FARNUM,
Engineers' Reserves, Oil Corporation Purchasing Manager, Los Angeles

"I didn't know that," was the very appropriate title placed on an article written in 1923 by Secretary of War Weeks, in which it was attempted to show the large number of ways in which the Army has served and aided the country. The compilation of the military operations of the United States is a revelation, and no doubt will prove quite a shock to those who serenely eject from their minds all thoughts of military preparedness and set the American nation, or any nation, in fact, down as in a world of peace.

A study of the history of the United States shows that it has engaged in 200 wars and hostilities, in which the armed forces of the War Department were called out and put into use. This list is divided into six foreign wars, sixty-seven foreign hostilites without declaration of war, forty-six domestic disturbances and eighty-one Indian wars.

The graphic analysis of this history, showing that a year and a half is the longest interval of time when the nation has been at real peace, is illustrative of the reasons for the interest taken by citizen leaders in organized plans for national defense. The Constitution of the United States obligates every citizen in the duty of the common defense. National Defense Test Day is to acquaint the people with their system of national defense and familiarize the country at large with the defensive measures that would be employed and to indicate to every citizen the part he or she would have to play in the general scheme were the nation required to exercise the right of self-defense.

MANY CONFLICTS

It is to avoid wars, and to avoid the blunders and sacrifices of the past if ever again the nation is engaged in a foreign war or major emergency that the defense-test plans are brought before the citizens.

POLICE AND FIREMEN TO BE IN VOLUNTEER GROUP

Fire Chief R. J. Scott of Los Angeles has been enrolled as a one-day volunteer in Los Angeles for the national defense test, and he will enroll the whole fire department, it was announced at defense test headquarters, 625 Detwiler Building. Likewise the police department is being enrolled, and Chief Heath has announced that the police school of some 250 student officers, as well as every other officer that can be spared on the day will be present at the muster ceremonies on the morning of July 4 at the University of California, Southern Branch.

Maj. Harry L. Suydam, reserve officer, reported to the defense test headquarters that the Federation of State Societies, representing societies from every State and Territory in the Union, has indorsed plans for the defense test.

Many social and fraternal organizations, patriotic societies and employers have started lists of enrollment for the defense test. Enrollment is being made both of men and women. Col. George F. Hamilton explained that officers in charge wish all who can to present themselves and make a showing at the muster.

CLUB FOLK PLAN RIDE AND DINNER-DANCE

Members of the Breakfast Club will have their fourth moonlight ride and dinner-dance the evening of July 1. The riding party will leave the stables at 7:30 p.m. and will return to the dinner table at 9 p.m. A barbecue dinner with entertainment by Mme. Dowdall's juvenile actors and actresses will follow. This is expected to prove the biggest moonlight party ever given by the club. Because of the entertainment by juvenile players, members are expected to bring their children.

Presidency of New Council is City Hall Issue

Three conferences having a bearing on the presidency of the new City Council took place yesterday, according to reports reaching the City Hall. One was in the office of Pierson M. Hall, who is to be one of the new councilmen, one was between President Workman and Mayor Cryer, and the third is said to have been between Councilman Allan and Councilmen-elect Randall and Barnes. Allan is also a candidate for president of the City Council.

The Hall conference, reports stated, was for the purpose of drawing up a list of committee appointments desired in return for possible support of President Workman. The news of it is said to have caused the conference between President Workman and the Mayor, who is understood to be Hall admitted "some of the boys" had been at his office. "We just wanted to talk over things so we would work in harmony," he said. The Allan-Randall-Barnes conference is said also to have had committee appointments as its principal topic of discussion.

HEALTH IS HELD ABOVE LEARNING

Physical Care of Children is Convention Topic

Association to Conclude Session Today

Delegates Will be Chamber Guests for Tour

It is more important to take care of the health of the children in public schools than to give them an education, declared Dr. Sven Lokrantz, head of the health department of the Los Angeles schools, in an address before the convention of the American Physical Education Association at the Ambassador yesterday afternoon.

"The contagious and sanitation sections of the department have prevented many serious epidemics," he added. "Care of children's health is the foundation of their welfare and success. Without the instruction and corrective care furnished by the school health centers, scores of local children would have died and hundreds of others would have been unable to study or perform any useful work in the world.

SUNROOMS EFFECTIVE

"We have discovered that sunrooms on the roofs of schoolhouses and health centers are one of the best means for curing tuberculosis and building up the strength of malnourished and underweight children. Next school year we will add twenty more of these rooms."

Dr. C. L. Lowman, head of the Orthopaedic Hospital and School for Crippled Children, delivered a technical lecture on corrective work for crippled children, devoting a large part of his time to a discussion of foot troubles.

SESSION ENDS TODAY

The association will officially close its five-day convention today at noon, following addresses in the morning on interscholastic athletics and recreation playgrounds in cities.

This afternoon the delegates will be guests of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on sightseeing tours to points of interest.

Saturday noon the executive council of the association will meet at luncheon to discuss the present convention and plan for the 1926 meeting, which will be held in Newark, N. J., May, next.

The change in ideas of public decency regarding the display of their legs by women, were told at the morning session by Dr. Herbert R. Stolz, State superintendent of physical education. Better health will result from the change in clothing, he declared.

Good music at moderate prices in Los Angeles is going to have a lasting effect on the morals of local school children, Miss Winifred Van Hagen, assistant to Dr. Stolz, said.

ASSOCIATION'S PURPOSE

"The purpose of the association is to promote medical service for the removal of defects and emphasize the importance of maintaining health," Dr. J. H. McCurdy, secretary-treasurer of the association, told the delegates, while urging them to support a physical education program throughout the nation.

Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive secretary of the N. A. A. F., women's section, will hold a meeting of the women delegates at the Ambassador late this afternoon for the purpose of establishing a center in Southern California.

NEWCOMER RITES SET FOR TODAY

Burial of State Plant Quarantine Inspector to be at Santa Ana

Funeral services for Roger E. Newcomer, plant quarantine inspector at Los Angeles Harbor for the State Department of Agriculture, will be held at 1 p.m. today from the Goodrich undertaking establishment, San Pedro, followed by interment in Fairhaven Cemetery, Santa Ana.

Mr. Newcomer died the 24th inst., at a Long Beach hospital after a two-weeks' vain fight by surgeons following an internal hemorrhage two weeks ago, when he collapsed at the door of his home at San Pedro.

Born thirty-eight years ago in South Dakota, Mr. Newcomer came to Santa Ana in 1903, residing there several years, later farming successfully in Imperial Valley, where he became associated with the Horticultural Commissioner's office. He became plant quarantine inspector at Los Angeles Harbor in 1922, where he developed a vast number of friends, particularly among the marine profession where he administered exacting State and Federal laws with broad human sympathy, and his passing has brought sorrow to shipping ranks.

He is survived by his widow, Alice E. Newcomer of 1236 West Eighth street, San Pedro; his mother, Carletta B. Newcomer of Glendale; a sister, Olive M. Newcomer of Glendale, and a brother, John A. Newcomer of Santa Ana.

Shriner Ill at Ambassador is Now Recovering

Lieut.-Gov. Van Orman of Indiana has been ill at the Ambassador Hotel for two weeks. His condition now is considerably improved, according to Dr. Louie Felger, the house physician, and he soon will be able to resume normal life. He has been able to be up for several days, it was said.

The Lieutenant-Governor is a Potentate of the Shrine order at Evansville, Ind., where he and his father are wealthy hotel operators, and together they came here late in May for the national Shrine convention in June.

MUSIC TRADES END SESSION

Election of Officers Concludes Biltmore Convention; H. S. Carroll Discusses Turnover

Election of officers yesterday concluded the first annual convention of the Western Music Trades Association, which has been in session at the Biltmore for the last three days, the following being chosen to manage the affairs of the organization during the ensuing year: Ed Kelly, Seattle, president; P. T. Clay, San Francisco, first vice-president; Ed Uhl, Los Angeles, second vice-president; R. E. Robinson, Seattle, treasurer.

The secretary of the association will be chosen by the officers. The new board of directors ,also elected yesterday, is composed as follows:

TALKS ON TURNOVER

Yesterday's program was devoted largely to business methods in the music trades, one of the principal addresses along this line being delivered by H. S. Carroll, publicity director of the Broadway Department Store of Los Angeles, who spoke on turnover.

"Turnover has a vital bearing on profits, but in spite of this fact there are many merchants who do not really understand the meaning of the term," said Mr. Carroll. "There are two methods of figuring out this important element in merchandising, both giving practically the same results. The first is by dividing the sales at retail for a given period by the average stock at retail for the same period. The other is by dividing the actual sales at cost by the average stock at cost."

The successful merchant today figures his turnover in advance, using care to set it at a reasonable figure he may be reasonably certain to accomplish it, Mr. Carroll said. The approximate turnover in the music trade, he pointed out, is about two and one-half times a year on talking machines, twice on records and rolls, twice on pianos and piano players and two and one-half times on sheet music. He added that turnover is affected by poor selection of merchandise, errors in quantity purchasing, overbalanced stock and by carrying too many price lines.

Different phases of the radio business also came in discussion at yesterday's program, the principal address on the subject being delivered by E. C. Mills of New York, representing the Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

A point suggested by Mr. Mills was that in the course of development of radio the maintenance of programs of entertainment will involve ever-increasing expenditures, of which the recipient of the service will be reasonably required to pay a part.

In this connection Mr. Mills pointed out that $350,000,000 for radio sets was spent last year, which is more than half the total sum spent for all forms of music and musical instruments combined.

"Radio has grown to these proportions in only three years," said Mr. Mills, "whereas music and musical instruments have reached the stage they occupy today through the development of centuries.

"I believe the radio to be one of the greatest single contributions to the welfare of mankind ever made by science. It will teach a universal language, will do more than any other agency to prevent wars, and is destined to become one of the most powerful influences in education."

The importance of advertising in the music trades was stressed by N. C. Wilson, advertising manager of Sherman, Clay & Co. of San Francisco.

"The piano business in the last ten years has not increased, and for this situation the piano dealer can largely blame himself," declared Mr. Wilson. "He has been extracting sales as a miner extracts ore, whereas he should have been harvesting sales as a farmer harvests crops, with due regard for sowing and fertilizing.

"There is nothing about a piano that the public recognizes as a necessity. Before it can be sold a demand must be created for it by such advertising as will make the customer realize that he wants it. Too many piano advertisers stress a low price alone. That may appeal to persons who know they want a piano, but has no effect on the one who doesn't know it. The aim of the advertiser of musical instruments should be to create a desire for his goods. Price lure and 'bait' advertising will not accomplish results. Sincerity should be used in price advertising. 'Baits' should never be resorted to, and every advertisement should include something tending to acquaint the public with piano desirability."

NEWS OF THE CAFES

Cullen Landis, popular star of the silver sheet, will be guest of honor at the Greenwich Village Cafe in the Christie Hotel, Hollywood, tonight, and will judge the dancing contest and award all prizes. In the Landis party there is to be several prominent film celebrities and reservations have already been made by a score or more of the motion-picture stars attending the world premiere of "The Gold Rush," and a majority of these have granted permission to Anteo Agreci, owner-manager of the Hollywood cabaret, to permit the master of ceremony to introduce everyone of prominence to the audience. First prize to be awarded to the prize-winning dancing couple will be a season pass to the new Beverly Theater, recently completed by the Hollywood Theaters, Inc.

The last official act of Harry M. Miller before he started on his eastern tour of inspection of metropolitan cafes and cabarets was to outfit his entire staff of waiters with picturesque summer uniforms. The servitors under command of Maitre d'hotel Fred Biau are now wearing black silk suits, embroidered in gold with the official crest of the Cafe Lafayette. With the waiters cooly clad, green shrubbery lining the dining and dancing hall, and the breezes from the lake in Westlake Park wafting in through the windows, the Lafayette management claims to have one of the coolest restaurants in Southern California.

Court Grants Injunction in Tax Argument

An order restraining the assessor of Kern county from attaching possessory interests and physical property of the Elk Hills Petroleum Company and the Pan American Petroleum Company in the Elk Hills oil field for $66,037.64 in taxes due for 1924, has been signed by Federal Judge McCormick and filed in Federal District Court.

The order also instructs the Kern county assessor to show cause on Monday why a preliminary injunction should not be issued.

Affairs of the two oil companies have been administered by Rear-Admiral Harry H. Rousseau and J. Crampton Anderson, president of the Pan American Petroleum Company, Federal receivers appointed following the filing of the government's suit to cancel the Elk Hills leases to Edward L. Doheny's organization.

POSTMEN CONCLUDE PICNIC ARRANGEMENTS

Final details for the annual picnic of the Los Angeles letter carriers to be held at Echo Park, July Fourth, were made known yesterday in an announcement by J. O. Shaw, president of the local Letter Carriers' Association. The day's program will commence with brief patriotic exercises in which members of the City Council will assist. Following will be a number of field and track events for children as well as grown persons, and a ball game between two local teams of letter carriers. An open-air vaudeville show and dancing until midnight are also promised. Luncheon will be served to all those holding tickets. Proceeds of the picnic will go to the sick and death benefit and the organization's band of forty pieces, which will play several concerts during the day and evening.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

FOREIGN TRADE AT PORT GAINS

Upward Trend Indicated by New Bookings

Dozen Carriers to Arrive on Maiden Trips

Record Activity in Harbor History Forecast

An upward trend of unusual proportions is noticed in Los Angeles' foreign sea commerce, with twelve ships scheduled to arrive on their maiden voyages alone, among the more than 100 offshore carriers at berth or en route to the port from all corners of the world. Shipping men declare that the next few months will witness one of the greatest activities in foreign cargo trade the port has ever experienced.

The scope of the incoming flood of commerce is graphically noted in the wide range of services in which the twelve newcomers will operate regularly out of Los Angeles and other Pacific Coast ports.

Among this list the only vessel flying the American flag is of particular interest.

AMERICAN FREIGHTER

She is the Shipping Board freighter, Eclipse, one of the largest electrically driven merchantmen afloat, and regarded as the most efficient unit of her type on the seas. The Eclipse, from New York and Philadelphia, is coming direct to this port in the service of the American Pioneer Line. The Eclipse, of 12,000 tons deadweight, will load out here for the Orient.

Leading the list of foreigners en route are the new Swedish motor liners, Axel Johnson and Arnie Johnson, just completed for the North Europe-Pacific service of the Johnson Line. They embody the latest developments in Diesel-driven cargo carriers, with refrigerator equipment for the transport of Pacific Coast fruits and accommodations for approximately 100 cabin passengers each. The new motor liners will increase the Johnson Line fleet to thirteen ships.

ITALIAN CARRIERS

Other vessels listed to arrive here on their maiden calls include the new Italian motor ships, Carlo and Fella, the former inaugurating the Pacific Coast-Mediterranean-Adriatic service of the Navigazione Libera Triestina, in which nine new motorships will operate.

Others are the British steamer Farnworth, from the Tyne, with a full cargo for Balfour Guthrie; the Japanese steamers Florida Maru and Kinkasan Maru, also from the Tyne for the same operators; the German tramp steamer Heinz Horn, from London and North Europe with a cargo of general freight for Flood Brothers; the new British motor tanker, Otokia, launched last February in Scotland, and now en route here to load her initial cargo for the new owners, the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand; the British steamer Salmonpool, loading at Antwerp with a full cargo of chalk and cement for Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco; and the new Norwegian tank motor ship, Norganger, which operates between Los Angeles and London in gasoline trade for the General Petroleum Corporation.

The Otokia was built to replace the British tank steamer Orowaiti, the hulk of which still lies on the rocks at Point Sal, where she ran aground while en route from New Zealand to Port San Luis last September.

Last year the United States bought $100,000,000 worth of produce from the Philippine Islands and sold goods to the value of $66,000,000, Judge John W. Haussermann, vice-president of the American Chamber of Commerce of the islands told the convention. This was 64 per cent of the total trade of the Philippines.

The future of American trade in the islands, Judge Haussermann continued, depends upon agricultural development. This is at present retarded because of restrictions placed on land ownership and an uncertain political status in the islands.

SAN PEDRO CHAMBER ELECTS DIRECTORATE

Directors of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, regarded as the unofficial "city fathers" of that port community, were elected yesterday, nine of the old board of seven members being returned to office for another year. L. S. Anderson, cashier of the First National Bank of San Pedro, and O. M. C. Greve, district manager for the Southern Counties Gas Company, are the new members, succeeding Joseph Frishman and C. B. Hollingsworth, who had declined to run following their nomination two weeks ago. Members returned to office include A. E. Henning, W. P. Tanner, P. Ingalls, W. Mee, Ray Mitchell, J. A. Elliott, T. L. Baker, J. H. Rouge and J. H. Dodson, Jr. The election is said to indicate the unanimous retention of Bor Beeler, veteran secretary of the organization. With the City Hall twenty-three miles away from Los Angeles, the chamber has regarded as the community's nearest approach to municipal authority where the community's problems are threshed out. Beeler is the chief executive director to the City Council and commissions uptown. The new board will take office and elect officers July 1.

George Frits, messman, leaped overboard to his death from the Munson Line intercoastal freighter Mundelta, on the 23rd inst., while that vessel was en route here from New York, it was reported by Capt. B. F. Smith, on arrival of the vessel yesterday. Capt. Smith's official report stated that the messman "showed signs of insanity the 16th and was locked up. The night of the 23rd while being fed by the steward, he escaped and jumped over the side." The captain reported he immediately turned his ship around and lowered a life boat, searching for an hour, but futilely. Frits's mother, Mrs. Emilie Jensen, lives at Frederiksberg, Denmark.

The Panama Pacific Intercoastal liner Mongolia, making her fastest passage from the East Coast, is due in San Pedro from New York at 10 a.m. today, and will dock at Los Angeles Harbor at 8 a.m. tomorrow. Heretofore the Panama Pacific liners have been arriving at sunset on Saturdays. The vessel has 400 passengers aboard, more than 200 of whom are booked to disembark at Los Angeles.

FREDERICKS DUE ON GLOBE-GIRDLING LINER

Congressman John D. Fredericks and Mrs. Fredericks are aboard the globe-circling Dollar liner President Monroe, due here from New York the morning of the 29th inst., with a hundred passengers, many of whom are continuing around the world. Other passengers include Piere E. Haner of Portland, Or., one of the commissioners of the United States Shipping Board, and Mrs. Haner; Mrs. M. Fuller and Winston Fuller, and Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Fulton, all of Los Angeles. Theodore Noyes, editor of the Washington Evening Star, and Mrs. Noyes; Miss Lillian Miller, en route to Kobe to join her father, American Consul at Seoul, Korea, and Mrs. Ward Fenton, New York society woman, who will debark here.

While the Harbor Commission was granting a lease yesterday to the Playground Commission, of land outside the breakwater for Cabrillo Beach, a proposal was advanced to locate the bathing and pleasure park in a new place, 4000 feet northwest from Point Fermin lighthouse. The proposal will be placed before the Playground Commission next week. The new site, it is said, would obviate objections of property owners, as pertains to the breakwater site, and the difficulties of an approach to the latter location. A 900-foot jetty would cause the elements to build a natural sandy beach behind it on the new site, it is said, and premises of much land from George Peck along the shores are said to have been made.

With the arrival yesterday of sixty tons of albacore and with only a third of the albacore fleet at sea, orders were issued last night sending several hundred more of the craft out, while thirteen local canners and six at San Diego were operating up. The season is said to be two weeks ahead of last year, and more than a month ahead of the average year.

The C. T. Bowling tanker El Grillo, Capt. A. P. Burliz, will arrive from Chile early this morning, and proceed to the Los Angeles shipyards for boiler cleaning and minor repairs requiring two days.
